NEW DEALERS IN STEP TO SET U. S. DEBT RECORD

Plan to Float Loan of 800 Million.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 3.—[Special.]—The New Dealers tonight took the step which within less than two weeks will have plunged the government more deeply into debt than ever before in its history.

In order to meet the heavy expenditures of the New Deal, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. announced that the government must float immediately a new 800 million dollar loan. The loan, added to those already outstanding, will push the government's debt up to the record breaking peak of 27 billion dollars.

Sets New High Mark.

Even at its height during the war and post-war periods the government's debt never had achieved this total. Its previous high water mark was 26 billion 597 million dollars, reached on Aug. 31, 1919, the treasury's records showed tonight.

Two series of bonds will be offered for sale by the treasury immediately in order to raise the needed 800 million dollars, Secretary Morgenthau announced. The bonds will be issued formally on June 15, he said, and on that date the government's debt actually will mount to 26 billion 918 million dollars.

The new bonds will be of two types. One series, amounting to 300 million dollars, will be 12-14 year bonds and will carry 3 per cent interest. The other series, amounting to 500 million dollars, will mature in five years and carry 2½ per cent interest. Bonds of the 3 per cent series will be offered in $50 denominations to attract the savings of small investors, Secretary Morgenthau revealed.

New Bonds Planned.

Besides the bonds floated to raise fresh cash for the treasury, Secretary Morgenthau explained, the government will issue new bonds to any person who holds one of the treasury certificates maturing June 15 or one of the treasury notes maturing Aug. 1. Since there are 520 million dollars' worth of these certificates and notes outstanding, this exchange offer may require the treasury to issue that sum in new bonds in addition to the 800 million dollars' worth floated for cash. But the exchange bonds, since they merely will replace other obligations, will not increase the net public debt.

A total public debt of 32 billion dollars is anticipated by President Roosevelt before the New Deal comes to the end of its spending program. In other words, the debt is to mount another five billions beyond its June 15 mark, breaking all previous records by 5½ billions.

36 Billion Peak.

To this total, however, must be added 2 billion dollars in government guaranteed federal land bank bonds and 2 billion dollars in government guaranteed Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds, which are being issued for mortgage refunding purposes. They will bring the grand total debt at its peak up to 36 billions.

About a billion and a half of these farm and home bonds already are outstanding. The treasury because of its double set of books, however, does not show them as part of the public debt. If the official statements included them the debt on June 15 would be reported as 28¾ billions instead of 27 billions.

The New Dealers have already added 6 billion dollars to the public debt in the 14 months since the Roosevelt administration came into power. When the Democrats took office the public debt amounted to about 21 billions.

Reflects Deficit.

This increase in the government's indebtedness reflects entirely the government's operating deficit; in other words, the excess of expenditures over receipts as the billions in easy money rolled out of the treasury. Since the money for these excess expenditures could not be raised by taxes, the treasury has had to borrow it, adding it onto the public debt.

Why the treasury should feel so hard pressed that it must borrow 800 million dollars at this time Secretary Morgenthau did not explain. The government now has a cash balance of 2 billion dollars on hand. At the current rate of expenditures, which is considerably slower than the rate a few weeks ago, this 2 billion should last some time.

Applications for the new bonds will be received by the treasury, the federal reserve banks, or their branches. Commercial banks usually are authorized to act as agents for their customers in buying the bonds. The bonds will be tax exempt.

MUST'VE PLOWED UP SOMETHING

Ald. F. J. Corr, Former Acting Mayor, Is Dead

Democrats Act.

Following Ald. Corr's death last night the Democratic organization took steps to prevent a mixup in today's election by having the voters write in the name of Cornelius J. Harrington for Circuit court vacancy in place of the name of Mr. Corr, who is Democratic coalition candidate. Page 7.

On the eve of his certain election as a judge of the Circuit court Ald. Frank J. Corr of the 17th ward, who was acting mayor of Chicago for a month after the death of Mayor Cermak, died last night at the Presbyterian hospital.

At his bedside were his wife, Mary, and his friend, Coroner Frank J. Walsh. They had been there all day while Ald. Corr remained in a coma, brought on by complications arising from a diabetic condition. The Corr home is at 507 Englewood avenue.

Although the alderman, a Democrat, who had served his ward for two terms, was pushed into prominence by his selection as acting mayor, his great ambition was to become a judge. When he was taken to the hospital on May 20 he knew this ambition could be thwarted only by death, for his name was on the uncontested coalition ticket for Circuit court judge at today's election.

In Ill Health for Years.

Even while he was acting mayor more than a year ago, Ald. Corr was in ill health. He suffered from diabetes, but under the constant pressure of his duties at that critical time he was unable to obtain the rest advised by his physician, Dr. Arthur W. Colwell. He confided to friends that he would welcome election to the bench because it would relieve him of his arduous ward tasks.

The alderman was 57 years old and he had been in politics for the last 21 years. He was a graduate of the Kent College of Law, where he was a classmate of Gov. Horner. His first political job was that of assistant corporation counsel in 1902.

He left this position to become a law partner of Superior Judge Walter T Stanton, but returned to the corporation counsel's office during the regime of Mayor Dever.

Becomes Precinct Captain.

While he was in the corporation counsel's office Ald. Corr was active in his ward. He became a precinct captain and in 1931 was elected alderman. He was reëlected after the Municipal Voters' league had indorsed him as an "independent, sincere, aggressive, and hard worker."

In March, 1933, after Mayor Cermak's death, Ald. Corr reluctantly permitted the city council to elect him acting mayor.

Six weeks ago the Democratic county central committee selected him as the coalition nominee for the Circuit court vacancy of Judge Philip L. Sullivan, who resigned to accept an appointment to the federal bench.

Ald. Corr was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., but his family came to Chicago when he was 12 years old. His father, Frank V. Corr, a chewing gum manufacturer, died four weeks ago. Survivors, besides Mrs. Corr, are two brothers, Thomas, a South Park policeman, and John, secretary of the Catholic Order of Foresters, and five sisters, Agnes, Matilda, Margaret, Katherine, and Mrs. May Cody.

NORTH SIDE GARAGE OF MOTOR COACH CO. TARGET OF 2 BOMBS

Two dynamite bombs were exploded 30 seconds apart early today at the north side garage of the Chicago Motor Coach company at 1124 Rosemont avenue. One of the bombs tore a hole in the roof, and the other was thrown through a window. Eleven large coaches stored in the garage were damaged and the entire neighborhood was jarred. Damage was estimated at not more than $1,500 by G. J. Wainwright, assistant superintendent of equipment. There were twenty employés on duty at the time, but the most they suffered was a jolting.

Company officials said they were mystified by the bombings and denied that labor troubles were probably responsible. Lieut. Axel Jensen of the Summerdale station insisted, however, that labor troubles existed and suggested the motive might be found in them. A police detail was only recently removed from the garage, he said.

The coach drivers have their own company union. A strong effort has been made in recent months by the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America to gain control of the workers, but the company has refused to recognize the outside organization.

Bottoms 'Up' Is Correct; Up 86 Stories, in Fact

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—What is said to be the "world's highest bar" will open tomorrow on the 86th floor of the Empire State building, it was said by former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, president of the corporation. It will be 1,045 feet above the sidewalk. In applying to the state alcoholic beverage control board for the license, a photograph of the exterior of the premises was necessary.

Beat Up 'Spike' O'Donnell in Street Battle

Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, erstwhile south side beer boss, but now a civic reformer, lecturer on crime and coal merchant, lay in a private room in the Englewood hospital last night ruefully reflecting on the well established irony of fate.

For nearly 13 years during the prohibition era O'Donnell had escaped one attempted assassination after another. Even machine gunners couldn't get him out, and it was generally believed that O'Donnell bore a charmed life. But his luck deserted him last night. O'Donnell got into a common street brawl. His hip was fractured in the fight.

Son Plays the Hero.

The brawl was a fast and furious one, in which O'Donnell's 17 year old son, Patrick, a six footer, played the hero role. It took place at Ashland avenue and 73d street. The accounts of the affray vary, but all versions agree that O'Donnell, his wife, Elizabeth, and their children, Patrick, Dorothy, 15, and Reta, 11, were driving south in a new car when another machine containing three men cut them off.

According to one eyewitness, O'Donnell bounced out of his car and advanced on the three men. They got out, and then proceeded, in businesslike fashion, to give him a beating, kicking him when he fell to the pavement. O'Donnell's husky son then went to the rescue. He charged into the three hoodlums, knocked two to the pavement, and then started in to whip the third. O'Donnell's 15 year old daughter Dorothy, joined the fray and got smacked in the face. Then the hoodlums fled.

Spike's Story Differs.

O'Donnell's account is somewhat different.

"Those eggs in the car had sidewiped me a couple of times," he said. "Finally they challenged me, so I got out of my car and said: 'If trouble is what you want, brothers, here's a customer.' So I knocke one guy down, and Paddy knocked down another. The third fellow ran. I chased him, tripped and fractured my hip. And here I am."

And there O'Donnell was—in a hospital bed, where countless of his enemies, unable to send him to the morgue, would have been glad to send him as the next best thing. The hip fracture is serious, coupled with other injuries received in the fight, and it is expected that O'Donnell will remain in the hospital six weeks.

What's bothering O'Donnell most, however, is he won't be able now to go to London, as he has been planning, to deliver public lectures on crime.

HAVANA UPSET BY TERRORISTS; FEAR REVOLT

HAVANA, June 3.—(AP)—Thousands of machine gun and rifle shots kept the fashionable Vedado section of Havana in a state of nervous tension today as the national government seemed to be moving toward another crisis.

Terrorists were firing into the air, apparently to cause excitement and to call attention to a growing breach between civil and military authorities. None was injured and apparently the unidentified disturbers were firing at no one in particular.

The new challenge to the authority of President Carlos Mendieta was precipitated by the resignation of his secretary, Emeterio Santo Venia, who is a member of the cabinet.

Military Dictatorship Looms.

He withdrew from the government because there are unmistakable signs of an approach of a military dictatorship, Santo Venia said today.

"If the country wants to live under the heel of the military boot, it is all right with me, but the moment has arrived when the government must define itself," he said. "It must be either one thing, or another—either military or civil."

The new division in the troubled affairs of Cuba was brought about by the insistence of Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the army, that the government take stringent measures to suppress terrorism.

Protests Against Freeing Man.

He protested against freeing a man who was arrested in connection with the discovery of a fifty pound bomb. It was understood that persons influential in the government urged release of the man. Col. Batista, it was reported in official circles, sent a note to the presidential palace urging the man be held.

It was learned from an authoritative source that Col. Batista is willing to make concessions for the sake of tranquility, but that he remains opposed to liberation of persons accused of terrorism merely because they are members of influential political or semi-secret revolutionary organizations.

(Only last Tuesday plenipotentiaries of the United States and Cuba signed a treaty abrogating the famous Platt amendment. The amendment had authorized the United States to intervene in the affairs of Cuba for the protection of the iland and the preservation of order. The treaty was ratified by the senate two days later.)

TROOPS LEAVE PALACE

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, June 3.—President Carlos Mendieta tonight faces his greatest cabinet crisis due to the rupture of relations and ill feeling between the civil administration and the military power under Col. Fulgencio Batista. Batista has ordered palace troops withdrawn. He also ordered the immediate mobilization of all troops.

The rupture was precipitated by civil and military elements, authoritatively reported to be led by former President Mario G. Menocal and ex-officers of the army.

Following a conference between President Mendieta and Menocal at the palace yesterday, Menocal issued the following statement:

"I consider the iland on the verge of a volcano. The situation is very grave. I am not satisfied with Mendieta's handling of public affairs."

Ex-Officers Persecuted.

Menocal and Mendieta severed their friendship and political coöperation when the former protested against the army's alleged persecutions and incarcerations of ex-officers of the army without due process of law and proof. He charged they were imprisoned on mere suspicion of conspiracy.

Menocal told the president that the former officers lost their careers through a futile effort to oust President Ramon Grau San Martin in October, 1933, an effort which was followed by similar ones which ultimately made possible Mendieta's rise to the presidency. He demanded protection and cessation of the persecutions.

Meanwhile Col. Batista fears that Menocal, with 460 former officers and a large number of opponents of the civil and military government, may effect a successful coup d'etat.

As a result Batista adopted secret and extraordinary precautions not only to frustrate Menocal's reported conspiracy but to beat him to the game and establish a military dictatorship the moment he deems Mendieta's civil administration is unable to check Menocal's plans.

Fr. O'Donnell, Notre Dame's President, Dies

The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., eleventh president of Notre Dame university, died at 1:50 o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's hospital, South Bend, Ind. He was conscious to the end. His sister, Mrs. R. A. Lundgren, of Kokomo; Chaplain James French, and the Rev. John F. O'Hara, acting president of Notre Dame, were at his bedside.

Father O'Donnell was 47 years old and one of the youngest heads of a major college. He became ill in March, 1933, of a streptococcus infection in the throat and left lung. He rallied and soon afterward was believed to be out of danger. However, the infection spread to the intestines, and from that time on he ceased his activities.

His last public appearance was on June 4, 1933, one year ago today, at the annual commencement exercises, when he bestowed the Laetare medal on John McCormack, Irish singer.

DEFENDER OF SPORTS

Father Charles L. O'Donnell, known as the poet president of Notre Dame, first gained widespread public attention as the leading defender of college football during the years of ascendency of Notre Dame teams under Knute Rockne.

The Notre Dame president assailed college professors who asserted that football was debauching education. He pleaded that the sport was a natural and necessary adjunct to healthy college life and termed the game a robust development for American youth, even for those who did not participate.

Honored for War Services.

Father O'Donnell was United States provincial of the Holy Cross in 1920 and assistant superior general in 1926. For his services as a chaplain on the Italian front during the world war the King of Italy made him a Chevalier of the Order of Crown of Italy in 1931. Among the better known poems of Father O'Donnell are "Newman's Gentleman," "The Dead Musician," and "A Rime of the Rood and Other Poems."

Born at Greenfield, Ind., Nov. 15, 1884, Father O'Donnell received his college training at Notre Dame and also studied at Harvard and the Catholic University of America. He was ordained in 1910 and taught English at Notre Dame until 1928. In that year Father O'Donnell became president of the university.

Expands University Facilities.

He immediately launched a $5,000,000 expansion program. During his régime as president new buildings appeared on the campus, the stadium was built and the enrollment increased. He added extensive equipment for students in law, commerce and engineering.

A polished and clever speaker, Father O'Donnell was in constant demand as an orator. He recently accepted an invitation to deliver the principal address at the national collegiate meeting to be held in Chicago next December. One of his widely quoted utterances was made during his funeral sermon over the body of Knute Rockne.

"In the age of the go-getter," Father O'Donnell said, "Rockne was a go-giver."

During his term as president Father O'Donnell broadened the academic contact of Notre Dame with the outside world. It was his announced aim to make Notre Dame the seat of American Catholic culture.

RAINS RELIEVE DROUTH AREAS; HOPE FOR MORE

With scattered rains throughout the north central states last night and a forecast of further showers throughout the entire region today, prospects that the disastrous drouth might be broken appeared better than at any time since it became acute on April 1.

However, it was pointed out by agricultural experts, if continued and copious rains did break the drouth, it could not overcome the staggering losses to wheat, corn and hay crops and to other vegetation and gardens.

For the 64 day period the drouth and heat waves have parched crops and pastures throughout the corn and wheat belts. Early crops were doomed in many regions, and late crops are still periled unless hard rains fall.

More Rain Forecast.

W. P. Day, government forecaster, appeared more optimistic last night that the end of the drouth might be in sight than forecasters have been for the last two months.

"The showers forecast for today may not be general, but they will fall in many areas," he said, "and it looks more favorable at present for a continued spell of rain than at any time since April 1. While I cannot definitly say there will be a wet spell, it is certain that things are not going to dry up so quickly this time."

The welcome rains fell last night over nearly two-thirds of Illinois in the west central and northwest portions.

Soaking rainfall was reported in the extreme western and eastern borders of Nebraska and in the central and southern sections of North Dakota yesterday, the sun parched wheat lands lapping up the precipitation greedily.

Precipitation Is Widespread.

Other states in the parched wheat and corn belts to report rainfalls of varying degrees were South Dakota, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Missouri, and Iowa. The fall in these parts, however, was widely scattered.

Chicago did not receive any rain yesterday, but early today slight showers fell in scattered sections of the city. They were accompanied by heavy thunder and lightning.

At Aurora the coöperative weather station reported a precipitation of .97 of an inch. Within an hour the temperature dropped from 103 degrees to 78 degrees. The thunder and lightning in the region were the heaviest of the year, it was reported.

At Rockford showers fell for half an hour and at Lena, 45 miles west of Rockford, the rain was so heavy that motorists could not see their way along the highways.

Elgin Gets .36 of an Inch.

At Elgin, Ill., the precipitation was .36 of an inch and the temperature dropped from 101½ degrees to 70 degrees. Heavy rainfalls were reported throughout McHenry county.

A driving rain late yesterday afternoon broke the long drouth at Galesburg, in Knox county. The downpour lasted over an hour. Reports from towns in nearby counties indicated precipitation was widespread in this section.

At Peoria the official precipitation was .40 of an inch and at Springfield it was .28 of an inch.

Rapid City, S. D., reported a precipitation of .62 of an inch. Other readings throughout the corn and wheat belts were: Oklahoma City, Okla., .24; Bismarck, N. D., .20; Huron, S. D., .12; Charles City, Ia., .03; Kansas City, Mo., .06, and Omaha, Neb., .04.

Heavy Fall in Canada.

General rains over the week-end broke a 13 day drouth and heat wave in the vast grain reaches of Canada, according to dispatches from Winnipeg last night.

The rainfall extended across southern Alberta and Saskatchewan and into Manitoba. However, only scattered showers fell in parts of southern Manitoba, where the soil still remains parched and dry.

Additional rain is still badly needed, but fear of greater destruction of crops was allayed for the present.

The drouth and high temperatures throughout the north central states continued to wither crops yesterday. With the arrival of the showers in the evening the temperatures dropped. The heat wave is expected to continue in the central valleys today with only negligible changes in temperature after the showers.

In Chicago the heat was again averted yesterday by cooling breezes from Lake Michigan. A few minutes' drive from the loop west brought [illegible] from cool, comfortable temperatures to the sweltering upper 90's.

The official temperature at noon here was 71 degrees. At 3 p. m. it reached the day's official maximum of 83 and dropped during the evening. As the lake breezes during the day failed to penetrate far inland the temperature at 4 p. m. at the municipal airport was 93 degrees, compared to a reading of 80 at this hour at the government station at the University of Chicago.

Chicago will have slightly warmer weather today with the showers expected tonight. Moderate variable winds will prevail.

At Bloomington yesterday the mercury was above 100 degrees for the fifth successive day, a reading of 101 being recorded at 3 p. m. Before the showers in restricted areas last night the central part of the state had been without a sprinkle for more than two months. Farmers in McLean county estimate their losses will extend into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The oat crop in the county is expected to be about one-fourth of the normal and the hay crop is reduced 50 per cent. More than 2,000 acres of potatoes in the county have suffered from the drouth. Oats and wheat are being plowed up in many parts of the area.

Water Shortage Serious.

Wells and ponds have dried up in several central Illinois counties and rivers are mere brooks. Lake Bloomington is two feet below the normal level. Some farmers in Sangamon county are forced to make trips to Springfield for water. At Virginia, Ill., the city council ordered people to stop watering their lawns.

Temperatures ranged from 95 to 100 degrees throughout Iowa yesterday, continuing to peril the corn crop. Brief showers which fell throughout the central part of the state were insufficient to penetrate the subsoil.

J. H. Lloyd, state drouth relief administrator for Illinois, announced in Springfield yesterday that a survey has been started to determine the extent of the drouth damage to crops and pastures throughout the state. The survey is being made in an effort to place Illinois under the new federal work program by which farmers will be employed on projects to alleviate the drouth and will be paid in cash for their work.

Relief Estimates Asked.

These projects will include development of additional water supplies through the digging of wells and the diversion of water from lakes and rivers. If Illinois is included in the program, the funds will be disbursed through the emergency relief commission. Mr. Lloyd sent telegrams to county farm officials asking estimates on live stock feed requirements of farmers who must be financed under the program.

The Illinois corn belt faces a 50 per cent loss in the crop because of the damage caused by chinch bugs, Mr. Lloyd said. Oats will only yield 10 bushels to the acre compared to the normal yield of 35 bushels an acre, he said, and a slump of 20 to 25 bushels of wheat per acre is predicted.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, said yesterday that the possibility of a food shortage is "exceedingly remote" despite the ravages of the heat and drouth. The carryover of wheat and other grains will forestall this possibility, Mr. O'Neal said, and it is not likely wheat will have to be imported from Argentina as had been feared.

Throughout the period of the drouth wheat and other early crops, such as oats and barley, have been the ones to suffer.

Vast Wheat Crops Abandoned.

Federal officials estimated that wheat abandonment in the region was approximating 1,000,000 bushels a day. The chinch bugs, brought on in increasing numbers by the dry spell, ruined the crop in many areas. The wheat yield is not expected to be more than one-half the normal this season.

While crops were deteriorating, pastures and wells and rivers through the middle west have been drying up in the continued drouth and heat waves. Favorable pasture land was becoming so scarce in the Dakotas that water holes were at a premium. Many farmers, unable to find feed for their live stock, were throwing the animals on the market at ruinous prices.

Late crops, such as corn, were slow in germinating and nowhere near the normal yield was in prospect unless heavy rains occurred.

Cloudburst in Georgia.

Macon, Ga., June 3.—(AP)—What middle Georgia observers termed the "worst cloudburst ever seen" in this section struck between Macon and Perry late yesterday, caused unestimated crop damage and tied up highway trafic for almost two hours.

Motorists reported last night that water stood three feet deep on the highway near Echeconnee, ten miles from Macon.

ROOSEVELT BACK TODAY; TO RUSH DROUTH RELIEF

Minimum of Billion to Be Required.

BULLETIN.

Hyde Park, N. Y., June 3.—(AP)—President Roosevelt boarded his special train late tonight to return to Washington after passing the day at his home here.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will return to Washington tomorrow to face in new and aggravated forms the perplexities of man in coping with nature's laws.

On the one hand is the problem of dealing with the calamity of drouth in 35 states which is wreaking untold privation and misery upon the agricultural population, threatening the entire country with a food shortage and making a mockery of man-made devices for curtailing crop production and other tinkerings with the natural law of supply and demand.

On the other hand is the problem of industrial strife in the manufacture of basic commodities, the factors of which challenge the underlying principles of the Roosevelt recovery program and the New Deal. The dangers in this quarter have been but partially and temporarily moderated by the calling off of the strike in the textile mills set for tomorrow. There remains the threat of a strike in the steel industry on June 10 which the President will endeavor to avert.

Finally Realizes Danger.

With the western prairies parched beneath a pitiless sun as the rainless spring merges into summer, with water supplies running low, with cattle starving and with the very soil blowing away, the administration, after minimizing the catastrophe for several weeks, has been galvanized into activity to do what it may against this unprecedented visitation of misfortune.

The Federal Emergency Relief administration has begun the distribution of relief funds in states where suffering already is acute and a committee of congress is preparing to submit a relief program this week that probably will call for an appropriation of a billion dollars or more for relief of drouth victims.

Nobody knows whether even this vast sum will be sufficient for the purpose unless rain soon descends plentifully. It may be necessary in the end for the President to divert funds from the depression relief allotment about to be voted to him under which he will have available between 2½ and 6 million dollars.

Billion Dollars Minimum.

"Unless the drouth should be decisively broken in the next few days, 1 billion dollars, in my opinion, will be the minimum of the amount required for relief of the destitute in the wheat and corn belts" said Senator Henrik Shipstead [F. L., Minn.], chairman of the conference of senators and representatives of agricultural states that came into being yesterday to deal with the drouth problem.

The President is expected to call a conference of department of agriculture, relief officials, and congress leaders on drouth measures as soon as he returns.

Surrendering little by little to the superior forces of nature, the administration is relaxing restrictions imposed on farmers in the effort to repeal the law of supply and demand which was initiated when granaries were bursting. Confronted with the ironical spectacle of cattle and hogs and other animals going without sufficient food in the shadow of corn cribs filled, but sealed against use, under the terms of the corn-hog crop reduction loans by the government, the AAA has decreed that the cribs may be unsealed on payment of the loans.

Plan Other Modifications.

Other modifications of the administration scheme for enforcing a curtailment of production that nature is now attending to are under consideration.

The weather during the next two weeks is the key to the problem—the damage done to crops and the families left without a means of livelihood as a result of destruction of their crops—J. B. Kincer of the United States weather bureau pointed out. If rain does not come to the middle west, not only will that area be destitute, but, according to W. C. Coffey, federal farm relief director for a dozen of the states, there will be a national food shortage in this country later in the year.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rexford Guy Tugwell, acting for Secretary Wallace, now making a personal inspection of the drouth area, expressed surprise at Coffey's statement and pointed out that the large surpluses of grain now in the country would be sufficient to feed the nation without thinking of importing foodstuffs or feed.

Wheat Must Have Rain.

Kincer, however, pointed out that both winter and spring wheat are entering the most critical stage of their growth.

"Pastures and hay crops are already scorched in many places, and small feed grains, such as oats and barley, must get rain within a few days if rain is to do any good," Kincer continued. "Corn still has a chance, rains within the next week or ten days could help the corn crop.

"Ordinarily, the last half of June and the month of July is the critical time for corn. However, delay of germination beyond the middle of June endangers the corn crop from an early frost this fall."

Kincer said, "In area covered and moisture deficiency this drouth surpasses any on record for the United States," adding that "the only other one to which this could be compared is the one of 1894, which occurred early in the season."

Seeks Steel Peace.

When the President turns his attention to conditions in industry it will be to deal with the threatened strike over recognition by the steel companies of the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers as the representative of the employés in collective bargaining. Gen. Johnson stated in his letter to the President transmitting the revision of the steel code that the steel companies have violated the law guaranteeing to labor the right of collective bargaining.

The attitude of the textile workers union has directed attention anew to the principles of the Roosevelt recovery program. The President set out to revive business by the increasing purchasing power of consumers. One of the devices for increasing purchasing power was the reduction of the hours of labor and the increase of wages. Under this plan more men would be employed and they would receive more pay. More people would have more money to spend and what they spent would start more factory wheels turning.

Works for a While.

This brain trust theory of the mechanics of recovering prosperity worked succesfully up to a certain point. More persons got jobs. Unemployment was considerably reduced. They got more for their work and they spent their pay buying what they had been compelled to deny themselves before. But at this point the brain trust theory ran head on against one of those immutable economic laws which theorists have been unable to repeal.

The decreased hours of labor and the increased pay of workers operated to raise the cost of production. Manufacturers were therefore impelled to charge more for the articles they produce in order to make a profit.

The only difficulty was that as prices went up buying fell off. People either would not or could not pay the increased charges. Demand for commodities slackened or failed to come up to expectations and factories found they were overproducing and piling up a surplus that was a drug on the market. Confronted with a dissappearance of profits and the menace of great losses, manufacturers began to curtail operations.

NURSES AND TROOPS FIGHT DROUTH FIRES ON BRITISH HEATHS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 3.—Two hundred soldiers, nurses, hikers and motorists joined forces to fight a series of fires on heaths and in forests of drouth-parched Britain today. The most serious heath blaze was at Waggener's Wells, a Hampshire beauty spot. Fifteen hundred troops from Borden and Aldershot were rushed to the scene in trucks.

Stripped to the waist, and wearing gas masks, the soldiers fought the flames for six hours before mastering them. Handicapped by lack of water, they hacked away at the undergrowth. An area three miles long and a mile wide was burned.

Another heath fire has been raging for more than 12 hours in Butterfly Combe, North Somerset. The flames late tonight had spread over two square miles, and trenches are being dug by volunteer fire fighters between the advancing flames and the nearby village of Holford. At Bridgwater hospital, Somerset, nurses formed a brigade to beat back a fire which threatened the building. Hundreds of motorists and pedestrians and campers also assisted a fire brigade to battle a blaze today in Churt woods, Limpsfield, Surrey.

DAUGHTER VISITS DR. WYNEKOOP IN PRISON HOSPITAL

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, who is serving a 25 year sentence in the Dwight reformatory for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, yesterday received a visit from her daughter, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop. The daughter spent an hour with her mother in the reformatory hospital. According to Miss Helen Hazzard, superintendent of the reformatory, Dr. Catherine Wynekoop made no further statements concerning her efforts at Springfield to have her mother transfered to a private hospital. After the visit Dr. Catherine Wynekoop returned to Chicago.

WOMAN STUNNED BY LIGHTNING.

McGregor, Ia., June 3.—[Special.]—While the family was partaking of Sunday's dinner, lightning struck the George Washburn brick farmhouse, at 70 year old landmark near here, and tore out the chimney and part of the walls. Mrs. Lloyd Washburn was stunned and in a critical condition for several hours.

KING GEORGE, 69; ISSUES LIST OF BIRTHDAYHONORS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 3.—The list of honors issued tonight on the occasion of King George's 69th birthday announces the creation of one viscount, four barons, one privy councillor, five baronets, and 54 knights bachelor in addition to hundreds of lesser awards.

Lord Wakefield, 75, was made a viscount "for public services, especially in civil aviation." He is governing director of the C. C. Wakefield company, an oil concern, and chief supporter of Britain's speed attempts on land, sea, and air. Sir Hugo Wirst, head of the General Electric company, Ltd., was among the newly created barons.

Among the new knights is John Wilson Taylor, secretary and treasurer of the Pilgrims. He was intimately connected with clubs and associations for American officers and soldiers during the world war.

Heading several Canadian recipients was Dr. E. C. Saunders, who discovered four varieties of wheat. He gets a knighthood. His compatriot, Dr. F. G. Banting, co-discoverer of insulin, becomes a knight commander of the Order of the British Empire.

Downstate Girl Tries to End Life in Front of Train

Miss Victoria Gregory, 19 years old, of 1414 Jackson street, Charleston, Ill., tried to end her life last night in front of a south bound Illinois Central electric train at the Van Buren street station. An alert motorman frustrated the attempt, however. As the train moved toward the platform, Miss Gregory leaped upon the tracks. P. J. McBride, the motorman, jammed on the brakes and stopped the train two feet from the girl. She was taken to St. Luke's hospital in a hysterical condition. She refused to explain her reason.

1 KILLED, 12 HURT AS PICNIC TRUCK HITS MOTOR CAR

Both Machines Overturn After Collision.

One girl was killed and twelve other youths and girls were injured when the truck in which they were riding to a picnic collided with an automobile at Calumet avenue and 77th street yesterday. The truck and the automobile overturned, flinging the occupants to the street.

Eleanor Richter, 17 years old, 6819 South Michigan avenue, a student at the Francis Parker High school, died last evening in the Jackson Park hospital. She was thrown onto a fireplug at the southeast corner of the intersection.

Two Others Seriously Hurt.

Two other passengers in the truck who were seriously injured were Richard Kerr, 18, of 6825 Indiana avenue, who suffered a broken collarbone, and Neil Sheehy, 21, of 8023 South Peoria street, who suffered a possible fracture of the spine.

The driver of the truck, Herbert Lyland, 18, 6901 Indiana avenue, and Archibald Hermann, 32, of 452 East 79th street, who was driving the automobile, were the only persons uninjured in the collision. Both were held on charges of reckless driving.

Five other Parker High school students, passengers on the truck, who were injured, are Mildred Redshaw, 18, of 49 East Marquette road; Violet Anderson, 16, of 6843 Indiana avenue; Casper Werner, 17, of 6151 Ellis avenue; Jean Kerr, 16, a sister of Richard Kerr, and Alice McDonald, 17, 6842 Perry avenue.

The other injured truck passengers are Mary Lou Moran, 20, of 7305 Harvard avenue; her sister, Eileen, 17; Harry Golus, 21, 12101 Parnell avenue; Marie Burke, 17, 7300 Harvard avenue, and James Werner, 20, a brother of Casper Werner.

Truck Borrowed for Outing.

Lyland had obtained the truck from his father for an outing at Waverley Beach, Ind. He was driving east on 77th street and Hermann was driving north on Calumet avenue when the collision occurred.

The death of Miss Richter and six others yesterday increased the Cook county traffic toll to 509 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Mrs. Dorothy Steiger, 23, of 1349 North Karlov avenue. Killed when the automobile she was driving crashed into a street car at Augusta boulevard and Crawford avenue.

Emil Puzich, 21, of 10756 Hoxie street. Died in the South Chicago hospital of injuries incurred when his automobile collided with another at 105th street and Bensley avenue.

John Dorris, 38, of 717 West 19th street. Died in the Little Company of Mary hospital after he lost control of his truck at 150th street and Crawford avenue.

Robert Sharkey, 37, 5032 Mobile avenue. Died in the Belmont hospital from injuries suffered when the automobile in which he was riding was crowded against a telephone pole by a hit and run motorist at Milwaukee avenue near Kilbourn avenue.

Walter Anderson, 24, 9431 South Racine avenue. Killed when his automobile collided with two other cars at 75th and Halsted streets. Police are searching for the drivers of the other cars who did not stop.

George McGee, 26 years old, colored, 3219 Calumet avenue. Killed when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a street car at 18th and Clark streets.

Mrs. Emma Curtis, 60, 712 Indiana avenue, Hammond, was killed when she stepped in front of a car driven by Frank Stilkowski, 22, 13344 Buffalo street, Hegewisch, at State street and Oakley avenue in Hammond. Stilkowski is being held on $2,000 bail.

The woman killed by a hit and run car in front of 4237 Sheridan road on Wednesday night was identified as Mrs. Alice Lee, 43 years old, 4217 Sheridan road, by her husband, Charles. Peter Delicati, 27, 920 Loomis street, was arrested as the driver of the car.

QUINTUPLETS ILL WITH JAUNDICE; TRIP TO FAIR OFF

Plan to Exhibit Girls Is Abandoned.

CORBEIL, Ont., June 3.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets overnight became afflicted with jaundice and Dr. A. R. Dafoe stated flatly today they must not be exhibited at Chicago's Century of Progress exposition this summer.

The five little girls, clinging to life with a tenacity that surprises physicians, today were tinged with yellow.

Doctor Not Alarmed.

Dr. Dafoe, the country practitioner who attended their birth, hastily prescribed treatment to overcome this jaundiced condition. The new state of affairs is not alarming, the physician said.

Jaundice is not unusual in infants a week old, he added, and he does not believe the complication lessens the quintuplets' chances for life.

In other respects the condition of the children, including little Marie who weighs 1 pound 12 ounces, is unchanged, Dr. Dafoe said, after a visit to the farm home of the Dionnes.

Accept Physician's Advice.

But taking the children to the Century of Progress, or anywhere outside of Ontario, would be extremely unwise and he will not consent to it, Dr. Defoe said. Mr. and Mrs. Ovila Dionne are accepting the physician's advice.

A contract with Chicago promoters, which Dionne signed, provides the babies may not be moved without the doctor's consent. Under provisions of the agreement, with which Dionne is now reported to be dissatisfied, he is to get $100 a week until mother and children are able to go to Chicago. On arrival there the pay was to be $250 a week and 30 per cent of receipts.

It was said that Dionne now believes he could have obtained better terms.

Sanborn, Ia., June 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Abe Franzen, 35, and Ray Allard, 39, both of Sibley, were killed today when their car skidded in loose gravel and crashed into a tree. Mr. Frazen was seriously injured.

FLEEING ROBBER PAIR BETRAYED BY ALARM CLOCK

When two men robbed the apartment of Mrs. Emma Proctor, 30 years old, at 1727 Lull place early yesterday they took an alarm clock with them. Mrs. Proctor, a widow with a son, 5 years old, surprised the pair at work and screamed out the window for help.

Policeman William Sife of the Racine avenue station, patroling his beat nearby, ran toward the direction of the noise. Two men were strolling casually out of an alley and Sife paused for a moment, undecided whether to question them or go to the aid of a woman in distress.

Then the alarm from the stolen clock, bulging from the hip pocket of one of the men, rang out loudly in the morning air. Sife ordered the men to stop. One obeyed and the other, who broke into a run, was shot in the left hip by Sife.

The men were taken to the lockup and identified as Walter Choran, 26 years old, 5409 Henderson street, who received the flesh wound, and Tony Papka, 30 years old, 737 Ayers court, who carried the alarm clock.

TWO ARE SLAIN IN EXTORTION TRAP; ONE BY ACCIDENT

Federal Men and Phoenix Police Break Plot.

Phoenix, Ariz., June 3.—(AP)—Two men were slain today by department of justice agents and Phoenix police after the officers had sprung a trap set for an extortionist who demanded $3,500 from S. Diamond, wealthy department store owner.

The suspected extortionist, identified as Louis Walsh, son of a woman clerk in the store, was shot down as he attempted to flee after he was alleged to have taken the money from Diamond at Second and Roosevelt streets. He was about 30 years of age.

Robert Perkins, 29, later was found mortally wounded in his bed on the screened porch of his home near the intersection where the shooting took place. He was an innocent victim of the shotgun and pistol fire.

"Purely an Accident."

Although agents here and Phoenix police declined to give an explanation of the shooting of Perkins, B. E. Sackett, acting agent in charge of the department of justice at Los Angeles declared it was purely an accident. A bullet passed through the young man's head.

Perkins' mother and father said they went out into the street when they heard the shooting. Then they heard groans from the son's sleeping porch.

Sackett said he had been informed by Chief Agent Joseph E. P. Dunn that Walsh had demanded money from Diamond on threat of bodily harm to himself and members of his family.

Gets Extortion Letter.

The first extortion letter was delivered to Diamond last Monday. Federal agents had been working on the case since then and set their trap early today. Diamond had been notified in a letter he received yesterday to withdraw $3,500 in small bills from a bank and meet the writer at Second and Roosevelt streets.

At midnight Diamond kept the appointment according to instructions received in yesterday's letter. He said he handed the money to the man who said, "I won't bother you any more."

Polar 'Heat Wave' in 12th Day; Byrd Weather Man Puzzled

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, June 2.—[Delayed.]—(AP)—A "warm spell" in Antarctica, remarkable for its duration and possibly associated with unusual temperatures in northern latitudes, is puzzling the weather man of the second Byrd anarctic expedition.

The "wave" has reached its twelfth day, and Meteorologist Haines, after the fashion of his profession, is cautiously unable to promise "relief" from temperatures which have risen to 25 degrees above zero.

It is the dead of winter night in these south polar regions, and while paralyzing temperatures of 50 and 60 below zero are normally expected, the minimum reached on May 22 of 28 below has not been lowered since.

Recedes to 11 Below.

Two days later it rose to 25 above. On May 29 it receded to 11 below, and Haines was tempted to prophesy that the warm spell appeared to be breaking. Next day, however, the mercury rose to 14 above.

At the 8 o'clock observation this morning it was 2 below and apparently rising.

Vast streams of warm air pouring through the upper atmosphere from the oceans to the north account for the unusual mildness, Haines said.

Since the blizzard of May 22, which coincided with the beginning of the warm spell, the upper air currents have held with remarkable force and steadiness in the north, although oscillating from northeast to northwest.

Oceans of Warm Air Above.

During the same period the surface winds have been for the most part from southeast and southwesterly directions. These winds are brought in by sub-cooled air from the polar plateau and the Ross sea barrier, but they are shallow.

Above them, ranging up to an altitude of 15,000 feet and more, are these oceans of warm air. By means of balloons Haines runs daily soundings. The balloons are inflated with hydrogen, and swinging below them is a lighted tape, enabling the meteorologist to follow them on dark days.

"As a matter of fact," said Haines, "we don't know whether to consider this warm spell abnormal or not. After all, this is only the third winter meteorological conditions in this part of Antarctica have been under observation."

CHICAGO SCHOOLS MAY AVOID BAN OF ASSOCIATION

Many Requirements Met, Says Bogan.

Criticisms made by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools against the Chicago school system during the association's convention here April 20 will be largely met when the city schools open in the fall, and the North Central ban against ten Chicago high schools should never become effective, Supt. William J. Bogan said yesterday.

The North Central association refused to admit ten new Chicago high schools to its accredited list and warned 29 other schools that they might lose their standing as accredited schools. The action was based on a survey made by the University of Illinois, but it was not made effective for a year, in recognition of the fact that Chicago school officials were already moving toward the required standards.

Supt. Bogan Hopeful.

"We have gone over the entire situation and revised our school program so that it will meet North Central requirements," Mr. Bogan said. "Only in the field of teacher load is there doubt that we will meet the North Central standard, and I am sure that allowance will be made for this, in view of the difficulties school districts are having with tax collections. I am confident that no Chicago students will ever be barred from college or university enrolment because their schools do not have University of Illinois or North Central accreditment.

"The association criticized school library facilities. In the 10 new high schools library facilities were inadequate because they were designed for junior high schools. The board has made adequate appropriation for necessary equipment and it is being installed.

Adjust Teacher Programs.

"Teachers' programs are being readjusted. When teachers were assigned to the new high schools on short notice some were required to take on work for which they were not adequately prepared, according to the regulations of the North Central association. Most of the adjustments in the teacher programs were made in the semester beginning in February and the rest will be completed at the beginning of schools in September.

"The schools were criticised because students took work on different grade levels. This will be eliminated. In a few instances, to avoid penalizing the students, some classes in upper grade work, in the languages especially, will be combined so that a class of adequate size may be carried on.

"The reorganization of a school system cannot be accomplished too rapidly, and much of it was in process when the north central survey was made. When it is completed in the fall we see no difficulty for Chicago schools with respect to accreditment."

The North Central association is the accrediting agency for colleges and universities over a large part of the United States. When the group formally bars a high school from accreditment, it means that the graduates of the school cannot enter a North Central association college or university without a special examination. However, after the North Central association refused to accredit the Chicago schools, A. W. Clevenger, University of Illinois examiner, who made the survey on which the action was based, declared that the association had recognized that Chicago was moving toward the required standards and predicted that the ban would never become effective.

RUSSIA TO IMPRISON HOBOS CAUGHT RIDING ON RAILWAY CARS

MOSCOW, June 3.—(AP)—Hobos, it was revealed today, are even more unwelcome on the railways of soviet Russia than in the United States. The communist government is seeking to abolish hooliganism.

Damage to tracks and railway cars by hobos, reported from many portions of the country, has moved the council of the people's commissars and the central committee of the communist party to issue an order to imprison for six months all persons caught stealing rides on trains. Vagrants who deliberately damage railway property may be imprisoned for three years.

All persons not employed by railways are forbidden to live on railway property, and communist railway workers have been enjoined to inaugurate a wide propaganda campaign among transport employés to protect passengers and guard state transportation against sabotage and disruption.

NEW CALIFORNIA GOVERNOR FACES MANY PROBLEMS

San Francisco, Cal., June 3.—(AP)—Frank F. Merriam, Long Beach Republican who became governor of California Saturday on the death of James Rolph Jr., faced a variety of problems today—among them the state's financial difficulties and an almost certain renewal of pleas for clemency in the Tom Mooney case.

Declining comment upon any of the state issues until the Rolph funeral is held and he has had a chance to accustom himself to the governorship, Merriam remained in southern California today to teach his Sunday school class. He arranged, however, to reach San Francisco by 3 p. m. tomorrow, when public funeral services for Rolph will be held. Afterward he will go to Sacramento, the state capital.

Merriam's attitude toward Mooney and Billings has not been made public.

The state's financial problems remain acute despite enactment of extra taxes by a special session of the legislature last year.

LONGSHOREMEN HERE THREATEN TO CALL STRIKE

Asking for an eight hour day and a minimum wage of 75 cents an hour, approximately 500 members of the Chicago local, No. 19, of the International Longshoremen's union yesterday resolved to submit their demand to employers after a meeting at 30 North Wells street.

Backing their demand is a strike threat, which, if carried out, would add materially to Chicago's shipping troubles, already aggravated by the strike of the Tug Firemen's and Linemen's union, an affiliate of the international union, which began last Friday.

A committee of longshoremen, headed by Thomas Brennan, great lakes organizer for the union, has been selected to call today upon W. W. Huggett, manager of the North Pier Terminal company, 549 East Illinois street, which handles the bulk of the city's shipping.

Make Another Demand.

In addition to their wage and time mandate, they will also ask for time and one-half for overtime. Brennan charged that the longshoremen were being worked at 15 hour stretches without extra pay. This was denied by Huggett.

"We're paying them good wages," Huggett asserted, "and I don't know what we'll do when they make their strike threat. I'll have to hear their requests first."

The strike of the tug firemen and linemen has halted operations of the Dunham Towing and Wrecking company, only operator of tug boats for guiding ships through the river under their own power at greatly reduced speeds.

Long Trafic Waits Caused.

Not only has this caused long trafic waits while bridges are up, but in at least two instances there has been actual danger to city equipment over the river. A Norwegian freighter, the S. S. Trajan, tied up the Metropolitan elevated lines for more than an hour yesterday when an accident forced the ship to halt beneath the raised "L" bridge north of Van Buren street. Because no tugs were available, the boat was unable to back out from under the structure.

The longshoremen load and unload all ships entering and leaving the port of Chicago, including coal and grain boats. In most instances they are hired by the dock owners.

In Milwaukee the strike of 50 tugboat workers employed by the Milwaukee Tugboat line and the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company yesterday automatically threw about 300 dredge and dock workers out of their jobs. Because of the inability of the tugs to operate, it was explained, there will be nothing for the other workers to do.

PICCARD BALLOON ON TRAINING HOP OVER MICHIGAN

Holland, Mich., June 3.—(AP)—Prof. and Mme. Jean Piccard and Edward J. Hill, Detroit balloonist, landed here Sunday after a balloon flight which started from Detroit shortly after midnight.

Hill, who has been instructing Mme. Piccard preparatory to the stratosphere balloon ascension she plans to make with her husband later this summer, said the flight was uneventful.

"We landed at Holland on two occasions," Hill said. "Our first landing was made at 8:10 a. m. Ascending and drifting further northwest we went to great altitude and reversed our course to the southwest. After three more hours in the air we descended and went back to the same spot for our second landing at 11 a. m. Our flight was O. K., and all are in fine shape."

The flight was the second which Mme. Piccard has made. She is attempting to qualify for a balloon pilot's license. On the stratosphere flight she will act as navigator for Prof. Piccard.

The party, when they took off from the Ford airport near Detroit, planned to attempt to reach Chicago.

Seek to Rise 15 Miles.

Rapid City, S. D., June 3.—(AP)—Moonlight valley, sheltered bowl in the Black Hills near here, teemed with activity today as an advance guard prepared for the stratospheric flight planned for sometime within the next 30 days.

The flight, which aims at an altitude of 15 miles, is a joint venture of the geographic society and the army air corps.

New roads have been built, old ones repaired and other accommodations were in the process of completion for the influx of 15,000 visitors expected to mass themselves on the cliffs 450 feet above the valley's grassy floor when the huge gas bag sets out on its trip, now scheduled for soon after June 15.

The valley, given its name by mining men years ago, is 600 feet square, inclosed almost completely by cliffs which rise nearly 500 feet. It was chosen for the takeoff after Maj. W. E. Kepner, pilot of the stratosphere bag, had inspected a half dozen prospective sites in the west.

Capt. Albert Stevens, scientist, will be the other half of the crew which will utilize the record altitude which it is hoped the balloon will attain for taking photographs of the earth, capturing air specimens and making other scientific observations.

CHICAGO BOUND MAIL PLANE IS FORCED DOWN

New Orleans, La., June 3.—(AP)—The first Pacific Seaboard Airlines plane which inaugurated resumption of air mail service today between New Orleans and Chicago was forced down in Lake Pontchartrain marshes with two pilots and an official of the company.

No one was injured and the plane was not seriously damaged.

The plane left New Orleans at 10:25 a. m. via Jackson, Miss., and Memphis, Tenn., and was forced down west of Slidell, La., about eight miles from Bogalusa.

1,500 COAL HIKERS VOTE TO STAY IN OUTLAW UNION

Approximately 1,500 members of the so-called outlaw Chicago Teamsters' and Hikers' union voted yesterday to remain in the union and not affiliate with the Lynch group, which is associated with organized labor.

The meeting was held in Hodcarriers' hall at 814 Harrison street. About 100 police from the state's attorney's office and district stations remained on the outside. No trouble occurred. The meeting was held under protection of a injunction. Previous efforts of the union to hold meetings had been broken up by police.

John C. Evans, secretary and treasurer of the union, said that the vote of the men was unanimous. One of the factors in their decision, he said, was the warning that if they joined the Lynch union they would have to take a 25 per cent wage cut. Evans denied his union is a member of the Trucking and Transportation exchange, known as the "TNT." The state's attorney's office charges the "TNT" controls the union.

FAIR ATTENDANCE HITS ONE MILLION ON THE NINTH DAY

Figures for 1933, 1893 Are Broken.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Attendance records of American expositions were broken yesterday when the 1934 A Century of Progress Exposition registered its millionth visitor, nine days after the opening. This exceeded the figure for the 1933 Fair when the millionth visitor was recorded on June 12, the 17th day. The Columbian Exposition of 1893 needed 18 days to reach that mark.

The visitor honored as the millionth guest yesterday is Joseph L. Speicher, 30 years old, 91 Hamilton avenue, Akron, O. He is a general science teacher in the Findley Junior High school in Akron and his parents are Baptist missionaries in China.

"Naturally I think the Fair is marvelous," Speicher said. "Being a science teacher, I will spend the most of my time in the Hall of Science. This is my first trip to the Fair."

Given Armload of Gifts.

Speicher was met at the 14th street gate by Col. C. W. Fitch, assistant general manager, and a corps of photographers. He was given free tickets to a number of concessions and an armload of gifts. With all the gates but one closed, and with officials watching the electric tabulator as it clicked off the admissions, Speicher entered as the millionth admission at 1:30 p. m.

Speicher was born in Kityang, China, but came to America when a boy. He told Fair officials that his parents, who have just completed 40 years in the far eastern mission field, have written to him asking about the Exposition.

After the formalities were over Fair officials began studying the records to see what attendance marks had been bettered. They discovered that all the attendance marks for expositions are held by the Chicago Fairs of 1893 and 1933 and that the present Exposition is smashing several of those marks. The record for paid admissions in a single day is held by the Columbian Exposition with a total attendance of 716,881.

The next highest attendance occured last Thursday when the first children's day at the 1934 Exposition saw a throng of 470,000 visitors, a majority of whom were school children. The third honors went to the Sunday before Labor day at the 1933 Exposition with 367,004 admissions.

Too Early for Predictions.

"It is, of course, too early to make any estimate on attendance for the remainder of the Fair," Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, said. "But we are greatly encouraged by the popularity the Fair has enjoyed so far. If the attendance at the 1934 Exposition is improved over that of the 1933 Fair as much as the Exposition itself has been improved final attendance figures will break a lot of records."

With sunny skies and cool breezes to make Fair going a pleasure, visitors began pouring through the gates early in the morning. By noon the paid admissions were 14,014 and at midnight 83,481 visitors had entered the grounds. Officials were particularly cheered by the fact that no special events were on the program to account for the upturn in attendance after a two day slump.

A tabulation of admissions by gates showed that the 23d street gate held first place with 27 per cent of the first million. The 12th street gate was second by only a few tenths of one per cent. The 12th street gate, termed the main entrance, in reality is not so advantageous for visitors, who must walk more than 100 yards to reach an exhibit. As a result of the congestion, officials are asking that visitors to pick the gate nearest the place to which they wish to go, thus distributing attendance about the grounds.

SAMUEL INSULL VISITS THE FAIR FOR FIRST TIME

Scenery Is Grander Than Greece, He Says.

Three generations of Insulls visited A Century of Progress Exposition yesterday, and two of them, at least, were more than delighted with what they saw.

From Samuel Insull, who rode from village to village in a comfortable chair, came the comment that the scenery was "even grander than Greece." And Samuel III, 3 years old, gleefully remarked: "It's just like a circus," as he trotted along between his grandfather's chair and his father, Samuel Jr.

It was the first visit of the senior Insull to the Fair. Last year he was in Greece, a fugitive from indictments charging him with mail fraud and violation of the bankruptcy laws while he headed an empire of utilities companies.

Trio Arrives Early.

To escape the crowds the three members of the family entered the gates at 9 o'clock, only a few minutes after opening. Their first sightseeing trip was by bus through the grounds, and then they glided over the lagoons in a boat.

All through the grounds, guides, guards, and visitors continually greeted Insull. They offered to show him around the Exposition and suggested exhibits he ought to see. But the old man at first insisted he wanted no special attention.

"I'm just another Fair goer," he said, "just like all the others."

But his desire to avoid publicity seemed to have worn off by the time he and his two companions reached the Streets of Paris. He smiled delightedly when Walter Colbath, former diving star, made a special dive for him. When the crowd applauded, Insull stood up and acknowledged the cheers with a bow.

Plans Another Visit.

So much walking wearied the little boy, so he and his father waited while grandfather visited the Ford Motor company exhibit, possibly in return for the visit Henry Ford paid him while he was resting in St. Luke's hospital. Then, with the others again, he went to the picturesque Black Forest village.

It was nearly noon when the Insulls boarded a bus for the Roosevelt road gate of the fair and concluded their visit. Insull turned for a final word to the reporters.

"I'm not so young, you know," he remarked, "but I think the Fair is great and I'm coming back for another visit."

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Policemen of the World's Fair force yesterday were given orders to be sure that their guns are loaded at all times. Ammunition is dealt out to all and pistol drill will be conducted regularly. "The World's Fair police are policemen in every sense of the word," Chief Edward Redd announced. "They are not here to carry out the landscaping and color scheme of the Exposition."

Chief John C. McDonnell of the Fair fire department placed a fire boat in operation yesterday in the lagoons to protect buildings built into, or near to, the lagoons where it would be difficult for the fire trucks to approach. A barge driven by an outboard motor, manned by two men, with a pump capable of throwing 250 gallons of water a minute is to be on duty 24 hours a day.

The Ford Motors exhibit, according to the records, has been visited by about 80 per cent of the total attendance at the Fair thus far. Extra guards have been put on duty to care for the large crowds. The various exhibits in the building are proving of about equal interest to visitors, according to officials, with the early models of automobiles holding a slight edge. Several nights it has been necessary to turn out the lights for five minute intervals at closing time to clear the building. Guards are busy most of the time telling people that they cannot get into the automobiles exhibited. The pay roll of the Ford exhibit totals 756 employés at present.

Since the opening of the Fair the New York Central lines have been running two extra sections daily from the east, according to D. M. Bowman, passenger traffic manager. Besides the extra sections two special trains are operated on Sunday on both the Michigan Central and the New York Central railroads to handle the holiday visitors.

A 40 case shipment of exhibits, among which is a copy of the statue of Hermes of Praxiteles, arrived in New York Saturday for exhibit in the Grecian pavilion at the Fair. The pavilion, free to the public, is to be located in the Hall of States. The exhibition will include replicas of Grecian works of art and commercial products.

The Roosevelt High School Symphonic choir, under the direction of Erhardt Bergstrasser, will sing in the Swift band shell at 23d street tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

George Washington's false teeth, as well as pictures taken of the first President before and after his own teeth had been extracted, are on display in the exhibit of the Chicago Centennial Dental congress in the Hall of Science.

Arrangements were made last night to move 15,000 incubator eggs and hundreds of baby chicks, turkeys, and other poultry from the poultry exhibit to the Mayan temple while electric current was turned off in the Fair grounds south of 31st street for repairs. The eggs must be kept in a temperature of 105 degrees Fahrenheit to hatch successfully. Fair officials coöperated with Harvey Wood, in charge of the exhibit, in making the transfer.

Gov. Henry Horner entertained several guests in the San Carlo restaurant in the Italian Village last night.

CLOSED SHOP IS ONLY ISSUE, SAY STEEL LEADERS

Blame Union Attempts at Domination.

New York, June 3.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute charged tonight that strike threats in the industry are due to the activities of union leaders who seek government intervention "to maneuver themselves into positions of power and domination over the steel workers of the nation."

In a formal statement, the institute asserted relations of steel companies and a great mass of their employés are "peaceful," and that the whole difficulty lies with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers.

The "closed shop" is the one point at issue, the statement says, and for the employers to "accede to such a request would be rank treachery."

430,000 in Industry.

The statement, in part, follows:

"The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers has presented to various steel companies demands for recognition of the union and has threatened a strike if its demands are not met.

"Although the overwhelming majority of the 430,000 employés in the steel industry have refused to join the union and have evidenced their desire to bargain collectively through their own employé representation plans now in effect, the union seeks the exclusive right to speak for all employés and the union is receiving attention in Washington and in the press entirely out of proportion to its importance.

Calls Opposition Waranted.

"The great majority of the employés in the steel works do not want to strike and the companies will cooperate in every way possible to enable them to remain at work.

"The opposition of the steel industry to the closed shop is fully warranted by its own experience and that of other industries, where there have been many instances of jurisdictional disputes, strikes, racketeering, excessive dues, fines, penalties, limitation of output, and intrusion of agents having no acquaintance with the industry or with the employés they claim as their constituents.

"No issue exists between the steel companies and the great majority of their employés. Since last June, more than 80,000 workers have been added to the pay rolls. The eight hour day has been generally adopted. Average hourly wages have increased 37 per cent, and they are now 7 per cent higher than they were at the peak in 1929.

"The steel industry believes its employés generally will resist all efforts to force them under closed shop domination."

CODES LAY TAXES ON, ALLOWING NO TIME TO PROTEST

Johnson Just Writes, 'You Must Pay.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 3.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, has begun assessing millions of dollars in code taxes on industry without giving it any opportunity to be heard publicly in protest.

One of the most flagrant examples of the general's new method of "taxation without representation" came to light today, when it was discovered that on May 29 he informed the ladies' handbag industry that it was to be taxed $140,080 yearly to support its code.

He invited the filing of protests. On June 1, with only two days intervening and one of them the Memorial day holiday, he issued an administrative order arbitrarily putting the $140,080 tax plan into effect.

Whether the industry succeeded in mailing in any protests to Johnson before he smacked the tax system down could not be learned. The two day interval, however, barely allowed time for the notice of the plan to reach most of the members by mail.

Hearings Show Graft.

Although this instance is the only one yet brought to light in which Johnson allowed practically no time for consideration, he is following a similar procedure, inquiry disclosed, with all the new code enforcement taxes.

In only two out of dozens of cases have public hearings been accorded the industry, and in both those cases the hearing disclosed graft or mismanagement in the proposed tax system.

In all other cases Johnson merely informs the industry by mail that its code authority wishes the power to fix a code budget and assess the industry. He tells the industry it has so many days in which to protest if it wishes.

Then, by a process which he authorized when the code tax system was started, Johnson writes the taxing power into the code by simply issuing an order and without granting a public hearing. Previously all amendments to codes had to be thrown open to public hearing before they were approved.

3 Million Dollar Scheme.

Thus in the entire taxing system, as explained by the NRA, there are no public hearings for discussion of the assessments or expenditures. Twice the industry is informed that certain information about a tax plan for it is on file in distant Washington.

It is invited to protect if it doesn't like the plan.

Only two hearings have actually been held. In one the trucking code authority was disclosed as endeavoring to raise 3 million dollars a year, most of it for a "survey" of the industry. A hearing on the oil burner code authority revealed salaries and fees of $27,000 to one man in six months.

Johnson has actually put into operation only a handful of tax plans. Scores of them are pending before him, however, aggregating an annual burden of 4 million dollars on industry. The vast majority of the code authorities, moreover, have yet to submit their budget plan. The grand total is expected to run high into the millions.

CRIME JUDGES WANT TO ELECT CHIEF JUSTICE

Hope to End Domination of Superior Bench.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Judges of the Criminal court, at a special meeting tomorrow, will decide whether to include among the new rules of court one whereby the judges of the Criminal court would select their own chief justice. At present, under a "gentleman's agreement," the chief justiceship is alternated each year between the Circuit and Superior courts. The election is participated in by judges of these courts who have not seen Criminal court service for many years.

If the contemplated ruling providing that the chief justice shall be elected by the Criminal court judges is adopted, it will be based on a ruling of the state Supreme court in the so called Judge Feinberg case. In that opinion the high court held that only a judge regularly assigned to the Criminal court has jurisdiction over matters pending in the Criminal court. Judge Feinberg several years ago attempted to impanel a special grand jury, but the Supreme court held he had no jurisdiction inasmuch as he was not then a Criminal court judge.

Bitterness Among Judges.

Passage of the contemplated rule would stop the bitterness reported to be developing among the judges over the election of a new chief justice, which under usual procedure would take place about June 11.

The present members of the court, under Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan, with one or two exceptions, have expressed a willingness to go on with the crime war campaign which in the last year has practically revolutionized crime justice. It is reported that the two outstanding Republican candidates for chief justice are willing to withdraw in the interest of harmony and coöperation if Judge Finnegan is named to succeed himself.

One of these Republicans is Judge Harry B. Miller, who, because of his record during his six years in the Criminal court, was looked on as the logical candidate for the chief justiceship. The other is Judge Walter P. Steffen, who has also made a good record and has initiated many of the present reforms. Privately they have told friends they would be willing to continue in the Criminal court to carry on the work already started, if Judge Finnegan is reëlected.

Finnegan Willing to Stay.

Judge Finnegan, it is reported, is also ready to break tradition and remain in the Criminal court, providing the work he has started is continued by a group of judges willing to go along with the policies established in the last year. However, he has not expressed himself on his willingness to shoulder for another year the responsibilities of the chief justiceship.

The attitude of Judge James F. Fardy, the Democratic candidate for the chief justiceship, according to political rumors, is not known.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who is considered one of the powers in the Democratic party, which has a majority of the Superior court judgeships, has been consulting leaders on the proper assignment of judges to the crime court for next year. The prosecutor said that he would not oppose the selection of either Judge Steffen or Judge Miller for chief justice, even though they are Republicans, in view of their fine records.

"I would like to see the same group of judges continue in the Criminal court," Prosecutor Courtney said. "They have made a fine record and have coöperated in every way in the administration of justice.

Courtney Wants Coöperation.

"There is nothing in the law to prevent the reelection of the chief justice. It is merely tradition and that should be broken, if necessary, to continue harmony and coöperation in the important Criminal courts. The judges during the last year established splendid records and are entitled to the thanks of law abiding citizens. They should be retained in their present position, regardless of whether Judge Finnegan succeeds himself or Judge Miller or Judge Steffen, the Republican candidates, is elected."

Judge Michael Feinberg, another outstanding Criminal court judge, is considered a possible candidate for the chief justiceship in the event of a deadlock. However, he is not seeking the job and has announced that he would rather return to civil work. He presided over the trial of the Touhy kidnap gang and was one of the judges who drew up the recent recommendations for changes in the criminal law.

Judge Denis J. Sullivan, a member of the Superior court executive committee and for much of the time acting chief justice of the court, unless the rules are changed, will dominate the election of the Criminal court chief justice and also the assignment of judges from his court to the Criminal court. Under the new rules of the court, the executive committee controls the assignments.

Sabath Is Chief Justice.

Although Judge Joseph Sabath is chief justice, many of the court orders are signed by Judge Sullivan as acting chief justice. In his dual capacity of executive committee member and acting chief justice, Judge Sullivan has two of the three executive committee votes, a number of the judges say. Judge Sullivan, under the new rules, will stay for the remainder of his term of office in the chancery division of the court and cannot be removed. Several judges recently have openly criticized these rules, which they say were pushed "through in a hurry."

Chief Justice Finnegan and some of his associates have been "chided," it is reported, by their civil court associates because of the "reform wave" in the Criminal courts. Many of the judges have spent little, if any, time in Criminal court service and apparently do not appreciate "the change in times there."

The present group of Criminal court judges, however, indicate that if they are to continue in that court for another year the civil court judges should be more disposed to coöperate in volunteering for vacation service. Only one judge, Walter La Buy, so far has responded to Judge Finnegan's call for volunteers during the summer months.

BULWINKLE RETAINS SEAT IN CONGRESS BY VICTORY IN PRIMARY

A. L. BULWINKLE.

Charlotte, N. C., June 3.—(AP)—Representative A. L. Bulwinkle, head investigator of the Wirt charges of communistic tendencies among "brain trust" personnel, was renominated for the Tenth North Carolina district seat in congress on the face of nearly complete returns from yesterday's Democratic primary tabulated today.

Bulwinkle, Gastonia attorney, had 27,566 votes against 24,668 for Hamilton C. Jones, Charlotte lawyer, in unofficial reports from 238 precincts of the 254 in the district.

In the Fourth district George Ross Pou of Raleigh ran second to Harold Cooley, Nashville attorney, in the five-cornered race for the house membership left vacant by the death April 1 of the former's father, the veteran Representative E. W. Pou.

Defeat of Representative Charles Abernethy was indicated late tonight in the third district. With all but seven of 165 precincts in, Graham Barden of New Bern had 7,908 votes, Leuther Hamilton of Morehead City 7,214, and Abernethy 5,900.

ELECTION TODAY COMPLICATED BY DEATH OF CORR

Plan to Write In Name of Harrington.

Democratic leaders last night took precautions against the possibility of an outside and unknown person being elected in today's judicial election to fill the Circuit court vacancy, for which Ald. Frank J. Corr [17th], who died last night, was the Democratic and coalition nominee.

The action was taken when the legal complications created by Ald. Corr's death had not been solved at a late hour. Lawyers considered it possible that the law would give the election to a person whose name was written in on the ballot on the theory that a dead man could not be elected to office even though the live candidate received only a few votes.

Pick Attorney Harrington.

To forestall the possibility of any person winning with a few votes which had been written in the leaders decided to instruct the voters to write in the name of Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, who was a close contender originally for the same nomination. Every Democratic precinct captain in the city and county will be ordered to instruct all voters to write in Harrington's name in place of Corr today.

Under this plan, Harrington is expected to receive more write-in votes than any one else who tries such a campaign. Then, if the law throws out the Corr votes, Harrington will have been elected to the five year vacancy.

Harrington is 87 years old and lives at 5488 Ellis avenue with his wife and four children. He was born in Chicago, and was graduated from the De Paul law school in 1921. Before that he saw service overseas with Battery D, 149th field artillery, Rainbow division, in the outfit that was known as "Reilly's Bucks".

Counsel for Committee.

He is counsel for the Democratic county central committee and was special counsel for the old board of assessors. He has been a master in chancery for the Superior court for 10 years and has specialized in election law and chancery work.

Election officials last night predicted that probably not more than 15 per cent of the registered voters in the county would appear at the polls to approve the coalition ticket in today's judicial election. The registered vote for the April 10th primary was 1,682,987, but if the forecasts are accurate, only some 250,000 votes will be cast.

Six sitting judges are to be reëlected today to full terms in the superior court. They are John J. Sullivan, Martin M. Gridley, Joseph Sabath, Donald S. McKinley, Ross C. Hall, all Democrats, and Walter P. Steffen, Republican. Also to be filled are two vacancies in the superior court. The coalition candidates are John C. Lewe, Democrat, and David M. Brothers, Republican.

Besides these positions and the circuit court vacancy, that of Philip L. Sullivan, now a federal judge, for which Harrington's name will be written in, the voters in Chicago alone will fill two vacancies in the municipal court. The coalition candidates are Erwin J. Hasten, Democrat, and George B. Holmes, Republican.

Wet Issue in Three Precincts.

Three precincts in the 19th ward—the 25th, 34th, and 35th—are voting on a liquor proposition, and in Chicago Heights the voters will ballot on a proposal to erect and maintain a public hospital. The precinct polling places in Chicago Heights and in the three precincts of the 19th ward voting on liquor will be open. Others are being consolidated, and only 716 of the 3,655 polling places in the county will be open.

The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 5 p. m. and, according to the liquor law, all saloons will have to remain closed during those hours. Ballots have been delivered and arrangements have been made to have one policeman in each polling place, although no trouble is expected.

G. O. P. LEADERS GATHER HERE TO PICK CHAIRMAN

Republican leaders were gathering in Chicago last night for the meeting of the national committee tomorrow at which a chairman will be elected to succeed Everett Sanders of Indiana, who is retiring because of ill health.

Among the early arrivals were several whose names have been mentioned prominently for the national chairmanship and the task of reorganizing the party. These men are Walter J. Kohler, former governor of Wisconsin; Walter E. Edge, former United States senator from New Jersey and former ambassador to France, and Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, former ambassador to Italy.

Altogether some fifteen names have been put forward in early canvasses of possibilities for party leadership. In this list also are Walter A. Gallion, national committeeman for West Virginia; J. D. M. Hamilton, national committeeman for Kansas; Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Hanford MacNider, Silas H. Strawn, George E. Mores, Harrison E. Spangler, national committeeman for Iowa, and Wilbur M. Brucker, former governor of Michigan.

It has been understood that a westerner is preferred. Besides his ability and other qualifications, Mr. Kohler meets the geographical requirement. He is said to have a greater amount of support at this time than any other candidate, and momentum has been given to the Kohler movement by Mr. Hoover's friends' declaration that the former governor is acceptable.

Brucker also meets the regional qualification. He is only 40 years old, conservative, and is believed to be suitable to some of the Republicans who have been demanding "new blood" in the chairmanship. He was attorney general of Michigan before he was elected governor, and was for Hoover in the 1932 campaign.

There were indications, however, that there is an "open field" for candidates, and that the choice would not be known until the committeemen and committeewomen have had a chance for caucuses. Those members who are in the city today will confer to see if an agreement on a chairman can be reached before the formal session opens at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Palmer house.

An opportunity for committee members to exchange opinions will be given between two social affairs that have been planned for the visitors. At 1 p. m. today the Women's National Republican club will entertain the committeewomen and wives of the committeemen at luncheon in the Drake hotel. This evening the trustees of A Century of Progress will be hosts of members of the national committee at a dinner in the Fair Trustees' lounge in the Hall of Science.

Besides electing a chairman, the committee may discuss also the naming of an assistant chairman, who would give full time to the job; choose an executive committee, and again consider moving the national headquarters from Washington to Chicago.

Driven from Pool, 2 Boys Are Killed by Lightning

St. Louis, Mo., June 3.—(AP)—Driven from a swimming hole near here by a severe electrical and windstorm, Bernard G. Kuenz, 10, and Herman Taylor, 16, were killed today when a bolt of lightning struck a barbed wire fence near them.

ADMITS SLAYING HIS MOTHER AND YOUNG BROTHER

Hatchet Killer Gives Up in California.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 3.—(AP)—Louis Payne, 21 year old son of a former St. Louis utility executive, surrendered to police tonight with a written confession that he killed his mother and a 15 year old brother, found beaten to death today in their Westwood Hills mansion.

The admissions were contained in a letter and a telegram which the youth had addressed to Lucius F. Payne, the father, who was in St. Louis on business.

"I must have been insane when I did this," the letter said. "Believe me, I have always loved you and mother and Bob and I do now and always will."

Here's Unsent Telegram.

The unsent telegram read:

"Dear Dad: I have killed mother and Bob. Am going to turn myself over to police. LOUIS."

The nude body of Mrs. Carrie L. Payne, 45, and that of her 15 year old son, a high school student—both dead four days—were found in adjoining bedrooms of their home. Their heads had been battered and cut by a hatchet, found nearby.

The letter, carrying air mail and special delivery stamps, read in part:

"Please steel yourself for what I have to tell you. I don't know why I did what I have done and I wished to God I hadn't been able to do it. I really feel that something inside of me did it in spite of myself.

"The torture that has been going on inside of me has been terrible.

"We four have been so brave and longing for you, but you didn't even have one of us with you.

Thinks of Happy Times.

"Ever since it happened I have been thinking of the happy times we have had together, and I regret it and all the cross words I said even more than at the time I said them. I wish I hadn't done the foolish, unkind things I have without meaning to and wish I had been nicer to you all.

"My regret is punishing me more than anything else can. I must have been insane when I did this. I am going to inform the police. I hope how I feel will keep others from ever doing the same.

"I have always wanted to be good for you and mother, and for you to be proud of me, but it seems that I was often willing to do the wrong thing and hurt you. But when I hurt you I have hurt myself.

"I have killed mother and Bob. I won't run away."

Involved in Auto Accident.

Payne surrendered to Huntington Beach police while officers were seeking him for questioning. Police learned from friends that he had been involved in a St. Louis motor car accident in which a woman, 77, was killed. The family came to the Los Angeles suburb in the hope a change of surroundings would improve his health.

REDS AND ROYALISTS AND SOCIALISTS FIGHT IN STREETS OF PARIS

PARIS, June 3.—(AP)—Paving blocks filled the air and clubs were wielded in the streets of Paris today as communists, royalists, and Socialists engaged in several encounters.

In other parts of France political extremists also caused disorders.

The fighting in Paris was a clash of rival bands distributing political newspapers. The papers were scattered on the pavements as the men charged each other's supplies.

Six identified as Socialists and communists were arrested.

At Boulogne-sur-Seine fighting groups hurled scrap iron and vegetables at each other.

Communists at Aubervilliers made a determined effort to break up an archery meet. They were repulsed by police, who made fifty arrests.

Shouting and singing, the communists charged a parade of 1,500 bow and arrow marksmen. Police, however, were prepared for the assault. The disorder was witnessed by Cardinal Verdier, who had opened the archery meet, held annually since 1346, with a mass.

AGE 92, ROUTS 5 ROBBERS WITH 1869 REVOLVER

Ninety-two years old yesterday, George M. Jackson, pioneer farmer of Spring Lake in the northwest corner of Cook county, was doubly the hero of the day to relatives. They celebrated not only his birthday but also his single handed rout of five young bandits from the farm on Saturday. Still keen of eye and enjoying "perfect health," he took his honors modestly at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Bertrie Brandt, in Barrington.

The Jackson farm has been in the family since 1842, when George Jackson Sr. drove a covered wagon from New York state with his family. His son George was then a babe in arms. George grew up and was married in 1869, soon afterward being appointed village marshal of the country town of Barrington. He held the job for several years, until his father's death, and then took over the operation of the farm.

Goes Out to Greet Visitors.

Jackson was in the old two story farm house Saturday when he heard a car coming up the road. His son, Harvey, 60 years old, and a daughter, Miss Grace Jackson, 56 years old, were working in the barn. A son-in-law, John W. Battin of Elgin, was in the field. The aged farmer went out to greet the visitors.

Five youths were in the car. Three of them got out and asked if any one was in the house. Told there was no one there, they walked inside, ignoring Jackson. He trailed after them, demanding to know what they wanted. Finally one of the youths spoke up, nervously.

"We know you've got a lot of money saved up," he said. "We know it's hidden around here, and we want it. Where is it?"

Jackson told them their information was wrong; that his savings were in the bank. The intruders went into the front room and took down two shotguns and a rifle which were hanging over the mantelpiece and unloaded them. Then they proceeded to search the house, ignoring the old man's protests. They warned him not to talk so much, but did not enforce this order.

Gets His Old Pistol.

He followed two of the robbers into his own bedroom, still telling them they had better get out. They pulled out drawers, emptying the contents on the bed and searching the pockets of his clothing in a closet. Jackson sat down on a chair at the head of his bed as if he were tired.

Suddenly he reached under the pillow and pulled out the large caliber revolver he had carried as village marshal. Cocking the ancient weapon, he prodded the nearest robber in the stomach with it.

"Now, you get out," he sputtered angrily. "This old gun has never missed fire since 1869, and it's not likely to now, so you better get out quick."

Calling the third bandit to come, the youths in the bedroom backed out to the door as the aged ex-marshal repeated his warnings. Silently, but probably with gratitude because they were given their liberty, the trio climbed into the car and sped away.

Old Jackson pocketed the Colt and walked slowly to the barn, where he broke the news of the unsuccessful invasion.

Leonard McKean, 2 years old, died Saturday in the Jefferson Park hospital of injuries incurred on Friday in a fall from a second floor window of his home at 1402 West Harrison street. IDENTIFY RIVER VICTIM.

The body of a man recovered from the river at Franklin street on Saturday was identified yesterday as that of Glenn H. Miller, 45 years old, 4347 Kenmore avenue, a salesman, who disappeared three weeks ago.

Down where they grow tobacco..in most places Chesterfield is the largest-selling cigarette

—what does that mean?

—it takes good things to make good things.

—the mild ripe tobaccos we buy for Chesterfield mean milder better taste.

—the way they are made means Chesterfields burn right and smoke cool.

—it means that down where they grow tobacco folks know that mild ripe tobaccos are bought for Chesterfield.

And because Chesterfields are made of the right kinds of tobacco, it is a milder cigarette, a cigarette that tastes better.

There is no substitute for mild, ripe tobacco.

GERMANY BEGINS TO DRAFT YOUTHS IN LABOR ARMY

Young Men Compelled to Serve by Nazis.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 3.—Compulsory labor service, one of the chief aims of the Nazi government, is gradually taking shape.

Although labor conscription has not yet been enforced, as announced by Chancellor Hitler shortly after he assumed power, many measures taken by local authorities and also by private undertakings compel young men seeking jobs to serve a term in the so called voluntary labor service.

Potsdam Sets Example.

Thus, the municipal authorities of Potsdam have decreed that no young man shall be employed unless he has served in the voluntary labor service. Private employers are urged to follow this example.

The ministry for education in Wuerttemberg has ordered all university professors to enter the labor service. Students desiring to become teachers must first serve two months in the labor service.

At a recent national congress of labor service instructors, Col. Konstantin Hierl, national labor service leader, demanded that a term in the labor army should be made conditional for employment in the state or municipal service.

Barred From Dole.

The proposal also was made at the congress that no unemployed person refusing to work in the labor service should receive doles.

"The transition to labor conscription must now be prepared with all possible energy," Col. Hierl demanded.

"Compulsory labor service must be partially achieved when it is enforced by legislation."

The voluntary labor service has about 250,000 Germans in its ranks, including 10,000 girls. Inaugurated by Hitler, the strength of the labor corps so far has not been increased under the Nazi régime but its character has undergone great changes.

All members of the corps are now dressed in smart brownish-gray uniforms. Their appearance discloses that they are under strict discipline and training.

POLAND PLANS TO DEFAULT ON U. S. WAR DEBT JUNE 15

WARSAW, June 3.—(AP)—A government spokesman indicated today that Poland will not make the war debt payment of $4,039,039 due the United States June 15, holding that the reasons which prevented payment on Dec. 15, 1932, still prevail.

It was pointed out that the United States has not yet replied to a Polish proposal for arbitrating the matter of war debts. The press of Warsaw, which reported that the American debt note had not been received by the Polish government, was reserved in commenting on the situation.

Since defaulting in 1932, Poland has made no payments, either in full or in token.

POLICE BATTLE REDS IN ATHENS; BULLETS WOUND 3

ATHENS, June 3.—(AP)—Three men were wounded by gunfire today when police charged into a communistic demonstration in one of the busiest sections of Athens. About 300 persons, including ten women, were rounded up and taken to police stations. Several policemen were hurt.

The disorder occurred as communists protested against world Fascist tendencies. Police interfered on the grounds there had been no legal sanction for the meeting.

Order was restored in a few hours. Authorities considered the incident an isolated occurrence and said they foresaw no more difficulties.

COLLAPSES ON STREET; DIES.

A heart attack yesterday caused the death of David Magren, 65 years old, 3263 North Clark street, an unemployed painter. He collapsed at Aldine and Clark streets and died on the way to the American hospital.

SAAR CATHOLICS FIGHT TO KEEP FREE OF NAZIS

Flay 'Brown Paganism' of Hitlerland.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUCKEN, Saar Basin, June 3.—In a manifesto attacking the Hitler régime as "brown paganism," the Roman Catholics of the Saar today opened their campaign against the return of this territory to Germany.

Urging all Catholics to vote for autonomy so that the church will not be terrorized as it already is in Germany, the manifesto says:

"We have nothing in common with a community of people unified by force and terror. We must fight for true Christian and German principles in this last bit of free German soil."

Assail National Socialism.

In upholding "Christian Germany against the brown paganism," the Catholics declare that they must combat the notion that the present German government is the fatherland, and that National Socialism is the German people. They affirm that every one in the Saar eventually wants to be reunited with Germany, but add:

"The Saar is still Christian and German. In order that it remain so in the future we cannot support National Socialism."

The Catholic opposition, which has been organized only a few weeks under the leadership of Johann Hoffman, chose the setting of the Saar plebiscite date [Jan. 13, 1935] for launching its campaign with its manifesto. Heretofore the Catholic party has been engaged in establishing itself on a firm footing—a difficult job in the face of strong pressure, which includes an advertising boycott of its newspaper.

Seek to Halt Terrorism.

The leader of the Catholics today said that they hope to conduct their drive for votes with more freedom as soon as the special plebiscite tribunal, to be chosen by the league of nations, begins work here. Definite action against terrorism which is not violent is expected. The governing commission thus far has been unable to stamp out this particular brand of terrorism.

In order that the tribunal may end the boycott against their newspaper and prevent pressure against individual supporters, the Catholic leaders have already prepared a number of criminal cases which will be turned over to the government prosecutor.

The Catholics, by means of slander suits, will seek to end the public declarations by the Nazis that all who campaign against them are traitors to Germany. These declarations have been a powerful means of gaining members for the Nazi controled German Front. The Catholics believe that they have legal grounds for suing individuals or newspapers making such declarations.

Nazis Seize Mortgage from 'Enemy' of German State

BERLIN, June 3.—(AP)—Mortgages are regarded as property which may be confiscated from "enemies of the German state and people," it has been established by governmental action. Secret police seized a $2,456 mortgage on Berlin property held by Otto Wels, former leader of the Social Democrats.

Arrest 50 as Anarchists in Spain; Seize Revolt Plan

BARCELONA, Spain, June 3.—(AP)—Police today raided a secret meeting of youths described as anarchists. Fifty were arrested and officials seized documents said to reveal plans for an anarchistic uprising throughout Spain.

JUNE SALE

At a price associated with a clearance event

with one or two pairs of trousers!

We debated a long time over this sale. We tried to think what it was that the largest number of men would appreciate in an event of this kind. Then we hit on the idea—most men wanted staple colors—blues, oxfords, grays—things that they could wear the year round. So that's exactly what we did . . . we set out to group together one of the most complete collections of this season's clothing it was possible to put into a selling at anywhere near this price.

In addition to that we arranged to have both one and two trouser suits in the event—and even further than that we said that we'd maintain the price which we featured so successfully last January—$36.50. And here it is!

So you can see that this is a sale that IS a sale. The values are mighty important for they include the things you want at a price you can afford to pay. Not odds and ends—definitely not a clearance, but certainly a price that you might confuse with a clearance.

THIRD FLOOR

Many of these values also in Evanston and Oak Park

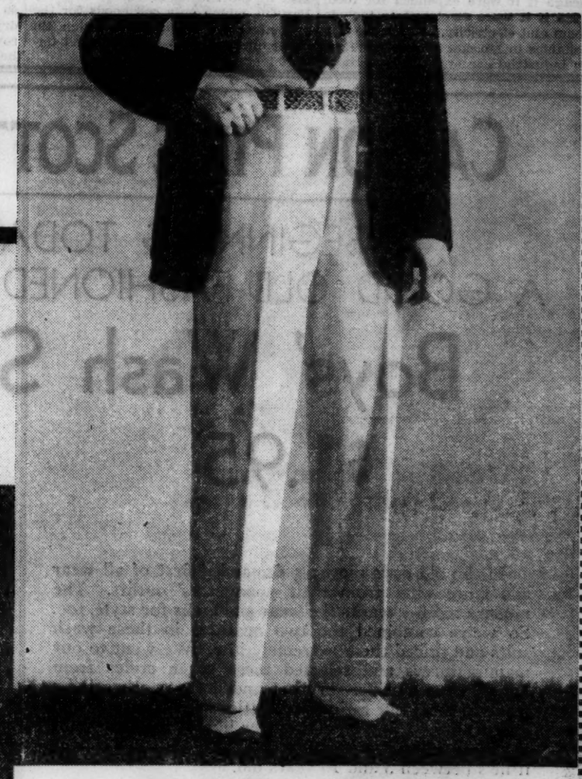
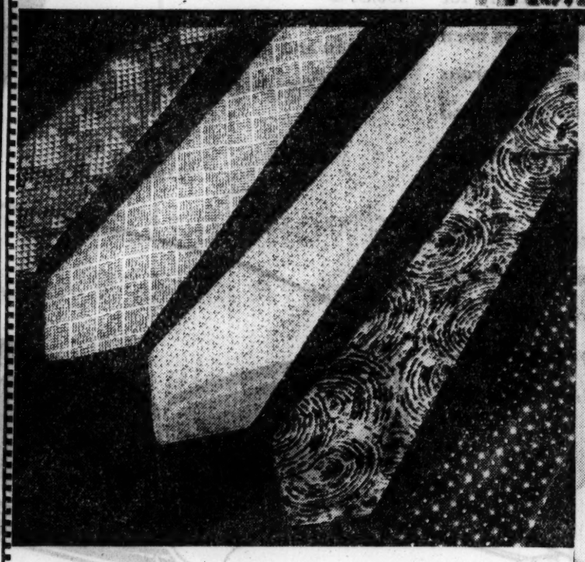
And this is "Business Week"

By business week we mean that each special value is ideally planned for the business man, who has to be just as comfortable as he can while he's in town this Summer. Of indispensable articles of wearing apparel that you would expect to pay more for right now. Fresh, complete stocks of hot weather merchandise at prices that are actually incredible. This June Sale picture will be changing constantly throughout the month. Watch the papers. But while you're waiting for a further series of "value weeks," such as you've never seen before, take advantage of these unusual specials!





SHIRTS—of a fine white lustrous broadcloth

Last June we sold white broadcloth shirts in our June Sale at $1.65. The price has not increased and this shirt is once again a typical, Field-quality shirt—that at today's market actually ought to retail for more. In collar attached or neckband styles in sizes from 14 to 18. $1.65

HIGHEST SOVIET WAGE FOUND LOW IN BUYING POWER

Mechanic at Top; Allowed Only Few Necessities.

THE TRIBUNE'S correspondent in eastern Europe, stationed for years at Riga, and more recently at Warsaw, accompanied the Polish boxing champions to the international Golden Gloves tournament here. Everyone he met asked him of conditions in Russia. Some wondered whether workers were better off under the planned economy of the soviet than are workers in the United States. The following is the first of a series of articles intended to answer that question.

BY DONALD DAY.

Today, in Russia, the mechanic has been placed on a pedestal. The soviets have held the machine up to worship. Every Russian youth wants to become a mechanic. They are the best paid workers in Russia. They receive the largest food rations. They have the option on all new apartments being erected which are needed for the ultra-privileged class who hold membership cards in the communist party.

But even the mechanic's standard of living is far below that of the common laborer in Chicago. The soviet mechanic sometimes earns as much as 350 rubles per month. On the street in Moscow the speculators will offer you 50 rubles for a dollar. If you exchange your dollars in the Moscow State bank you will receive 1 ruble 12 kopeks for a dollar.

Salary Worth $10 a Month.

If a Chicago union sent one of its members to Russia to investigate the living conditions of the members of a similar union there he would find that the 350 ruble salary per month has a purchasing power equal to $10 in Chicago if it were expended for food, or $15 if it were stretched to include a room and electricity. There are few mechanics in Moscow or in other Russian industrial centers who have more than one room to live in and most of them share a room with one or two other families.

The soviet mechanic's purchases of food are limited. He cannot buy more than his ration calls for. Since he is a member of the highest category of workers he may buy each month at his cooperative store a half pound of butter, a pint of linseed oil, six pounds of barley grits, a pound of herring, three pounds of meat, from eight to twelve pounds of potatoes, and some months he may get his complete ration of ten eggs.

Must Stay in Own Stores.

This ration varies. Some months one or two articles are missing and something else is supplied. During the summer some weeks fresh vegetables are on sale.

But the purchasing power of this mechanic's salary is limited to the cooperative stores. He cannot use his rubles to visit the government chain of Torgsin stores, which are stocked with a wide variety of foods and articles of clothing only obtainable for foreign currency. His rubles are worthless in these state stores and also in the special stores of the Gay Pay Ou, which only sell goods for the special Gay Pay Ou scrip which the government uses to pay its secret terrorist organization.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Terrier Finds New Foe.

June 4, 1934.

BINKS, the pugnacious smooth haired fox terrier here on the farm, has given up his hate for the skunk that licked him a few weeks ago. Now he has gone in for pocket gophers. And when I say "gone in" I mean that literally because Binks has been boring into the dry earth to excavate those burrowing gophers. When he finally gets to the gopher after moving several yards of earth and working his forepaws like a steam shovel, he has the fight that he wants. Fortunately Binks has not discovered any of these tunneling pocket gophers on a lawn. The two gophers which he has dug out of their network of underground runways were in a pasture, so Binks could throw dirt around all he pleased.

I have noticed the work of pocket gophers on the farm ever since early spring. They are remarkable diggers, constantly pushing their tunnels through the ground in search of plant roots on which they feed. They have powerful front paws with which to dig, and how they can make the dirt fly when they are building a new tunnel to new feeding grounds. [I can still remember the days when I had to keep up with the underground travels of these animals in western alfalfa fields in order to trap specimens for the Biological Survey!]

Talk about wild turkeys of Georgia and Mississippi! It looks as if we were going to have some "wild" turkeys here on the auxiliary farm, because one erratic old turkey hen that sneaked into the woods to incubate her eggs has just been discovered with 13 fine young poults. This hen turned up her nose at security and ease when offered a chance to nest in the barnyard. Instead she built her next way out in the oak woods. This hatch of thirteen "in the wild" brings the turkey crop to 195, a fine record. About one-half of these were hatched by turkey hens, the balance by Barred Rocks. Now comes the big battle between the vermin and this promising group of young poults. If the youngsters can develop to the stage where they can fly and thus roost off the ground they ought to come through in good style.

The city dweller who complained about the heat in Chicago's loop last week when the thermometer hit 97 to 104 has little conception of what such a day is out here on the experimental farm. All of the boys were up at 4:15 in the morning to start the day [that's standard time] in order to get as much work done as possible during the cooler hours of the day. Of course the horses working in the fields have to be considered when the temperature slides past the 100 mark. Clarence had water brought out to them so that each animal could stick his nose in a bucket and get a few swallows about every two hours. At the same time both the horses and the men took a few minutes' rest, although there isn't a great deal of relief when you have to stand in a blazing sun.

In spite of the serious drouth situation which has given some of the experimental crops very little chance to develop on anywhere near a normal scale, the broom corn is up above the ground and the Harbin lespedeza is showing pretty well. This lespedeza has had a few drinks of water from the tank wagon in order to keep it from being burned up by the sun.

Cultivating corn is mightily slow work these days because the corn is so small and the ground so loose and dry. Three horses haul the double row cultivator, plodding slowly down the rows.

SURVEY SHOWS NEW DEAL TO BE LOSING FAVOR

Babson Finds Roosevelt Still Popular.

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—Roger W. Babson's statistical organization announced today that a survey based on interviews with hundreds of key men in the forty-eight states has revealed that, although President Roosevelt's popularity is "still running strong," the New Deal has slipped badly in public estimation in the last six months.

The survey was carried out through questions submitted to newspaper editors, bankers, labor leaders, lawyers, manufacturers, retailers, governors, mayors, advertising agents, ministers, educators, engineers, chamber of commerce secretaries, and other persons in "contact with public trends."

Personal Views Avoided.

"Personal opinions of these men were avoided," said the survey report, "and only the facts as to present trends among those whom they contacted were obtained. This was not a poll of our clients."

"The most salutary evidence we obtained," the report said, "was the sustained affection and confidence which the American people have for President Roosevelt. As long as this confidence is retained, the administration can amend its policies, correct its mistakes and move ahead constructively in aiding the broad movement of economic recovery.

The investigators found that in thirty-five states the President's personal strength is either greater than or equal to his strength of six months ago, in thirteen states his popularity "has waned slightly"; in eleven states the New Deal is stronger than it was six months ago, and thirty-seven states are "turning thumbs down on the New Deal as a whole, while endorsing here and there certain portions of it."

New York Sours on New Deal.

New York state was listed as favoring the President but turning away from the New Deal. For the most part, the states shown as less enthusiastic about the President are in New England, portions of the middle Atlantic group, and the northwest.

The investigators summed up the opposition to the New Deal under these headings:

1. As recovery through natural forces increases, the public shows less blind reliance on emergency government programs.

2. The public is becoming increasingly skeptical over bewildering complexity of New Deal machinery. "Alphabet" government is increasingly distasteful.

3. The voters are beginning to think about the eventual cost of all these huge expenditures and to become apprehensive over the inevitable taxes that must be imposed in order to pay for them.

4. Strong criticism from the farming areas voicing sweeping discontent with AAA failure to improve their conditions.

ICKES TO TESTIFY HERE TOMORROW AT MALMIN TRIAL

Bar Will Air Charges of Cabinet Member.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes is scheduled to be the first witness tomorrow morning at the opening of the hearing on the disbarment proceedings brought by him against Attorney Lucius J. Malmin, former federal judge of the Virgin Islands, and Attorney C. W. Larsen, former assistant Chicago corporation counsel. The attorneys are charged with attempting to blackmail the cabinet officer into recommending them for federal positions.

The hearing, which will be the first public proceeding of its kind in the state, is to be held in the courtroom of the State Appellate court at 30 North Michigan avenue. Six members of the grievance committee of the Chicago Bar association will preside as commissioners for the Illinois Supreme court under the power vested in the committee by the high court on April 21, 1933.

The time of Ickes' arrival is not definite. His attorney, Frederick Z. Marx, said the secretary may reach Chicago tonight or early tomorrow morning, but certainly would be on hand when the hearing opens at 10 o'clock.

Plan 3 Day Hearing.

The hearing is not expected to occupy more than three days. The courtroom has been reserved for that space of time. If it should appear that more time is needed Attorney Marx said he would ask that night sessions be held so that Secretary Ickes may be able to return to his duties at Washington as soon as possible.

The six attorneys who will hear the charges represent the three divisions of the grievance committee. They are F. Howard Eldridge, its chairman, Russell J. McCaughey, Joseph E. Fitch, William C. McHenry, William H. Haight, and Tappan Gregory.

Formerly the committee heard disbarment proceedings in executive session and without court authority. Upon completion of such hearings the committee filed a formal complaint with the Supreme court, which appointed a special commissioner to hear the evidence. The new system, under which the committee gathers the evidence and presents it to the high court with a recommendation, was designed to speed justice.

The present system was created by a rule of the Supreme court and has been in operation a little over a year. It is provided that the hearings be public if those charged make such demand. Attorneys Malmin and Larsen are the first to have made such a demand.

Ickes Charges Conspiracy.

Although Secretary Ickes filed a request with the bar association for the institution of the disbarment proceedings last March 24, his charges were not made public until April 5. His petition stated that the two Chicago attorneys were guilty of blackmail, conspiracy, and defamation of character.

The complaint declared Malmin trumped up a pretended case of fraud which he indicated he would be willing to suppress in exchange for political jobs for himself and Larsen. It also charged that the attorneys joined in a conspiracy to attack Ickes' reputation for their personal gain. The complaint added that "perhaps some one was financing Malmin in his attack upon a member of the administration."

Malmin and Larsen filed answers to the complaint denying its charges. In his answer Malmin said the complaint was so vague he had difficulty in answering the charges. In his denial Larsen included the counter charge that Ickes was motivated by "malice and revenge and is camouflaging the real issues of the case.

Heirs Are Dissatisfied.

The basis of Secretary Ickes' complaint lies in an old Probate court case involving a $25,000 estate left by Arthur Saunders of Chicago. Mr. Ickes, then a practicing attorney, was retained in 1928 to handle the estate by Dr. Roland P. Saunders, a dentist, the brother of Arthur.

The litigation was concluded in 1932. Later Larsen was retained to represent heirs, allegedly dissatisfied with the disposition of the estate under Ickes' management.

In June of 1933, according to Malmin, Larsen told him of an intention to have Ickes' conduct of the case investigated by the bar association. As a friend of Ickes, Malmin said, he went to Washington to adjust the matter.

"I told Ickes to forget the matter," Malmin said, "and asked him to take me to see the President. All I did was to protect my friend, the President, from embarrassment and protect my friend Ickes. I was seeking an appointment as ambassador to Norway, governer of the Virgin Islands, or district attorney at Chicago."

In his home at 1362 Greenleaf avenue, Attorney Malmin yesterday described the secretary's charges as "unfounded and a political blunder." He said he is confident he will be cleared.

TETRAZZINI'S MATE IS HELD FOR TRIAL ON EXTORTION CHARGES

ROME, June 3.—(AP)—Young Pietro Vernati, who once was denied a court injunction to prevent the singer Louisa Tetrazzini from "squandering her money," was bound over for trial on charges of extortion in a decision published today.

Vernati is married to the famous singer, although they are separated. Last fall he went to court arguing that Mme. Tetrazzini, whose fortune once was placed at $5,000,000, gave money away right and left because of a hallucination.

"The poor, exalted woman believed in spirits which she evoked with melodramatic gestures, falling in ridiculous contortions on soft carpets," Vernati's lawyer said.

Mme. Tetrazzini's lawyers countered with the claim that her artistic temperament prompted her generosity and made a counter-charge that Vernati was attempting to extort money from his wife. These charges, after examination, were found to be sufficiently substantial to hold Vernati for trial.

MOLINE DENTIST DROWNS TRYING TO SAVE WOMAN

Moline, Ill., June 3.—(AP)—Dr. C. W. Petersen, 54, prominent Moline dentist, and Miss Alice Bradshaw, 60, were drowned in the Mississippi river near here late today.

Petersen lost his life in an attempt to rescue Miss Bradshaw, who stepped into a hole while wading. Previously Petersen had been able to rescue his wife, who also had stepped into deep water.

Petersen's son, a life guard at a beach ten miles away, was summoned and with other life guards worked vainly for an hour to revive his father and Miss Bradshaw.

Ousted Bandits Shoot Son of Saloonkeeper

Thomas McGuire Jr., 21 years old, son of the owner of a saloon at 1859 Grand avenue, was shot in the left ankle early today by one of two hoodlums ejected from the saloon a few minutes before by the elder McGuire. Young McGuire was standing in front of the place when the pair returned. One of them fired at the saloon and wounded McGuire. The hoodlums escaped.

FARMER IS ELECTROCUTED.

Lincoln, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—John Walker, 55, was electrocuted when he picked up a supposedly dead electric wire hanging from the outside of a barn on his farm near Chestnut late today.

GEN. RUMBOLD, WHO SERVED IN FRANCE, IS DEAD

Washington, D. C., June 4 [Monday].—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Frank Meeker Rumbold, United States army, retired, died early today at Mount Alto Veterans' hospital after two years' illness.

Gen. Rumbold was born in Lafayette county, Wis., in 1863, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Rumbold. His father was one of the best known surgeons of his time and was called to Europe to attend the then German kaiser.

Educated at Washington university and St. Louis Medical college, he practiced medicine in St. Louis. He joined the National Guard and was adjutant general of Missouri for two years. He went to Porto Rico as captain of battery A of the Missouri National Guard and served there during the Spanish-American war. He served through the Philippine campaign and later was military governor of Balanga.

At the outbreak of the world war he took command of the 3d infantry as lieutenant colonel. Later he was transferred to the 128th field artillery, commanding it in the St. Mihiel and Argonne sectors, where the strain on his lungs from gas invalided him permanently. Following the war he was retired.

Gen. Rumbold was married to the former Miss Helene Brunaugh of St. Louis, who died several years ago. He is survived by five sisters.

MISSIONARIES IN AFRICA PERILED BY LAY RIVALS

Forced Out of Work by the British Government.

BY W. E. NASH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland, British Africa, June 3.—One of the last and greatest missionary strongholds in Africa is capitulating rapidly to the assault of lay influences. This stronghold is the mysterious British protectorate of Nyasaland, lost in the wilds of central Africa.

A chief factor in wrenching loose the hold of the missionaries is competition on the part of his Britannic majesty's government in Nyasaland, acting on instructions from the London colonial office. A secondary factor, but important enough in itself, is lack of funds occasioned by the long world crisis.

Only recently the government of Nyasaland announced its decision to start the teaching of medicine to natives, and in line therewith to open a technical college at Zomba, capital of the land. This decision followed a similar one to organize instruction in pedagogy. Both activities have heretofore been monopolized over a huge expanse of territory by missionaries

Failure Seen for Government.

Many missionaries, backed by lay observers, predict failure for the government in its efforts. Medicine as such is an adjunct of civilization too complicated for the average native mentality, they say. An African tribesman will visit a witch doctor when ill, but never a physician or surgeon of his own race. He has no confidence in the white man's magic. Missionary efforts have been concentrated not so much on medicine as taught in the schools of the old world as on one or two of the simpler manifestations thereof, as bandaging, first aid, and the application of tourniquets.

The same holds for pedagogy, it is claimed. Fifteen or twenty native teachers and professors can be turned out at prohibitive cost in government schools each year, but to what effect? Alone, they will have little success with skeptical, indolent compatriots, and will simply revert to type.

Nevertheless, the result for the missionaries will be much the same. Confronted with superior capital and influence, handicapped by inferior facilities for work, they will inevitably be crowded out and find it difficult if not impossible to come back in the future if and when opportunity offers.

Missionaries in Useful Work.

Missionaries have done a tremendously useful work in this part of the world in the last 40 or 50 years.

Missionaries were the first white men in the lake region. It was on their activities in the Shiré highlands that Great Britain in the eighties of the last century founded her claim to Nyasaland and rode roughshod over the claims of Portugal.

Missionaries started the work of agricultural experimentation, which goes on apace today, in the hope of finding crops especially suited for the soil and climate of this colony. Much of the credit is theirs for acclimatizing first cotton, then coffee, then tobacco and tea.

Many Sects with Envoys.

There are many Christian sects that today maintain envoys to the heathen here, but most prominent among them probably are the Church of Scotland (known in the United States as the Presbyterian board), the Roman Catholic church, and the congregation of Seventh Day Adventists. Among the latter are many American citizens.

The Church of Scotland, among other things, has built with native labor an imposing cathedral near Blantyre and attached to it first rate gardens of remarkable ingenuity and professional training schools of many kinds where natives are taught how to become carpenters, joiners, masons, cobblers, farriers, and what not.

The Catholic church has divided its activities between two separate organizations, the White Fathers and the Marist Brothers. The White Father congregation, founded by the famous French Cardinal Lavigerie in Algeria, has spread all over North and East Africa and done much to stop the spread of Mohammedanism southward.

The Marist Brothers.

Their colleagues, the Marist Brothers, on the other hand, specialize on education of a rather advanced type, for white settlers as well as natives.

Seventh Day Adventists have concentrated on certain phases of medical work. Theirs is the credit for establishing three much needed leper camps in Nyasaland.

Besides special work, such as that described above, all missionary sects have done much to teach natives the advantages of hygiene, clothing, and proper nutrition. This has redounded to the benefit of Caucasian traders, exporters, and manfacturers, in the United States as well as Europe.

N. Y. FINANCIER ASKS NEW TAXES FOR RELIEF NEEDS

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—Current taxation rather than borrowing to meet current relief needs was advocated by Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the board of the Chase National bank and treasurer of the Welfare Council of New York City, today on the eve of Mayor La Guardia's unemployment relief conference at the city hall.

Coincidentally, the City Affairs committee made public a letter it had written to Mayor La Guardia urging him to present to the conference the program for meeting the city's critical unemployment problem recently submitted to him by that organization. The City Affairs committee program calls for a minimum expenditure of $20,000,000 a month for adequate care of an estimated one million destitute persons in the city. The City Affairs committee has appealed to Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Senator Robert F. Wagner for coöperation.

Leaders Called Together.

The conference called by Mayor La Guardia purely for the purpose of discussing the fiscal aspects of the critical situation the city will face within two months when funds for relief work are expected to be depleted will bring together former state and city heads and outstanding leaders from many callings.

With demands on the city for aid far exceeding expectations and growing daily, the conference was decided upon as a means of making preparations for meeting future contingencies. Among those invited are former Govs. Alfred E. Smith, Nathan L. Miller, and Charles S. Whitman, former Mayors John P. O'Brien, John F. Hylan, and former Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee.

Meet This Afternoon.

Leading bankers, publishers, labor leaders, and other representative citizens have been invited, as well as the majority and minority leaders of the board of aldermen, in order to join in the exchange of views. The meeting will be held in the board of estimate chambers tomorrow afternoon.

As to whether relief should be financed by borrowing or through taxation, a subject expected to be uppermost at the conference, Mr. Aldrich declared that the relief burden should not be passed along to future generations by borrowing.

Can Falling Hair Be Stopped? Yes, if Taken in Time

That excessive hairfall is nature's way of throwing off diseased or dead hairs. This condition should be promptly remedied before "falling hair" becomes baldness.

New hairs growing in again from the same cells are still weaker or healthier depending upon whether they come back in the same unhealthy environment, or are reproduced in a growing place cleansed of harmful conditions and being changed into a healthy hair-producing scalp.

Modern scientific scalp treatment, taken in time, is the quickest, positive answer to the threat of baldness. A thousand a year spent for clothes would not make up for the loss of your hair.

TRADE, POLITICS KEEP JAPANESE DIPLOMATS BUSY

Young and Active Foreign Staf in Saddle.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 3.—Never in history have the diplomats of Japan been so busy in so many places at the same time as they are at present. The reason is that most of the countries of the world are in a ferment against the aggressive trade methods of Nippon and where this is not so, notably in the United States and Russia, other equally vexing and pressing problems have come to the fore.

This is why the representatives of the mikado in many countries are spending sleepless nights decoding telegrams from Tokio which are keeping the cable and radio lines busier than they have ever been.

For unlike the diplomats of the old school the comparatively young men who today run the Gaimusho [foreign service] are men of action. They are not waiting for the European nations to commence secret activities to tie up Japan's trade. They are not letting the grass grow beneath them in the matter of cultivating international good will. Finally they have their hands filled with getting ready for the next arms limitation conference.

Slip Up Once in a While.

Naturally there is a slip up once in a while such as the untimely reassertion of Japan's policy towards China. But even in this case, because of his other friendly gestures, Koki Hirota, Japan's suave foreign minister, was able to tell the foreign ambassadors in Tokio that the statement was unimportant.

On the other hand considerable credit is given to men like Ambassador Hirosi Saito in Washington for having brought about a noticeable improvement in Japan's relations with the United States.

In the following countries the busy diplomats of Japan have important and immediate duties to perform: the United States, Brazil, Argentina, Chile, and a few other South and Central American republics where she is making trade inroads; China, soviet Russia, India, Australia, the Dutch East Indies, Egypt, South Africa, the Netherlands, England, Italy, Germany, and Switzerland.

Talk Business with Dutch.

Except in the United States and India there has been an aggravation in the difficulties confronted by Japan. Things, in fact, are coming to a head in London and the Dutch East Indies, two of Nippon's most important trading nations—the first a rival, the second a customer.

Japan begins tomorrow a trade conference with Dutch authorities at Batavia, Java. Japan's intensive trade invasion of the East Indies has aroused the concern of Dutch tradesmen, who at least want Nippon to absorb more sugar in exchange for the cotton goods sold in the East Indies.

Even the now greatly improved relations with the United States may flare up into a bitter dispute over the naval ratio and South American trade issues. In her relations with soviet Russia and China Japan is perpetually sitting between two volcanoes. Besides their regular duties Japanese diplomats in all parts of the world are required to keep a watchful eye on the attitude of the respective nations towards Manchukuo.

JAPAN WARNED TO KEEP CLEAR OF SOVIET BORDER

MOSCOW, June 3.—(AP)—Soviet law regarding trafic on the Amur river, on the ticklish border between Siberia and Manchukuo, will be strictly enforced, Moscow has informed the Japanese government. It was made plain, however, by the soviet agent at Harbin to the Japanese representative in that city that Russian patrols will be instructed to shoot only in case of necessity.

An interchange of correspondence growing out of an alleged soviet attack on the Japanese steamer Di Chen, in which the Japanese charged one of their nationals was killed and another wounded, was made public today.

Soviet Russia reaffirmed its former statement that if any Japanese were struck by bullets it was from the guns of bandits who fired from the Manchukuoan shore.

While the soviet agent said his government regretted incidents along the Amur between soviet patrols and Manchukuo ships, he declared they were the result of Manchukuoans approaching too near the soviet border and persistently photographing soviet ships and territory.

100,000 CLUTTER DECKS OF FLEET; MORE GAZE AFAR

22,000 Tars Flee to Quiet of New York.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—The Hudson river and its shores were the broad highways of New York today as hundreds of thousands of persons inspected the United States fleet.

The great majority of the tremendous throngs did their sightseeing from yachts and launches, tugs and skiffs, from the banks and pierheads and from thousands of automobiles and buses which crawled in endless procession along Riverside drive and atop the Palisades.

But at least 100,000 of them—probably the total was nearer 125,000—succeeded in boarding the ninety ships of the fleet. The record-breaking throngs were navy minded, so much so that Broadway and the mid-town district felt the defections, and Coney Island bus operators were complaining about their dwindling patronage.

Crews Glad to Escape.

The fleet probably never had much more attention than it got today, but its popularity was embarrassing. The men-of-war during the afternoon hours were overrun, and the 22,000 men who "rated liberty," as the navy puts it, were glad to get off their ships and explore the town.

For most of them today was more or less informal day. After the round of entertainments that greeted the fleet, particularly the officers, upon its arrival Thursday, they were glad to have a day to themselves.

Only in the morning were any appreciable numbers occupied, and they were volunteers. Then about 3,000 officers and men marched from their landing places to special fleet services at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and St. Patrick's cathedral.

Admiral David F. Sellers, commander-in-chief of the fleet, headed the party of 3,000 that went to the Episcopal cathedral and heard Bishop Manning denounce the extreme Pacifist position as not in accord with Christian doctrines.

Clergy Praises Preparedness.

Cardinal Hayes, speaking to 2,000 men in the other church party termed unpreparedness "supreme folly," and declared that until "Europe and Asia change their warlike aspect adequate defense is absolutely necessary."

From other pulpits sermons praising the fleet and urging the importance of preparedness were preached—though in at least one instance a dissenting voice described the ships anchored here as a display of "brute force."

Federal agents, 175 naval officers and seamen, and 40 detectives, including 15 members of the alien squad, patted the pockets of visitors to the airplane carrier Saratoga. They excluded cameras or packages and endeavored to bar aliens because, Commander R. K. Turner explained, the vessel could not accommodate all comers and the navy wished "American citizens to see it first."

Gun Accidentally Fired Kills Man in Street

Charles Brunnen, 74 years old, of Cary, died yesterday in the St. Joseph hospital in Elgin of wounds received Saturday when a shotgun was accidentally discharged in the home of William O'Connor Jr., 16 years old, Cary. Brunnen was standing outside the boy's home when a charge from the shotgun came through the window and struck him. Young O'Connor was released pending an inquest in Elgin today. Authorities were satisfied the shooting was an accident.

SWANSON CHIDES M'CARL ON NAVY PLANE PURCHASE

Washington, D. C., June 3.—(AP)—Secretary Claude A. Swanson has reminded Controler General J. R. McCarl that it is none of his business if the navy does choose to buy 27 airplanes without competition.

Making public correspondence between the navy secretary and the government's chief accounting officer, Representative W. D. McFarlane [Dem., Tex.] told newspapermen:

"The exchange shows more clearly that congress should make it the controler general's business to approve or disapprove army and navy airplane contracts."

Under the 1926 aircraft defense act, the controler general has no jurisdiction over army and navy airplane purchases. But he wrote a letter to Swanson about a contract to spend $658,125 with the Great Lakes Aircraft corporation of Cleveland for the purchase of 27 airplanes and parts.

Refers to Contract.

In that letter McCarl interpreted the law as requiring competition for quantity airplane procurement, and, referring to the contract, added:

"You are requested to inform me by what authority it is purported to charge appropriated moneys under said agreement to the extent of $658,125, or in any other amount. Pending satisfactory explanation in this matter, no credit will be allowed for any payments under the agreement entered without competition."

Swanson replied the law gave him authority to approve the purchase of airplanes for experimental purposes without competition. One plane was bought from the Great Lakes company, he said.

Tests Prove Satisfactory.

"The tests of the first plane having proved preliminarily satisfactory," Swanson added, "it was determined to continue further experimentation with this type of aircraft. Accordingly, an additional number of planes of this experimental model were procured sufficent to equip at least one complete squadron or other tactical unit so that further experimentation might be conducted under fleet service conditions to determine the model's suitability as a service model.

"The above mentioned contracts having been entered into under the authority, for the procurement of aircraft and aircraft parts for experimental purposes, and it being my decision that the procurement of the aircraft and spares thereunder were for such experimental purposes, your attention is invited to the fact that under the authority conferred upon me, this decision as to the award of such contract, interpretation of the provisions of the contract, and application and administration of the contract, is not reviewable by any officer or tribunal of the United States except the President and the federal courts."

THE REPUDIATORS.

President Roosevelt's debt message to congress must be considered in the light of the fact that among the nations now dealing dishonestly with their obligations is the United States itself. America as a creditor is also a repudiating debtor.

In each instance of these repudiations abroad and at home there has been a plea of necessity. It began with Germany and was recognized at the time by President Hoover. He agreed that Germany could not pay and persuaded the other nations to avert what he said would be a world-wide disaster if they oppressed the German bankrupt. World-wide disaster came. The other debtor nations seized the Hoover moratorium as an excuse for doing what many of them had been threatening to do. They defaulted in their obligations to the United States.

The cases do not all stand upon the same level, but they all indicate a lowering of the standard of financial integrity, to which each government makes a lofty pretense.

France, for instance, refused to make a payment which was well within its financial ability. Great Britain, succumbing later, professed an inability and made its token payments. The attitude of the debtors ranged from the plea of poverty to a tone of pure defiance. There was also denunciation of the creditor and a denial of the justice of his claim. For pleas of poverty there can be patience but the whole European argument, noting the honorable exception of Finland, has been one of arrogant beggary.

If the United States had maintained uncompromisingly its respect for its own obligations, its position now would be enviable, no matter what it succeeded in collecting. It would be maintaining the sanctity of contract in a world which sadly needs such an example. Here the United States, offered the opportunity, weakened and fell back upon the same plea of necessity, debasing its currency and adopting a partial repudiation of its pledges to people who had depended upon the full honor of the American government.

The plea of necessity is weakened by the fact that when the United States refused to honor its obligations in gold it had more gold than it ever before had. It has more now, which adds to the mockery of the words printed on bills still in circulation, a guaranty which does not guarantee the possessor the value solemnly pledged in the statement signed by the authorized officials of the American government. A domestic policy guided the debasement of the American currency.

Reflections of this nature must occur to many Americans in connection with the debt, and they are of first importance because it is impossible to expect a return of healthy financial conditions in the world until there is a return to common honesty in the dealings between debtor and creditor, whether national debtors or private debtors.

President Roosevelt's message was more a statement of American position to the foreign nations than it was to congress, congress being aware of all the facts stated by the President. The obligation of contract has been impaired almost everywhere. Nations are sick. They have lost the intention of financial integrity. They are not poor but honest debtors. So far as possible they intend to beat their creditors. The bankruptcy is as much moral as financial.

CONGRESSIONAL STAMPEDES.

Not the least disturbing element in haphazard American government procedure is found in the mercurial character of congress. Although in general congress may be said to accede to most of the recommendations from the White House, it is nevertheless largely unpredictable. Although the senate at times seems the steadier, both houses proceed by fits and starts instead of by anything approaching a deliberate and rational procedure. If it isn't hysteria, it's a good simulation of it.

A fair illustration of this may be found in the rider attached to the bank guarantee bill extending the life of the act. This amendment was attached to the bill by the house banking and currency committee, providing for the purchase of closed bank assets and authorizing the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation to extend its capitalization to two billion dollars. The provision was not in the bill as it passed the senate, but the house adopted it, with no negative vote. The new financial policy is thrown into conference between the two houses. The senate opposition to it may be seriously compromised by the form in which subsequent consideration will be presented.

Congress has had little resemblance to a deliberative body since March 4, 1933. It started in a panic and when it is not seemingly in a stupor it is apparently in a high degree of excitement, doing this and that in response to sudden pressures or in utter recklessness.

It is no consolation that many of the administrative measures are frankly experimental. It is still less consolation to know that when congress acts independently of the experimenters it does so only in the direction of experiments which the professors themselves hesitate to make.

The men in congress who have kept their heads find it next to impossible to keep their feet. Legislation goes by stampede, and the sensible minority, a despairing band at the best, is generally under the hoof.

STOCK EXCHANGE REGULATION.

The federal regulation of stock exchanges which will shortly be instituted may encourage some people to think that most of the risk has been removed from the business. The truth is that the purchase of securities is inherently a speculative venture. There never was a security the value of which [measured by the price some one is willing to pay for it] did not fluctuate in greater or less degree; and there never will be as long as we live in a world in which men and institutions are born, grow old and die, a world many of the forces of which are unknown and unpredictable. The fact that a commission is to be appointed to regulate stock exchanges cannot prevent prices from falling when sellers outnumber buyers.

Banks failed despite federal and state supervision. Depositors who had assumed that any government-supervised bank was safe were taught a costly lesson. There is real reason to fear that a somewhat similar experience may be in store for the public under the new stock market régime. Prospective purchasers may be encouraged to think that regulation will prevent, if not all fluctuations in prices, then, at least, all violent fluctuations. There is no reason whatsoever for holding this view. On the contrary, there is actually some reason to fear that price movements will be more erratic than they have been if regulation results, as many expect it to, in reducing the volume of transactions. The smaller the volume, the greater the influence on the market of a given transaction.

Regulatory commissions are at best a slender reed. They are not all-good, to say nothing of all-wise. All commissioners are not always honest and all are not always competent. It is by no means certain that in another speculative frenzy such as the one which was reaching its climax five years ago the commissioners would have either the vision or the courage to defy the almost universal belief that a New Era had dawned. There is no certainty, either, that in a falling market the commissioners might not seek to arrest the decline before it had run its full course.

This is not to say that the act is not without its merits. In so far as it puts the force of law behind measures calculated to preserve a free market in securities, the act is useful. To the extent that it prevents manipulation and encourages honest corporate reporting and a true sense of trusteeship on the part of officers and directors, the measure may prove useful. If it does not operate to shut off credit from industry, as many fear it will, and if it does not raise a false confidence in the stability of security prices, the law may prove of considerable value, assuming that the men who are chosen to do the regulating are carefully selected for character and experience.

A TALE OF TWO GOVERNMENTS.

The city has called $2,800,000 of the refunding bonds issued at the first of the year for redemption on July 1. The whole issue amounted to $15,000,000. Thus, only six months after the bonds were sold, more than 18 per cent of them are to be retired.

The reduction in the expenditures of the local governments has resulted in lower tax bills and better collections of revenue. The consequence is a reduction of debt and a definite improvement in the credit of the better managed governments. City Controler Upham was able to sell his last issue of tax warants at 5 per cent instead of the customary 6 and looks forward with confidence to a further reduction to 4½ per cent.

The record is one in which Chicagoans may justly take pride. While the federal government is recklessly destroying its credit and mortgaging the future welfare of the nation by extravagant and foolish expenditures, Chicago has made definite and unmistakable progress toward solvency. Those who think that metropolitan city governments in this country are invariably incompetent and the national government above reproach may well contemplate the contrast here presented.

Editorial of the Day

SO THIS IS "PROGRESS."

[Murphysboro, Ill., Independent.]

How Joseph and Pharaoh handled a crop surplus:

"Let Pharaoh do this and let him appoint officers over the land.

"And let them gather all the food of those good years that come and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities.

"And that food shall be for store to the land against the seven years of famine which shall be in the land of Egypt; that the land perish not through the famine. . . .

"And the seven years of dearth began to come according as Joseph had said; and the dearth was in all lands but in all the land of Egypt there was bread."

How the brain trust handles a crop surplus:

"And let us get rid of this oppressive surplus of wealth so that all may be richer. Let us plow under one row of cotton in three. Let us pay the farmers of the fields for the wheat they do not cultivate or plant. Let us pay them for the hogs they do not raise. Let us kill the young pigs and the young calves. Let us plow the growing wheat under, and let the fields lie fallow, for truly we have more food supplies than we need and they have lost their value.

"And so it was done. And the brain trust sent men out into the land and told the farmers how much cotton they could plant. And they killed the young pigs and they plowed the wheat under in the fields. And they paid the farmers for being idle instead of for working, for with a surplus of food supplies idleness became a virtue instead of a vice, and thrift and industry became a vice instead of a virtue. And they levied a tax to pay for all this and collected it from the farmers and others.

"And the wheat crop one year was the smallest it had been within the memory of that generation.

"And the next year came the drouth and the hot winds and the dust storms.

"And there was famine in the land.

"And the people turned to the brain trust and said: 'Where is the good wheat you made us plow under? Where is the good pork you made us throw on the refuse heaps?' And the brain trust said unto the people: 'You are but guinea pigs on whom we experiment in the cause of progress. What matters if you starve provided we learn something about social experiments? If you have no bread, then eat cake.'

"And the people were wroth and turned upon the brain trust and drove them from the city, but there was famine in the land."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE CAUSE of the drouth, according to an independent weather forecaster down in Washington, is due to the effect that the moon's pull on the ocean has had on the shifting of dry high pressure air currents. Now that they know, the Brain Trusters will probably threaten the moon to behave itself or lose its Blue Eagle.

THE PRESIDENT says the foreign debtor nations should pay their war debts. But he ought to bear down a little harder than that. He ought to say: "Unless you pay what you owe us right away, we shall be obliged to put the matter in the hands of our attorney." That's customary over here in the U. S. A. and there's no reason why a debtor nation shouldn't get a letter like that as well as an American citizen who hasn't paid seventy-five cents for that little sack of onions he got at the store. Not that it would scare the debtor nations any more than it does the average American, but anyhow it would be treating everybody alike.

AND THANK YOU, MR. FARWELL.

My Dear Mr. Little: When I was much younger, about forty years ago or so, I was a member of the Chicago Literary Club, and was asked to write a paper and include one or two shorter contributions from friends of mine. Slason Thompson sent me a poem. In looking over some old letters yesterday I ran across it, and in showing it to Slason Thompson this morning he told me he was very sure it was written by Eugene Field, as they were both on the staff of the same paper at that time. It has some of the characteristics of Louis Carroll's verses, and also is a good deal like a number of Eugene Field's. Assuming that Slason Thompson is right about the authorship, I think it ought to be published.

THE BINGO BIRD.

A bingo bird once nestled her nest
On the lissome bow of an I. O. yew,
Hard by a burrow that was possessed
Of a drear and dismal doodledoo.
Eftsoons this doodledoo descried
The blithe and beautiful bingo bird,
He vowed he'd woo her to be his bride
With many a sleek and winsome word.
"Oh, doo! Oh, doo!" sang the doodledoo
To the bingo bird in the yarrish yew.

Now a churlish chit was the bingo bird,
Though her plumes were of cardinal hue,
And she smithered a smirk whenever she heard
The dismal dole of the doodledoo;
For she loved, alas! a subtile snaix
Which had a sting at the end of his tail,
And lived in a tarn of sedge and brakes
On the murky brink of a gruesome swail.
"Oh, doo! Oh, doo!" moaned the doodledoo,
As dimmer and danker each day he grew.

One dismal day as the bingo bird
Was nursing her baby bingoes three
She gave a start, for she plainly heard
A noisome sound at the foot of the tree.
Her keen eye fell on the gruesome brakes
From whence proceeded the hullabaloo.
And lo and behold! 'twas her subtile snaix
Engaged in a scrap with the doodledoo!
"Boo-hoo! boo-hoo!" how the feathers flew
When the snaix embrued with the doodledoo.

They fought and scratched, and they puffed and bled
Till the very air was a carmine hue,
And they never stopped till they both were dead,
The subtile snaix and the doodledoo.
Although of her lovers thus bereft
The bingo bird gave a careless shrug,
And quoth, "It's frigid when I get left,"
And straightway wedded the straddle bug.
And there was nobody left to rue
The fate of the snaix and the doodledoo!

THAT THE WEAVING-IN-AND-OUT drivers are a pest to the human race there is no denying. But what to do about those drivers of cars that haven't the speed of ice wagons or the old fashioned small town herse? They invariably climb right over into the middle lane and trundle along like so many doodlebugs. Can't something be done to persuade 'em to keep in the right hand lane "except in passing"? And if they won't be kept in the right hand lane then they ought to be kept off the highway. Gosh, those push carts make me so mad that sometimes I forget to swear when an in-and-out-weaver bird goes by.

MY SONG OF YOU.

Let me but hear you speak, no matter what
The tone or burden of the uttered word;
Language, inflection, meaning, matter not,
So that the music of your voice is heard.

Within the sounding-chamber of my heart
The magic notes will melt, and form anew,
And to the eager listening strings impart
Pulsations that will sing my song of you.

COLD AIR BATHS.

Of the great men to whom the American revolution gave opportunity none was greater than Benjamin Franklin. He was almost as myriad minded as Shakespeare. He had a considerable degree of inventiveness. His was the instinct of a pioneer. He was a philosopher, and in both practical and theoretical matters he was an independent thinker. Both fortunately and unfortunately he was an opportunist—fortunately in that the quality fitted him admirably for the European service the young nation was so much in need of, and unfortunately in that opportunists lack the courage and in some other ways are unequal to the demands that made it possible for Washington, Jefferson, and Hamilton to make for themselves places in history.

Among other great qualities Benjamin Franklin thought sanely and in advance of his time on medical questions. He knew how to live, and wrote well on personal hygiene. He knew much about public health and something about curative medicine. Much has been written of Benjamin Franklin as a physicist.

Dr. W. T. Johnson says that in 1768 he wrote the following: "You know that the cold bath has long been in vogue here as a tonic, but the shock of the cold water has always appeared to me, generally speaking, as too violent; and I have found it much more agreeable to my constitution to bathe in another element. I mean cold air. With this in view I arise almost every morning and sit in my chamber without any clothes whatever half an hour or an hour, according to the season, either reading or writing. This practice is not in the least painful, but, on the contrary, agreeable, and if I return to bed afterwards before I dress myself, as sometimes happens, I make a supplement to my night's rest of the most pleasant sleep that can be imagined. I find no ill consequences whatever resulting from it, and that at least it does not injure my health if it does not in fact contribute much to its preservation. I shall, therefore, call it for the future a bracing or tonic bath."

Dr. B. Fantus adds by way of comment that this treatment was rather in vogue in the eighteenth century, as may be gathered from Boswell's Life of Johnson. Boswell said: "I mentioned that Lord Monboddo told me he awakened every morning at 4, and then, for his health, got up and walked in his room naked with the windows open, which he called taking an air bath, after which he went to bed again and slept two hours more."

Johnson, who was always ready to beat down anything that seemed to be exhibited with disproportionate importance, thus observed: "I suppose, sir, there is no more in it than this. He awakens at 4 and cannot sleep until he chills himself and makes the warmth of his bed a grateful sensation."

Benjamin Franklin was right in calling the exposure to cold air "a bracing or tonic bath." Johnson was right in reasoning that its effect on insomnia was indirect. It prepared the way for relaxation which led to sleep.

METALLIC TASTE.

E. G. writes: For the last two years my mother, 64 years of age, has been suffering from a metallic taste akin to holding pennies in her mouth. One doctor diagnosed it as a rusty stomach, another was unable to locate the cause but prescribed a mouth wash. We thought it might be due to some deterioration in her bridge work and a new set was ordered, but to no avail. Recently a friend of hers complained of this same disturbance, but advised that her doctor attributed it to excretions from the gall bladder. Is there any method by which my mother can rid herself of it? She is fairly healthy in every other respect and quite active.

REPLY.

There are several causes for metallic taste. One is the presence in the mouth of more than one kind of metal—for instance, amalgam fillings and gold crowns. This sets up electric currents which cause ionization of metals. Has this possibility been investigated? I judge her friend thought she had a diseased gall bladder. That is possible.

DANGER NOT GREAT.

M. F. writes: Is there danger of a woman marrying a man who has had tuberculosis that has been entirely cured? Is there any danger of its being hereditary?

REPLY.

Tuberculosis is not infective except when tubercle bacilli are being excreted. Therefore, there would be no danger in marrying this man. Nor would there be any considerable danger to the children of such a marriage.

TERMINATING LEASE.

Chicago, May 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The following answer, which you made to my question recently, is not clear to me: "Section 12 of the Illinois Landlord and Tenant act provides: 'When the tenancy is for a certain period and the term expires by the terms of the lease, the tenant is then bound to surrender possession and no notice to quit or demand of possession is necessary.' Hence, whenever either party wishes to be in a position to count on the ensuing year, it is proper for him to ask the other party [1] for an agreement, and if it is refused, to make other arrangements. If the lease contains an express renewal clause, the effect will depend on the wording." 2. My tenant says he heard over the radio that he is required to give me only 30 days notice of his intention to vacate or renew, instead of 60 days [3] as printed in the form for "apartment lease—steam heat," and is asking me to change it accordingly. 4. Is he right? Paragraph 15 of the lease reads: [5] "That said lessee will give lessor written notice 60 days prior to the expiration of this lease, or any extension thereof, of his intention to vacate said premises or renew his lease, and a failure of said lessee to give such notice, shall operate as a renewal of the tenancy [?] for the further period of one year, at the option of the lessor." 6. Who set this period of 60 days? 7. Is it by statute or [8] by common practice? 9. If by statute, has it been changed to 30 days? 10. Am I obligated to change this paragraph to read 30 days? R. P. D.

1. We stated that it was proper for the party to open negotiations whenever he wished to be sure that he could count on the new year. If he is willing to leave the future uncertain, he can wait until the end of the year covered by his lease. This is, of course, on the assumption that the lease is silent as to renewal.

2. We are confident that you misunderstood.

3. If your lease contains express wording on this point, your rights would depend on that wording.

4. See preceding answers.

5. We see no reason why this wording should not be effective. In other words, if the tenant does not give 60 days' notice the lease would renew.

6. The lease is regarded as an agreement by the two parties who have signed it. Hence, the 60 day period is set by the two parties.

7. No.

FRIEND OF THE INSURED

BOILER INSURANCE.

Chicago, May 23.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Is it necessary for me to have insurance on a steam boiler used to heat a six apartment building? What does this kind of insurance cover? I now have fire insurance on the building. M. P.

If you desire protection against damage arising out of an explosion of the boiler this type of insurance is necessary. There are two forms of coverage available under a boiler policy—direct damage and indirect damage. Direct losses may include protection against the immediate result of an explosion caused solely by steam pressure or internal pressure of air, gas or liquid; damage to the boiler itself, damage to other property of the insured, damage to property of others for which the insured is liable.

The property protected against such hazards usually includes everything within the destroying range of the exploding boiler which is actually destroyed or damaged. Claims under the policy for property damage must be supported by visible evidence of physical destruction by the direct force of the explosion, such as broken windows, building, and machinery.

A steam boiler policy would not cover failures resulting from causes other than steam pressure, even though such damage may be of importance. For example, severe damage may result due to firing without water. In addition to property damage, additional coverage providing protection for loss from liability for injuries or death may also be secured. This, however, would be considered excess insurance if public liability insurance is already carried, since the typical public liability policy also covers bodily injuries or death resulting from an exploding boiler.

SUBROGATION.

Chicago, May 22.—[Friend of the Insured.]—My insurance company paid all except $50 of a substantial repair bill for damages to my car resulting from accident. I also tried to collect from the party responsible for the accident, but was told that my insurance company had already started action to collect. Am I entitled to anything the company may get from the other party? F. A. R.

The subrogation clause in automobile policies states that the insurance company shall be subrogated to all the rights which the insured may have against any person, as respects any payment made under the policy, and the assured shall execute all papers required to secure to the company such rights.

When the company paid the repair bills covering damages sustained by your car the subrogation clause immediately became operative, and since they were obliged to pay under your policy they are endeavoring to recover the amount of such payment from the party responsible for such loss. You would only be entitled to the $50 not recoverable under your policy providing they were awarded that much more than they paid you.

THE REAL TORIES.

Chicago, May 20.—The conscientious American critic of the so-called New Deal with its accompanying nullification of the personal liberty which we have been taught to cherish is condemned by the brain trust as a tory, a reactionary.

Is it reactionary to stand up in defense of our free institutions? Is it reactionary to protest against dictatorships on free soil? Is it reactionary to criticize the government for promoting the Fascist tenets of centralization, regimentation, coercion, suppression of free press and free speech? Is it tory to protest against the long ago discredited principle of class discrimination? Is it tory policy to protest against the government's attempt to run American business into chaos?

American industry had its birth in freedom and can only recover permanently through freedom. Is it being a tory to protest against the government's spendthrift campaign; to caution the government against throwing more American people out of work by meddling with communications, free press, etc.? They are about to wreck the securities market by forcing arbitrary control legislation on the stock exchanges which will suppress the free flow of capital as we slowly recover. Only by allowing for the free flow of capital can we cause a practical redistribution of wealth.

Let us place the epithets tory and reactionary where they belong. The words can be interpreted as reflexive—as reflecting on the brain trust and the Roosevelt administration. This is no New Deal. It is a reversion to the old, discredited feudal system. EDWARD SCHLICK JR.

INTERESTING IF TRUE DEPARTMENT.

Oconto, Wis., May 27.—The Williams Flour and Feed company, formerly owned by a small, honest, hard working distributor in this little town, has quit business, or rather the United States government has driven him out of business, by giving away flour to almost every one who wants it. Why buy when it comes from the taxpayers for nothing?

Some families have 8 or 10 sacks stacked away in their basement. "Why not take all you can get, it's free," is the way it's figured out. The administration is buying votes with sacks of flour. They are saying it with flour. The taxpayers will soon be saying it with cash.

Milk by the half dozen quarts is left "free" at the doorsteps by the same government to sour in the sun. My next door neighbor gets six quarts a day. There are five in the family. They can't drink it all. But they have a dog. He likes milk. The dog is fat and happy. Too bad he can't vote, too.

TEN CENT STRAWBERRIES.

Vincennes, Ind., May 26.—When strawberries sell at 10 cents per box to the consumer it means that the producer is making a direct contribution out of his farm and his labor to feed the city consumer, because strawberries cannot be produced at a price which permits their being sold at 10 cents per quart. Of course, if the producer got all of the 10 cents it would be fine and dandy, because he would break even on the deal, but he only gets 4 cents, and the 6 cents goes to transportation, commission merchant and retailer's profit, a division that is entirely unfair.

I cite strawberries merely as an example. Practically every fresh vegetable on the Chicago market is being sold at prices that bring the producer a net loss. This is all very well for the city consumer, but it is working havoc out in the country and is one of the principal contributing factors to the continuance of the depression, because there is no buying power among the thirty million people engaged in agriculture when they produce and sell at a loss.

City people should look upon 10 cent strawberries as a calamity. It takes the bread out of their mouths, takes away from them their jobs, and brings no measure of good to any one concerned in the transaction.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1.

Hubbard Woods, Ill., May 26.—Anent the proposal to found a national university to train peace officers to a greater efficiency in the apprehension of public enemies, and with due respect to the abilities of the Dillingers, the Barrows, the Capones, and others equally well known but more free and fortunate, it is the opinion of the writer that if a new nationally revised list of public enemies be prepared that the national government as a whole would easily rank as public enemy No. 1. That is its rating, whether it be in the confiscation of private property in guise of an 18th amendment, the looting of our natural resources as in Teapot Dome, the failure to maintain our Liberty bonds or our dollar at parity, the killing of little pigs, or the suspension of the entire constitution without the formality required for its amendment. Crime as a whole is but a minor concomitant of a breakdown of the law and indicates an acute national peritonitis, more menacing and expensive to our citizenry than other crimes and criminals.

JOHN A. HOFF.

WALKER SPEAKS AT NOTRE DAME COMMENCEMENT

University Confers LL. D. on Four Notables.

Notre Dame, Ind., June 3.—[Special.]—Frank C. Walker, executive director of the national emergency council, outlined problems of the national government before 523 graduates of the University of Notre Dame and 5,000 guests in his commencement address today at the 90th annual commencement exercises of the university here.

The university conferred the degree of doctor of laws on Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Mr. Walker, the Most Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, Md., and Dr. Maurice Goldblatt of Chicago, director of the Wightman Memorial art gallery of the university.

Archbishop Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, presided at the exercises.

Two Governors Guests.

Archbishop Cicognani sang the solemn pontifical baccalaureate mass this morning and Bishop McNamara delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

Among the guests on the speakers' platform were Gov. Horner of Illinois and Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, Bishop Albers of Cincinnati, and Byron V. Kanaley, Chicago, chairman of the board of lay trustees.

Mr. Walker advised simplification of the national governmental structure and a "coördinated system of taxation that may correct the abuses and inequalities of the present haphazard system."

Urges Attention to Tarif.

He blamed prohibition in a large measure for the extent of crime and declared that conscientious willingness to perform jury service, coupled with a modern housing program, would do much to combat predatory lawlessness.

Farm relief he saw extending into the future as a problem of fitting production to the national and world markets. He urged the seniors to reserve the power of tarif adjustments that the duties might be calculated to promote only sound enterprises and not to stimulate basically unsuitable trade.

LOUISIANA WOMEN TO SELL HEIRLOOMS TO FIGHT AGAINST LONG

New Orleans, June 3.—(AP)—A "sacrifice sale" of family heirlooms to raise funds for continuing the fight to have Huey P. Long and John H. Overton, Louisiana Democrats, ejected from the United States senate will be held next week in the French quarter by the Women's Committee of Louisiana.

Members have presented personal belongings for sale, consisting of pottery, china, furniture, and jewelry. Proceeds will be used to pay counsel and other expenses in connection with the campaign against the senators.

Hilda Phelps Hammond, chairman of the women's committee, said that "since the United States senate sits inert and refuses to appropriate funds for the investigation of the charges, it is necessary for the women to raise funds to see that proper hearings are held."

STUDENT SHOT AFTER BRAWL IN TAVERN JAILED

Richard Hammond, 21 years old, a student in a Wheaton business college who was shot in the hand after an altercation early yesterday at Melody Hill, a roadhouse in North Riverside, was held on a charge of attempted hold up last night by the North Riverside police. His bond was set at $10,000. One of his companions, Charles Sullivan, 20, of 605 Prairie avenue, Wheaton, was held on charges of assault and battery and disorderly conduct and his bonds were set at $3,000.

Hammond was shot by Policeman Robert Gammie. According to Gammie, Sullivan and Hammond and two girls, Catherine Rieser, 23, of 510 Wheaton avenue, Wheaton, and Stella Kowald, 23, of 2215 Augusta street, Chicago, caused a commotion in the roadhouse, which is operated by Benjamin Lejcer. Lejcer said the boys tossed a vending machine about the room. After a struggle, Gammie took Sullivan to police station across the road from the roadhouse.

Hammond followed to the station, according to the policeman, and put his hands in his pocket, ordering Gammie to stick up his hands. Gammie then fired and the bullet lodged in Hammond's hand. Hammond was treated at the Berwyn hospital and then was locked up with Sullivan at the Forest Park police station. The girls were not held.

MOVIE PLAYERS FROM FAIR TO BE HEARD ON W-G-N

Friends in Hollywood to Listen In.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

With movie and radio celebrities listening in on the west coast, the Thalians, the young troupe of picture folk appearing at Hollywood at the Fair, will put on the major portion of the Midnight Flyers broadcast at midnight tonight over W-G-N from the Blackhawk restaurant. Pierre Andre will be master of ceremonies for the Hollywood party and Seymour Simons' orchestra will provide the music.

Among the stars participating will be Mary Carr, Lincoln Steadman, Marion Sinclair, and Arthur Lake, who played "Harold Teen" in the movies. Jimmy Durante, Jack Pearl, Polly Moran, Lupe Velez, Walt Disney, and Laurel and Hardy are among those who have sent word that they will be listening tonight.

Harold Teen to Be Back.

The mention of Harold Teen brings to mind the report that the antics of Harold and Lillums are soon to be back on the airways. Chester Gould's "Dick Tracy" is winning such acclaim in its radio tryout in Boston over WBZ-WBZA that it will probably be aired shortly over a large NBC network. The radio version is aimed at listeners of all ages and sticks to the author's point of view—inculcating respect for law and order in children.

Ireene Wicker, known to radio as the Singing Lady, will begin her appearances at the Enchanted Isle at the Fair next Thursday. There in the Story cove she will repeat stories and songs that have featured her W-G-N NBC programs.

Under the direction of Frank Laird Waller the Milwaukee Philharmonic orchestra will begin a series of weekly broadcast concerts over NBC at 11 p. m. next Thursday.

Sigmund Spaeth, the well known music critic, in choosing an "all American music team for 1934" for Esquire, includes eight names well known to radio listeners. They are: Lawrence Tibbett, baritone [captain]; Albert Spalding, violinist; George Gershwin, composer-pianist; Richard Crooks, tenor; John Charles Thomas, baritone; Frank Black, conductor-pianist; Paul Whiteman, conductor, and Rudy Vallee. The other three are Yehudi Menuhin, violinist, and Singers Paul Althouse and Nelson Eddy.

Wright to Start Series.

Art Wright, the young Mooseheart tenor, who has been singing with Leo Reisman the past season and latterly on several W-G-N programs, will start a sponsored series with Len Salvo at the organ at 9:45 a. m. next Saturday. He will be heard at the same hour Tuesdays and Thursdays. Art Wright used to be on the air over WJJD for an arthritis remedy. It was a trying combination for the announcer.

Al Bernie, radio mimic; Pappy Zeke and Exra, and Emery D'Arcy, baritone, head the radio talent for the Chicago Theater of the Air program Tuesday evening on W-G-N. The theater orchestra, under the direction of Josef Cherniavsky, and vocal ensemble will contribute to the program.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Missed

FUNERAL RITES FOR J. A. SHANNON, LAWYER, TODAY

Funeral services will be held this afternoon for John Allen Shannon, educational director of the Oxford institute, a law school at 4750 Sheridan road, and former professor of law at Northwestern and De Paul universities. Mr. Shannon, who was 54 years old, died suddenly Thursday after a heart attack in his home at 2908 Washington boulevard.

JOHN A. SHANNON.

Born at Falling Water, near Chattanooga, Tenn., March 31, 1880, Mr. Shannon spent the early years of his life in a log cabin. At Signal Mountain, Tenn., he was principal of a three room country school at the age of 19. Among his pupils were several of his brothers and his future wife, Cora Conner, to whom he was married in 1905. She died in 1914.

The services will be held at the undertaking chapel at 2846 West Madison street, with the Rev. William Tullberg of the Wilson avenue Y. M. C. A. officiating. Interment will be at Rosehill cemetery. Surviving are four children, Howard, Marcus, Rosetta, and Lucretia.

S. LOLLESGARD, LANDSCAPING EXPERT, DIES

Svend Lollesgard, 74 years old, landscape architect, died yesterday after an illness of three years in his home half a mile north of Riverside on the east bank of the Des Plaines river.

Born in Jutland, Denmark, in 1860, Mr. Lollesgard came to Chicago fifty years ago. He became active in landscaping work and was in charge of the work of laying out parts of Graceland, Woodlawn, Evergreen, and other cemeteries.

In 1889 he married Charlotte Alstrup, member of a pioneer Chicago family. They had one son, Holger Alstrup Lollesgard, former editor of the Automobile Blue Book. Mrs. Lollesgard died in 1908 and five years later Mr. Lollesgard married a cousin in Denmark.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Agnes Lollesgard; his son, Holger; a daughter, Betzy, and a brother, Dr. Einar Lollesgard of Denmark. Services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. in the chapel at Graceland cemetery.

GEORGE G. HALL, O. HENRY FRIEND, DIES IN VIRGINIA

Washington, D. C., June 3.—[Special.]—George Gilman Hall, magazine editor, died this morning at his home in Vienna, Va. He was 68 years old. Six years ago Mr. Hall suffered a stroke from which he never completely recovered. His home at Vienna was established last year.

It was due, it is said, to insight and appreciation of Mr. Hall that O. Henry was "discovered" and given the opportunity that brought him fame. The editor and author were friends for many years. Among the things most prized by Mr. Hall were notes and letters from O. Henry as the result of this association.

Born at Chelsea, Mass., in 1866, Mr. Hall attended Harvard university from which he was graduated in 1888. In 1895 he was married at Bronxville, N. Y., to Esther Bernice Wadsworth of Boston. From 1897 until his retirement from active work Mr. Hall served as editor on several magazines.

He was a sub-editor on McClure's and shortly after Ainslee's was started he went to that publication, where he remained as associate editor for seven years. From 1904 to 1916 he was associate editor of the Red Cross magazine.

Funeral services will be held at the Vienna residence on Wednesday. Cremation will be at Washington.

FUNERAL RITES SET TODAY FOR MICHAEL BOLGER

Funeral services will be held today for Michael J. Bolger, 761 Summit avenue, Lake Forest, who was born 82 years ago on a farm two miles west of the town, opposite the present J. Ogden Armour estate. Mr. Bolger, who was a farmer until 1915, when he moved into Lake Forest, died Friday at his home.

MICHAEL J. BOLGER.

His father, John Bolger, came from Ireland in 1838 and settled at the place which now is known for its elaborate estates. The pioneer bought 200 acres of land from the government at $2.75 an acre. Part of the land came to have a value of $1,000 an acre.

The services will be held at St. Mary's church in Lake Forest, and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery. Surviving is the widow, Anne. The late Patrick J. Carr, prominent Chicago politician, was a nephew of Mr. Bolger.

Cartoonist Jackson of 'Bean Family' Fame Dies

Winterbothams Start Summer of 'Roughing It'

Rent Tiny House in Pasture Near Wayne.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE isn't any use in ever trying to reach Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. on the telephone at home these days, for when she isn't down at the Fair being Aladdin in the Junior league's production of that name in the Children's theater on the Enchanted Island she is out in Wayne fixing up the tiny house she and her husband have rented for the summer.

It is in a cow pasture and there isn't any plumbing in it—not a stick of furniture thus far, either—but it is just what the Winterbothams and young Johnny want for picnicking and "camping out" and they are delighted with it.

The family spent Memorial day painting the front of it with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. James Hume, and some kind and generous friend has presented a sink to them, so one pipe line will be installed, but that is as far as the Winterbothams will indulge their taste for luxuries this summer.

Eli Bates Sale to Be Held at Armours' Manor.

Very different from the Winterbothams' "country estate" is one that is to be opened on Friday of this week for an Eli Bates sale. It is Tangley Oaks in Lake Forest, the Philip D. Armours' gorgeous place, one of the show places of the north shore. Mr. Armour purchased the property, about 160 acres, in 1916, and since then has done much to improve it. The house is a lovely English country manor. Mrs. Armour always is most generous about opening it for worth while causes, and there is sure to be a large crowd at Friday's sale, which will be held from 10 until 6 o'clock. The women of the Eli Bates settlement make lovely linens which are sold at the Eli Bates shop at 124 East Delaware place and at sales at private homes in and near Chicago.

Quite a number of Lake Foresters who are members of the settlement board are giving luncheons Friday and taking their guests on to Mrs. Armour's later. Among them are Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon, Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr., Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley, Mrs. Laurence Robbins, Mrs. John H. Hamline Jr., and Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr.

Mrs. Blair, Mrs. Forgan, Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Hamline, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson are on the shop committee.

Mrs. McPherson will be going east the day of the sale to meet her daughter, Miss Fanny McPherson, when she arrives from England, where she has been visiting friends in Berkshire since leaving Paris, where she studied all winter. Miss McPherson will make her debut next fall at a tea on Sept. 15. In July the McPherson family is going north to spend the rest of the summer in Victor Elting's cabin at the Huron Mountain club.

Young Mrs. Madlener to Give Party Today.

Not in some time have we heard of a nicer party than the one young Mrs. Albert F. Madlener is giving this afternoon, and we are certain the two persons for whom it is being given will agree with us, as well as those who go to it. Mrs. Madlener is giving it for her mother and mother-in-law, Mrs. Frank O. Lowden and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener, and it is to be a two piano recital, with the hostess and May Doelling Schmidt as the artists. After the music, tea will be served. Mrs. Madlener Sr. will be opening her country place on Lake Geneva soon, and by week after next her grandchildren will be with her for the summer, with Mr. and Mrs. Madlener Jr. joining the family for week-ends. Mrs. Lowden already is at Sinissippi farm, near Oregon, for the summer.

Miss Stillwell Week-End Guest of Miss Leonard.

The most feted girl in Chicago these days is Miss May Stillwell, attractive niece of Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, who has come here from her home in England to spend a month. She spent the week-end in Lake Forest with Miss Fleury Leonard and her mother, Mrs. David R. Forgan. Mrs. Forgan and Miss Leonard gave a luncheon for her yesterday and the Austin Niblacks gave a dinner for her last evening at the Shoreacres club. Thursday the James L. Houghtelings are giving a dinner and theater party, with dinner at the Tavern, and next Sunday Mrs. Hopewell Rogers and Mrs. Oren Taft are giving a luncheon for the visitor at the Saddle and Cycle club. On the 15th the Gilbert Scribners of Winnetka are giving a party at the house on the roof of the Hotel Sherman for her, and Miss Jean O'Brien, the Howard V. O'Briens' daughter, will give a cocktail party preceding it, probably at some place in town. The next night Miss Stillwell will be an especial guest with Miss Marie Swift at a dinner dance Miss Swift's parents, the Gustavus Swifts, will give in Lake Forest, and the following day, Sunday, Mrs. F. Hampden Winston will give a luncheon at Shoreacres.

Republican Women Give Luncheon Today.

Among those who have made reservations for the luncheon of the Woman's National Republican Club of Chicago today at the Drake are Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Harold C. Strotz, Mrs. Thomas Houston, Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger, and Mrs. Franklin Miller. Among the out of town delegates, all national committeewomen, who will be present are Mrs. John Hillman of Colorado, Mrs. Frank Talman of Delaware, Miss Martha McClure of Iowa, and Mrs. Murray Boocock of Virginia. Mrs. Jacob Baur is chairman of the luncheon and Mrs. Clyde Jay is chairman of arrangements. Mrs. George

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

WE were charmed by the printed tale of how Anne Parrish, the writer, found, among the dogeared volume in a bookstall on the left bank in Paris, a copy of a book she remembered from her childhood in the middle west. She snatched it up eagerly, went to a bench to sit down and look through it for a certain tale she had loved, and stopped motionless at what she saw on the flyleaf. There, in a childish scrawl, it said: "Anne Parrish, 209 Weber street, Colorado Springs."

Coincidence—Speech—Geography—Schumann-Heink.

Slightly envious of not having had that charming tale of a coincidence in print first ourselves, we are somewhat consoled by Juana Foust's story of an occurrence of last Saturday at the meeting of the Penwomen of America at the Auditorium hotel. Alice Brown Stout, Oak Park composer who recently played and sang her own songs at the White House tea Mrs. Roosevelt gave for the Penwomen in Washington, was asked to repeat the program at Saturday's meeting.

Going over to the piano, she sat down, rested her fingers on the keys and played a few notes. As she did so a startled expression came over her face. However, she finished her program, then got up and looked the piano over.

"I'm right," she exclaimed. "This is my old piano. I traded it in years ago."

It was then, out of sentiment, that she again seated herself at the piano and played and sang a song she had composed years earlier on the selfsame instrument.

WORTH reporting, perhaps, is an incident that occurred in the clubroom of the Friends of Nature on West Division street the other evening when Jack Conroy, the miner's son who wrote "Disinherited," and who shortly will publish another book called "The Little Stranger," spoke on "The Revolutionary Novel." The listeners, young writers and artists mostly, liked the speech so well that they clamored for another when he had finished.

Embarrassed by the applause, sun tanned, curly haired Conroy said that was the only speech he knew.

"Give it again," somebody yelled. And give it again he did.

PERHAPS it is just the New Deal in geography. Anyway, a newspaper advertisment of the Blackstone hotel mentions dinner in the French dining room overlooking the lake with music by the "Royal Hungarian orchestra from Budapest, Italy."

MADAME SCHUMANN-HEINK, discussing various incidents of her career and recounting musical experiences at the luncheon given by Carleton Smith in her honor at the Arts club, told of a time early in her career when she had sung in Germany for the kaiser and the kaiserin. Queen Alexandra of England was visiting the German royal family at the time, and in deference to the presence of the English queen Madame Schumann-Heink said that she spoke in English in outlining what she was about to sing. It was English she had learned on a recent American tour and she was both amused and mortified when the queen said humorously:

"You learned your English in America, I am sure, because of the slang expressions you use."

Her comfort was not added to by the kaiser's saying testily that she should stick to her own language, anyhow.

Shakespeare Attracts Full Houses at Fair

15 Plays to Be Presented During Season.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The first week of Shakespearean performances in the Globe theater of Merrie England, at the World's Fair, was eminently successful, both in the quality of productions and at the box office. The classics of English drama, acted with Elizabethan simplicity and gusto in the environment of their time, have attracted laughing and applauding crowds of Exposition visitors, and at most of the performances, which are given six or seven times a day, the playhouse was filled to its capacity of 400.

The company's repertory now consists of "The Taming of the Shrew," "Julius Cæsar," "A Comedy of Errors," and "A Midsummer Night's Dream," each condensed to forty-five minutes of acting time. The hit scored by "The Taming of the Shrew" at the dedicatory performance has been repeated in "Julius Cæsar" and "A Comedy of Errors." In the former, John A. Willard gives a magnificent reading of Marc Antony's funeral oration, and Carl Benton Reid is an effective Brutus. These two men have proved themselves able and versatile Shakespearean actors.

The double case of "doubles," which forms the plot of "A Comedy of Errors," finds free play for its comic situations on the primitive stage of the Elizabethan era. Mr. Willard and Donald Gallagher are the twin noblemen, while Joseph Curtin and Jack B. Nestle, spry young clowns of the company, are diverting as the two Dromios.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream," as abbreviated for tabloid use, is mainly devoted to the antics of Bottom the weaver and his gang of clodhopper Thespians, and sounds like a Shakespearean burlesque on the little theaters of 1600. Mr. Reid gives a jolly performance of the chief clown, but the appeal of the play, as always, is decidedly juvenile, and it may be dropped from the repertory.

The next addition to the schedule will be "All's Well That Ends Well," one of the rarest items, so far as acting is concerned, in the Shakespearean catalog. For that matter, "A Comedy of Errors" is also a rarity, for it has not been staged in Chicago since the 1890s. The Globe theater promises at least fifteen productions during the period of the Fair.

The "Ziegfeld Follies" will begin a Chicago engagement in the first week of August. This revue, staged by the Shuberts by arrangements with Florenz Ziegfeld's widow, Billie Burke, will end its Broadway run next Saturday night. It has been in performance at the New York Winter Garden since Jan. 4.

"Judas Iscariot," a drama by the late Temple Thurston, will be staged in the Goodman theater tonight for a week's performances under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation. It will be presented as a religious spectacle, and in some of its scenes more than 200 players will participate.

Business Women's Club to Dine New President

Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder, newly elected president of the Chicago Business and Professional Women's club, will be honored tonight at a banquet in the house on the roof of Hotel Sherman. Representatives of business and professional women's clubs throughout Illinois will attend. Dr. Grace McCarthy, district chairman of the state organization, and Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin will speak.

Good Morning!

Mamma, that man's here again! That NICE man—Jack Holt!

Back as you like him, too. Good to look at and noble as all get out.

The picture brings its regrets to those who want everything to turn out happily for everybody in their movies. But to the folks who realize that life isn't like that and prefer their photoplays with dashes of realism, "The Whirlpool" will be a pleasure.

As the curtain rises Mr. Holt is discovered as owner of a traveling carnival show—in love for the first time in his life with Helen, a lovely girl residing in the town where the show is temporarily located.

Nothing will do but that Helen shall marry Buck. She demurs. She loves him—yes! But he's not the sort of man, she thinks, who will bear being tied. He'll hate her inside of six months. . . .

Buck kisses her objections away. And Helen becomes Mrs. Rankin.

Trouble at the show. . . . Buck is arrested, convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to twenty years in the penitentiary.

Because he thinks it best for Helen, who he learns is to have a baby, Buck arranges matters so that she believes him to have been killed while attempting escape. . . .

Years later—his term served—he turns up under a different name and becomes owner of a prominent night club.

From here on the film becomes a father and daughter affair—and an interesting one.

Mr. Holt is simply splendid. So forthright, so sincere, so unassuming. Lila Lee, as Helen, is adorable in the old-fashioned clothes of 1900 or so. And Jean Arthur, gone definitly blonde, gives a beautiful performance as the newspaper reporter daughter who finds her father after many years only to—never mind!

Donald Cook is nice as her fiancé. Allen Jenkins as Holt's hypochondriac pal and right hand man is, as always, a peach and a laugh getter. A torch singer and a gangster lawyer are briefly and effectively portrayed by Rita La Roy and John Miljan.

The action has plenty speed for the average observer. Direction and dialog deserve a hand.

All in all, I think I can promise that you'll like "The Whirlpool."

What does the title mean? SOMETHING! Really!

See you tomorrow.

Observe 50th Anniversary of Fr. Hopper's Ordination

Special services at St. Mary's Catholic church, 9th street and Wabash avenue, were held at noon yesterday in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Rev. Walter Edward Hopper's ordination to priesthood. Father Hopper, the oldest living priest of the Paulist order, was the first Paulist pastor of St. Mary's church and is the last surviving associate of the Rev. Isaac Hecker, founder of the order. Once superior at St. Mary's, he is now sacristan and liturgist there. A cablegram of congratulation and blessing was received by Father Hopper from Pope Pius XI. yesterday.

Wampas Negotiates to Bring All 13 of Its Beauteous Baby Stars to Fair

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., June 3.—[Special.] The Wampas organization is negotiating to take all thirteen of this year's crop of Wampas baby stars to A Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago for an appearance. Some of the runner-up beauties who weren't among the thirteen starlets also may make the trip. The Wampas organization sponsors the annual baby star selections. It is a formally organized body of Hollywood movie publicity men.

The thirteen baby stars are Judith Arlen, Betty Bryson, Warner Baxter's niece; Jean Carmen, Helene Cohan, George M. Cohan's daughter; Dorothy Drake, Jean Gale, Hazel Hayes, who gave up a successful career as opera singer to try for screen success; Ann Hovey, Lucille Lund, Lu Anne Meredith, Gi Gi Parrish, Jacqueline Wells, and Katherine Williams. Miss Lund is from Northwestern university and Ann Hovey from Mount Vernon, Ind., so the Chicago trip will be like a homecoming for them.

Hazel Forbes, the New York show girl who married into toothpaste wealth and who is one of the most sought after young bit players who ever entered movies, says girls who pluck their eyebrows harm rather than enhance their beauty unless they do the plucking from below. This, Hazel says, gives the plucked line a more artistic arc, besides making the eyes appear larger.

Francis Lederer is to play D'Artagnan in "The Three Musketeers" for R. K. O. this summer.

Jack West, fl Mae West's ex-prize fighter father, arrived yesterday to live on the San Fernando valley ranch in which Mae invested for him.

Jews to Plan Day at Fair.

Plans for the observance of Jewish day at A Century of Progress will be presented at a general conference of delegates from more than 1,000 Jewish groups of Chicago at the Morrison hotel tonight.

Stylish Green Coolest Color for Summer

Plaid Seersucker Frocks Deserve Notice.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The nicest summer cooler is green! And this color has been disdained for so long that all the grand new green clothes that are hanging around the shops now seem newer and smarter than any other shade.

There are green printed sheer suits with cooling wisps of white organdy collars and cuffs; green and white printed silk evening gowns, or dinner and dance dresses of thin printed silk, worn with a vapor thin white organdy or sheer coat. The coat is made with wide, miraculously cool looking sleeves that can be pushed well above the elbows or worn lower on the arm.

Green plaid seersucker frocks with the entire back exposed for sun tanning or wandering breezes, seersuckers made with pleated ruffles and cross straps are clever things that will make you think of all the coolest drinks you ever ordered.

If you make your own clothes, try out the cool, lime green shades of dotted swiss trimmed with quantities of white, or the very thin tissue ginghams that stay crisp and perky on the hottest of days. Green and white checked gingham is grand for one piece dresses or suits or even ankle length dance dresses.

Wide, and big, green and white plaid nets can be found in practically all dress goods departments, along with green and white dotted chiffons, the green discs widely spaced, or mint green mousseline de soie ready for the newest ruffled evening gowns.

You can buy green linen, green dimity and all shades of green novelty cotton. The greens have surely come into their own this summer and the wise, sultry shopper will welcome this refreshing color with proper and appreciative enthusiasm.

Fashion photograph . . . green and white plaid linen crash in large squares fashions a new short sleeved two piece street costume. The plaid is cut in V formation, the slim skirt has a kick pleat in front, and the pockets are accented with bias cut bands. A good dress for the office, summer shopping trip, sightseeing and country wear. It's from a Chicago shop.

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe, studying languages and making business contacts, she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young English singer. She decides to stake him to Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He asks Follette for a special opportunity, approved by him, of meeting his daughter. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Anny will find friends for Jerry Flint, whom Cara has decided she loves. Cara is going to sell her car for expense money.

INSTALMENT XIII.

PRIMITIVE BARGAINING.

Cara ran her car up to Flinney's immense garage and showrooms. "Want to sell her, Mr. Flinney."

He came to her himself. "And only bought her just before you went off abroad. Hardly used her. You ladies are fickle."

She laughed. "Want one of the new Axel-Hebbon twelves. In a month's time. Cash for this one."

"You've been stepping on it a bit?" He grinned. "Well, we know your father's views. Give you two thousand."

"Done. I'll leave her with you this afternoon."

"Sure of the new one in a month's time?"

But it was plain that he was sure for her.

"It will be my birthday!"

"I guess you're sure then!"

She didn't know how she kept the engaging smile on her lips. She hoped it was just painted there for good. And soon she drew up at the portico of the "dump" where she had installed Jerry Flint. It was, comparatively, a very small hotel used by the most modest travelers from the country.

He had seen her coming before she saw him standing under the portico. The doorman was for a moment transfixed with surprise before he dashed forward to open the car door. Miss Follette! He was, however, too late with his services, for Jerry jumped on the running board almost before the car stopped, had cocked a leg over the low door, and settled down beside her.

"O, darling!" he murmured.

She turned the car homeward, feeling again all that welter of softness and emotion which he had been the first to arouse in her. "Mother's going to launch you," she said breathlessly. At the moment ruin and disaster seemed far away. The launching of Jerry Flint was the most important thing on the horizon.

Her voice expressed, How on earth did you meet my daughter?

There would be time to launch him? Anny must do it while she herself was away at Mulligan's camp.

Anny knew Ricardini, the great impresario, with his famous house in New York, in the east fifties.

As she drove she thought of all this, as well as of her impending departure, and of Redman Harmer.

They came by way of Young street to the big house in the wide avenue. "There's our offices," she said as they slipped by. They came soon into the beautiful residential avenue. He was all eyes for it. Wealth! Wealth! Regiments of flowering trees were in bloom. Lawns were amazing stretches of velvet green.

Anny was in the drawing room, very elegant in her smart, hard-cut thin black morning suit, a black turban shining on her head, pulled well down over one well tended eyebrow. Beside her Cara looked fresh as the dawn and careless as some child of faery.

How reverently Jerry took Anny's thin hand. How admiringly he bowed over and kissed it.

The sulphur and white macaw swung in his huge scarlet ring on his high scarlet perch in the sun.

A butler came in velvet-footed, with cocktails on a heavy tray of English Georgian silver.

Wealth! Wealth! Wealth!

Anny liked the young stranger well enough. If he had come merely to kiss her hand, and hope for her patronage, well and good. But Cara should never be allowed—no, not allowed—to bring them all down in wreckage for him.

"I hope you'll sing to us after luncheon, Mr. Flint," said Anny, in a cool voice. "Not directly after, of course. . . . My daughter tells me your voice is too divine and I shall certainly want to show you off to my friends. Only that event must be postponed for a few weeks, because the Baumers and the Le Granges and the Mesuriers and the Dukes are all away."

And she asked him conventionally:

"Where are you staying?"

He mentioned the little hotel.

"And where did you meet my daughter?" Anny asked.

Her voice expressed "How on earth did you meet my daughter?" She was diabolically clever with intonations.

As he told this thin attractive woman in her perfect black clothes all about the great lake and the sailing boats and the sun, Jerry Flint knew that he had Anny Follette against him.

It would take weeks of humility and grateful expressions to thaw that coldness, dispel that wariness.

"You know or have heard of Ricardini?" Anny said, after a pause had marked her lack of interest in the Hamburg affair.

He colored and his eyes glowed. "Ricardini. O, Mrs. Follette!"

"I shall ask him to come from New York and hear you sing," said Anny. "He has visited us here before. He says he likes it."

"It must be a wonderful life here, Mrs. Follette."

"We are not at all artistic as a country. Ricardini will have to take you to New York. I think he would do it for me; he thinks I have some flair for discoveries," Anny said, looking him full in the face, offering the bribe in a way that he fully understood.

"Luncheon is served, madam," the butler said, in the doorway.

As they followed Anny out, Jerry managed to seize and press Cara's hand. They looked at each other a lingering look that the following servant observed.

Luncheon. Never in his life had he sat in such a dining room, eaten such food or drank such wine, a hock at the finest point of maturity, delicate, full and fragrant as flowers.

He knew that Cara was desirable to distraction. He knew also that Anny would try to buy him away from her with Ricardini. But he wanted both Ricardini and Cara. He set a high value on his own wits. It must be achieved!

As he thought this, the master of the house came in.

He looked round his table, and saw the young man. So this was he, was it? This was the male who had first held the woman Cara in his arms, kissed her lips as a lover? For in spite of her only half admissions last night, Benjamin knew. "Good day," he bowed formally to Jerry Flint, and helped himself to the cutlets that the butler was handing him.

He had had Redman Harmer on the telephone. "O Harmer, about that introduction to my daughter. She—she—she's not too pleased about the way I cut off her European trip, and, since business is slack—you know what I mean—she wants to go off to Mulligan's camp—you know the place?"

"Mulligan's, yes," answered the steady voice.

Follette went on, "she wants to go off straightaway for a month. Said she'd be delighted to meet you on her return if you are coming this way again. I had to compromise on that—couldn't make an important point of it since, of course, I couldn't exactly tell her the trend of our talk. She's leaving the day after tomorrow."

"She isn't flying, I suppose?"

"O no. No."

"She'll go by Edmonton and Athabaska——"

It was the talk of two men trying to keep the reasonably conventional plane, with, underlying it all the time, that shocking and savage—yes, shocking and savage—Benjamin, thought, feeling as if he crumbled under the shame of it—primitive bargaining between them. Man and woman. Man the buyer, woman the bought. Did such bargaining really endure?

Only, he had reiterated to himself, as he put the receiver back fumbling on its rest, he liked Harmer. He trusted Harmer. And Harmer loved Cara.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

FOUR CARD SUIT RESPONSES TO ONE NO TRUMP.

One more suggestion about the 4-4-3-2 distribution: When your hand contains two biddable four card suits, this is in itself a justification for expecting a no trump game, even if the other suit holdings are worthless. With both major suits biddable, take out first in spades and then in hearts if partner responds with two no trumps. If, instead of this, he raises the spades to three, bid three no trumps.

|---|---|
| Sp. K J x x | Di. x x |
| Hts. K J x x | Cl. x x x |

should be bid in this manner.

The great promise of a K J x x holding is that the partner is almost certain to hold A x x, so that you should have a finesse to make three or even four tricks in the suit. With two such combinations in the hand the dummy may well contribute eight tricks in play, and should yield six, anyway.

If in one of these suits both the queen and the ten are held by the enemy, the opening no trump bidder is likely to hold A x x x or A Q x or A 10 9 in the other. He can make his early play in the better suit or suits and prepare for an end play in the other.

|---|---|
| Sp. K J x x | Di. x x |
| Hts. x x x | Cl. K J x x |

would be bid—one no trump, two spades, two no trump [or three spades], three no trump. Were the heart holding Q 10 x, you should raise to two no trumps and not mention the spades. With

|---|---|
| Sp. K J x x | Di. K 10 x x |
| Hts. x x x | Cl. x x |

you should pass. You offer an immediate play in one suit only, with mere protection in another. With

|---|---|
| Sp. x x | Di. K J x x |
| Hts. x x x | Cl. K J x x |

bid two no trumps, for the reasons explained above. But with

|---|---|
| Sp. x x x | Di. K J x x |
| Hts. x x x | Cl. K J x |

you should pass. The high cards are the same, but you now have a split hand with two unprotected suits and only one suit in which the declarer can make a play for three or four tricks.

The club holding is now only a protective and reëntry holding—it offers no hope of producing a low card trick in your hand. Convert one of your jacks into a queen or change one of the major suit holdings to J 10 x or Q x x, and the raise to two no trumps would be in order.

Find the Right Fit Before You Press the Bidding.

My extreme reluctance to make other than minimum responses or rebids until a definite fit is discovered or, if you prefer, my unwillingness to be enthusiastic about thirteen cards without reference to the other thirteen, is often assailed as overcautiousness. Nevertheless, Sir Derrick Wernher and Mrs. H. L. Peterson [holder with Mrs. Jay S. Jones Jr. of the women's pair national championships both at auction and at contract] obtained a sweet top score in a recent Atlantic City tournament by their fine bidding of the following hand:

Mrs. Peterson, holding

|---|---|
| Sp. x x | Di. A K x x x x x |
| Hts. — | Cl. A K x x |

bid one diamond. Wernher held

|---|---|
| Sp. A K 10 | Di. x |
| Hts. K J x x | Cl. 10 9 8 x x |

but, whereas the others all responded with two no trumps and ended up in three no trumps, my old teammate distrusted his lack of diamond support and bid two clubs. He felt sure that Mrs. Peterson would rebid in some way, as she is strictly a Sims player and had opened the bidding as dealer. She bid five clubs. Knowing this raise to mean four clubs to A K or A Q with ample confirmation of the primary strength behind the opening bid, Wernher bid six clubs. "Double" from the player on his right, holding A Q x of hearts, Q J x x in spades, Q J x x in diamonds, and two clubs. Redouble from Mrs. Peterson. Declarer had no difficulty in drawing trumps and ruffing out the diamonds, making a grand slam which, however, it would have been an extremely unwise gamble to have bid.

BY MARY MEADE.

Neither horns nor bugles have heralded the event. Nevertheless, we are this week enjoying what its Texas sponsors announce to be "the first nation-wide celebration of 'National Tomato Week.'" And if that fails to impress you, know also that, according to the delving historians, we have just passed through a "century of progress in tomatoes." For it was not until 1834, they say, that the tomato was actually taken to our hearts and affections as a wholesome food. Which makes these ruddy "love apples" or "pommes d'amours" romantically one of the most recent of the vegetables to be accepted by American epicures.

The "why" for this fact is amusing. For, actually, tomatoes are reported to have been known and grown in North America for nearly 300 years; in Europe since the 15th century. Mexico and Peru both are angling for the credit for having been the first to produce them. But, somewhere back in the days of their infancy, tomatoes suffered a black eye. They were declared to contain deadly poison and, when certain of the wicked witches of New England actually used these admired but feared vegetables in their sauces and soups, it was just another indication that his majesty the Devil had possession. As charming and decorative bushes they were welcomed, and, later, as cooked flavorings for foods. But only in recent years has the ban been lifted by common sense and science, and tomatoes, raw and canned, been accepted in their proper rôle of delectable vegetable and health giving food.

In tomatoes, as we've columned for you many a time before, vitamins A, B, C, and G are present, with vitamin C, prime ouster of teeth decay, gum trouble, and the dangerous disease known as scurvy, taking the leading rôle.

And, if you're out scouting for still another use for the red juices, you'll smile to know that a bright young man in Chicago has professed a desire to start a tomato juice route to serve the "night-after fellows" bright and early each morning!

But, enough of such humorous idling. Tomatoes plus onions make a blend of flavor hard to excel. The method is this:

SCALLOPED TOMATOES AND ONIONS

2 cups canned or fresh tomatoes
2 cups stale bread, cubed
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons fat
2 large onions

If the tomatoes are fresh, skin them and cut in slices. Arrange a layer of tomatoes in the bottom of a buttered casserole. Sprinkle this with salt and pepper. Add a layer of bread cubes and a layer of thinly sliced onion. Repeat these layers until the ingredients are used. Pour the melted butter or bacon fat over the top and bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) for half an hour. Test the tenderness of the onions before removing the dish from the oven.

It's only lately, likewise, that we have discovered the fine flattery which goes on when tomatoes meet oranges. Half and half, tomato and orange juice, chilled until frosty, and served with smart cheese crackers, makes a most tongue tingling dinner appetizer. Also, the idea of orange and fresh tomato salad is just as important to plant on a prominent brain shelf. For the recipe—

TOMATO AND ORANGE SALAD

3 firm, ripe tomatoes
3 oranges
1½ tablespoons minced parsley
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 tablespoon orange juice
3 tablespoons salad oil
Crisp lettuce

Blend the seasonings, orange juice, and lemon juice or vinegar. Shake or beat in the oil and, when thoroughly combined, pour the dressing over the peeled and sliced tomatoes and oranges, which have been arranged in alternate layers on beds of lettuce. Sprinkle with the minced parsley or garnish with crisp watercress.

Winterbothams Start Summer of 'Roughing It'

Rent Tiny House in Pasture Near Wayne.

M. Weichelt is in charge of tickets at the headquarters in the Drake hotel.

Mrs. Paul FitzSimons, the former Ellen French Vanderbilt, national committeewoman from Rhode Island, will be the principal speaker.

An alumnae organization that has been prominent in Chicago for more than forty years is about to spring into life again. It is the Ogontz alumnæ organization, which is meeting for luncheon at 1 o'clock tomorrow at the Woman's Athletic club. This will be something more than just an annual meeting and election of officers, for the association has ambitious plans for returning to the prominent rôle it used to play in social service and benefit work. Miss Margaret McCall, the president, and Mrs. Andrew B. MacCaughey, one of the directors, have invited every girl or woman who attended Ogontz, whether a member of the association or not, to come to the luncheon. Miss Abby Sutherland, the headmistress of the school, will be a special guest.

Mrs. Mary S. Tuttle, Mrs. MacCaughey's mother, is one of the veteran members of the organization, and Mrs. MacCaughey's daughter, Miss Mary MacCaughey, also attended the school. Mrs. John E. Jenkins has also been a member of the association for many years. Other prominent alumnæ of Ogontz are Mrs. Joseph King, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Phelps Hoyt, Mrs. William Jackson, Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Walter Fairhorn, Mrs. Homer L. Dixon, Mrs. Pennoyer Sherman, Mrs. William S. Jenks, and Mrs. George Isham. For the last two or three years the organization has contributed to the Children's Memorial hospital. The charity to which a gift will be sent will be decided at luncheon tomorrow, as well as the new officers. Miss Betty Ashcraft is vice president; Miss Georgianna Fowler is treasurer, and Miss Josephine Otter is secretary.

Mrs. MacCaughey will not be at the luncheon, for she left Friday with Mr. MacCaughey by motor to spend three weeks or a month at their home in Winter Park, Fla.

Service Club to Plan Its Review Tomorrow.

Members of the Service club will gather tomorrow afternoon in the house or garden of the club's president, Mrs. John Dern, on Locust street in Winnetka for the last meeting until fall. At this meeting, to which all of the members have been invited, the final plans for the annual Service club review will be made. A name for it will be decided upon, and chairmen for the show committees will be appointed.

The alumnæ association of the University School for Girls is giving a tea in the school at 1106 Lake Shore drive this afternoon for the members of the graduating class. After the tea there will be a business meeting at which the officers of the association for 1934 and 1935 will be elected. Miss Barbara Graf, Miss Lura Schreiner, and Miss Barbara Lawrence are on the nominating committee.

Pouring at the tea will be Miss Lawrence, Miss Jeannette Schreiner, Miss Priscilla Sims, and Miss Mary Calender. The present alumnæ officers include Mrs. Robert Curtis, president, and Miss Winifred Wheeler, Mrs. Frederick K. Lawrence, Miss Charlotte Robinson, Miss Eunice Eastman, and Miss Alice Barler.

Charles Edward Brown at Home to Recuperate.

The many friends of that genial gentleman, Charles Edward Brown, are delighted that he is well enough to be at home, 2450 Lake View avenue, after a serious operation that will necessitate a very long convalescence. He and Mrs. Brown hope that he will be well enough so that they can go east before the end of July to visit Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. William Deshler of Cleveland, at her summer place at Sagaponack on Long Island. Mr. Brown's elder son, Charles Edward Jr., better known as Ted, and his wife and two sons have taken a house at Bridgehampton, not far from Sagaponack, for the summer, and the Browns' only daughter Betty, and her husband, Allen E. Whitman, have moved to a little house in Oyster Bay from an apartment in New York, so the whole family will be fairly close together when Mr. and Mrs. Brown and their younger son, Townsend, go to Sagaponack.

Next fall the T. Philip Swifts' many friends will have to accustom themselves to calling on the Swifts in a different location, for the Swifts recently purchased the Robert P. Lamont estate on Ridge road and are leaving their lovely Swiftcroft on the lake front for their new west side residence in September. The Swifts' new house is a spacious, cool one. On the grounds are formal gardens, a swimming pool with cheery bathhouses, and a tennis court.

Mr. and Mrs. Swift and their children are going west July 1 for three weeks. This year they are going to a dude ranch in New Mexico instead of Wyoming, where they usually go. Upon their return they will move into the Ridge road house.

Thomas A. Connorses Welcome a New Son.

The Thomas A. Connorses of Lake Forest are being congratulated on the birth of a son Saturday at Alice Home hospital. Thomas Connors Jr., who is 9 years old, and his younger sister and brother, Mary Rose and Henry, are very interested visitors at the hospital, and they are trying to help their parents think of a name for the latest addition to the family.

Phyllis Ferry, daughter of the Montague Ferrys, has enjoyed her work in English at the University of Chicago so much that she plans to return for more work next fall. She will receive her diploma as bachelor of arts some time this summer. After the university commencement Miss Ferry will move from International house to her home in Winnetka for the summer.

The Society of Midland Authors will meet in Merrie England at the World's Fair Friday evening, June 15. The members will dine at the Cheshire Cheese, and then they will view a performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" at the Globe theater. Mrs. Harold Pynchon is chairman of the committee in charge of the evening's entertainment.

Bishop Stewart Gives First St. James' Centennial Talk

Bishop George Craig Stewart inaugurated the centennial year program of St. James' church, the oldest Episcopal church in Chicago, at Wabash avenue and Huron street, yesterday when he spoke at the 11 o'clock morning service. The bishop, who also confirmed a centennial class yesterday, is the first of a series of speakers who will address the congregation preceding the main celebration, which will take place in October.

Paris Introduces the Three Piece Tennis Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Mirande, a French dressmaking house with a new guiding star, Mme. Louise, who was for years directrice of Jean Patou, is making clothes for the tennis stars who play at the Stade Roland Garros.

The illustrated model is a new type of tennis ensemble from this house, and you can see it in service on the tennis courts of the Bois every day.

The simple dress is made of white linen. It buttons all the way down the back on square white bone buttons, which would be mighty uncomfortable if tennis was a sitting down game. The blouse has a patch pocket at the right side, and there is another patch pocket on the left hip. A monogram in dark blue is embroidered on the bodice. At the back the dress is cut low in a square line. The skirt has inverted box plaits at the sides and is open at the center back from the knees.

A super blouse of pastel blue linen embroidered with dark blue and red flowers and cut like the aprons nurses wear, buttons over the dress, being attached at the back to the buttons of the dress. It is worn when the sportswoman is not actually playing.

Broadcasting Claim on Girl Requires Calls

Beau Shouldn't Leave Her Home Waiting.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

After all, boys, if you go around broadcasting the fact that Marge or Ann or Jane is your girl friend, the least you might do is to keep her from wearing her elbow out awaiting a call from you.

Or, if you have been remiss yourself about calling, don't get on your high horse if she tells you, when you finally do call up, that she has another engagement. A girl can't just sit and sit and sit and be consoled with what she hears from others about how you feel toward her. Not many of them do sit long these days. The surprise is that there are any who do.

Anyway, Louise is getting pretty fed up on her George who calls her, as she puts it, "unexpectedly and once in a while." Louise's George does go around bragging that she is his. No doubt his intention is to warn the other chaps off, which would be flattering and legitimate if he didn't leave the poor girl hanging out the window with no one to wave back. Or, maybe it is just the intertia that seems to attack certain gentlemen when they feel sure in their own minds that the girl is "cached." Girls are a bit too active for that today. They may stay parked where you put them until called for, but you'd better call early.

Then, it's only fair enough, if you like a girl a lot and you want her to like you as much and you've got ideas about a future together, to take her into your confidence about when you'd like her to be home to you.

What gets Louise's nanny, as she calls it with colloquial candor, is the indignation with which her remark is greeted that she is busy tonight, or too busy over the week-end to see any one. Naturally, the only way you can keep a girl from accepting other invitations is to so complicate her time with your own presence she can't make or doesn't want any other engagements.

Of course, if you are just easing your way out and feeling the urge to look around in other pastures, that's something else again. The girl will just have to go on hanging to the 'phone until she comes to her senses. But if, like George, you are wearing the girl's ring and going around claiming your Louise as your favorite girl, this situation would hardly be. So you'd better dash off to the 'phone right now and tell your girl you were just careless and you'll try to be more considerate in the future.

Church Commission Opposed to Merger with Liberal Sect

New York, June 3.—[Special.]—The commission on interchurch relations and Christian unity of the Congregational and Christian churches has adopted a report advising against union with the Free Church of America, it was announced here today by the Rev. Herbert D. Rugg, editor of the News Bulletin of the Congregational and Christian churches. The report is to be presented at the meeting of the general council of the united churches at Oberlin, O., June 21 to 27.

The Free church was inaugurated as a union of the Unitarian and Universalist denominations. Last January it was enlarged to provide for the affiliation of all liberal churches. The idea was not that denominations, as such, should merge with the Free church, but that liberal churches should individually unite with it.

The report of the Congregational and Christian commission says that if consideration were given to the invitations for individual churches to join the Free church "we would be faced with division in our denomination."

"Our Congregational and Christian churches have for many years rejoiced in the fullest individual liberty for their constituent members," says the report. "In our fellowship are found many varieties of religious experience, differing theological concepts and diverse ideals of spiritual life. . . .

"To commit our entire denomination to religious liberalism when only part of our constituency would be in sympathy with the movement would inevitably result in divisions which would retard rather than advance the progress of real Christian unity."

U. of C. School of Business Reunion Dinner Tomorrow

Reunion week at the University of Chicago will begin tomorrow when the school of business will hold its 20th annual dinner and homecoming in Ida Noyes hall.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There'll be more sizzling days such as last Friday pretty soon and we're warning you that your best friend when the thermometer soars is a bottle of cologne.

Those Victorian ladies who carried the bottle with them knew what it was all about; we should do likewise. When you're doing the Fair or shopping, and feel as if you were being broiled beneath a high flame, the very best thing you can do is plop down, get out your little flask of cologne and give yourself some delightful, sure-fire refreshment. Dash some along your fevered brow, on your neck, and all over your wrists. Sprinkle some on your handkerchief and pat some in under your chin. We can't get too enthusiastic about what it will do for your sense of well being.

Colognes are so numerous these days, and so lovely and efficient, that we find it difficult to make a strong decision about any one in particular. But our standby on Friday was a little gem we know you'll like—a perfumed cologne of French make with a fragrance that is a mysterious masterpiece, one of three lovely scents.

It's gloriously cooling and soothing. But it's the fragrance that baffles us. It's a faint, tantalizing scent of every flower you've ever loved, from the mignonette in your grandmother's garden to the latest gardenia your best beau sent you. In preparation for those hot days that are ahead of you do look it up in the Chicago shops.

Mignonette reminds us: Is there a mignonette perfume? We can't find one. If you know of one, will you write and tell us? We've got a great hankering for it.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Don't Let Your Mind Dwell on Child's Errors

Remind Yourself to See His Virtues Sometimes.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

His mother looked hard at him.

"What is it now—my ears?" said her son.

Guiltily she evaded the question.

"Can't I look at you without finding something the matter?" she said.

"Well, you don't very often, Mom," he answered, without any particular rancor, but with a good deal of conviction.

Do you know how easy it is to get into the habit of looking at your children without seeing them—seeing their faults or something wrong, but not seeing them? It may be their hair that wasn't brushed or their nails that weren't cleaned, or that upper eyetooth that's so slow coming in, or the shoe laces that have been broken and tied in knots for a week that catch your eye whenever you look at them.

Or it may be their habits or other behavior that you see instead of your child whenever he comes into your ken. Slamming the door, forgetting to feed the dog, a cranky answer, "reaching" at the table, a finger in a mouth when it shouldn't be, biting the nails, slumping—you can get so that you see only something to find fault with when you look at your child.

Some psychologist has stated that when a parent constantly finds fault it is a sign that he dislikes his child. That is undoubtedly true in some cases, but it is absurd to make such a generalization sweeping. Such things as our own nerves or fatigue or lack of understanding are much more apt to be the cause of fault finding—or the force of habit, which explains the doing of many undesirable things.

We do need to correct our children a great deal—all the more reason then for us to see our child when we look at him, not just his faults—to see him, his freshness, or his brightness, or his cunning or interesting ways, or to see the things he does that are really pleasing or merit a word of approval.

One May Acquire Hand Grace by Observing Ways of Child

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A tip on hand beauty is volunteered in Romola Nijinsky's biography of her husband, Vaslav Nijinsky, a great dancer of modern times. Of her famous husband's hands, Romola Nijinsky reports that, unless their position was not dictated by the manner and nature of the dance, they were always held with the fingers close together, in a simple, natural way.

"He told me," says his biographer, "that one must always watch children if one wishes to learn the proper way of using hands beautifully, because children are always unself-conscious."

It is one of those remarks that makes you wonder why you hadn't thought of it yourself, so obvious is its truthfulness!

Children have a few hand habits we wouldn't advocate being adopted, such as sticking fingers in mouths and appearing three-fourths of the time with soiled hands. But for pure, unconscious grace the way youngsters use their hands is the best of lessons. As Nijinsky also said, "One never sees a baby extending its little finger when raising its hand." Nor are little fingers curled, an affectation among adults that used to be practiced more largely than it is today, thanks to etiquet educational sources.

Hands have become so vivid [isn't that the word] a part of the woman-ensemble picture that what to do with them now becomes the lesson of the day. The other day I saw a woman standing in a hotel lobby, smartly dressed, rouged and everything. One glove was off and it was not a pretty hand. It was raised in a rabbit paw gesture, held up on a level with her chin. It made the woman look a bit grotesque and exhibited plainly what might just as well not have been so advertised, a large knuckled, ungainly hand. For a nice hand, it would not have been an attractive gesture, even. A certain person known to us spread her fingers wide, lays hands face down on her knees and a terrific consciousness of hands occurs to the observer. Until you are sure that your hand gestures are as graceful as those of children, try the Nijinsky art of keeping the hands and fingers together in a simple, natural way.

TRIBUNE GOLF SCHOOL OPENS TONIGHT; 20,000 ENROLL

PROS READY TO GIVE LESSONS AT 19 COURSES

You Still Have Time to Join.

School Facts

IMPORTANT points about THE TRIBUNE Golf School, which opens tonight on the 19 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association.

ENROLLMENT—18,500.

TIME—7:30 p. m. at inner courses and 8 p. m. at outer courses.

INNER COURSES — Mid-City, Harlem, Evergreen, Big Oaks, Golfmoor, and Chicago Meadows.

OUTER COURSES — Mission Hills, Northbrook, Cog-Hill, Hickory Hills, Oak Hills, Vernon, Walnut Hills, Indian Head, Techny Fields, Elmgate, Twin Orchards, Westgate Valley, and Big Run.

LESSON—Tonight's lesson at all courses will be a general one. All pupils are asked to bring a driver and to appear at their courses 15 or 20 minutes early, if possible.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

THE TRIBUNE'S Free Golf school, which has grown to gargantuan proportions since its inception last year, will open tonight with a general lesson for all classes at the nineteen member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, which conducted the project so successfully last year.

The success of the school was so tremendous that this year more than 25 cities, chambers of commerce, and golfing organizations throughout the United States have adopted it as a model and will conduct similar classes in their respective communities. The United States, Western, and Chicago District Golf associations have praised the school enthusiastically, and it was discussed considerably at the winter meetings of the Professional Golfers' association, which has taken a great deal of interest in the the matter of group instruction.

Entry Exceeds 20,000.

Tonight's lesson will be attended by more than 20,000 men, women, and children who have filled out the registration coupon which has been appearing in THE TRIBUNE since May 25. Last year 17,000 filled out the coupon, but more than 3,000 others who had not filled it out appeared in time for the first or second lesson and completed the course.

There is still plenty of time to join the school and derive the full benefit of the lessons. The registration coupon appears again today, for the last time, and late comers are still welcome to join. They are advised, however, not to mail the coupon to THE TRIBUNE, but to bring it to that course at which they decide to attend classes, and turn it over to the professional in charge.

These tardy scholars also are urged to go to one of the outlying courses, if possible, to relieve the congestion at the inner courses, all six of which have been carrying a full enrollment for several days. The principal object to most pupils going to one of the outer courses has been that of location, but as a matter of fact only twenty more minutes are required, on the average, in reaching an outer course.

Note Starting Times.

The following points are important ones which every pupil attending tonight's class should remember:

1. The lesson at the six inner courses—Mid-City, Harlem, Evergreen, Big Oaks, Golfmoor, and Chicago Meadows—will start at 7:30 o'clock, and the outlying courses—Mission Hills, Westgate Valley, Vernon, Northbrook, Indian Head, Techny Fields, Big Run, Walnut Hills, Cog-Hill, Oak Hills, Elmgate, Twin Orchards, and Hickory Hills—will open class at 8 o'clock.

2. Every pupil is asked to appear at his or her respective course 15 or 20 minutes early tonight to facilitate the opening of the school and to eliminate confusion, particularly at the inner courses.

Bring a Driver.

3. All pupils are requested to bring a driver tonight, and for every ensuing lesson this week. If you don't own one, borrow one.

4. No lesson at any courses during the school will last more than one hour, so that all pupils are assured of an equal amount of instruction.

5. All of the winners of last year's two final competitions have been barred from the school entirely. Relatives of professionals and TRIBUNE employés will be permitted to take the regular lessons, but will not be eligible for prizes.

6. The first class for the men's division will be held tomorrow night, for women Wednesday night, for couples Thursday night, and for juniors, boys and girls under 18 years of age, on Friday night. Five courses—Vernon, Big Run, Chicago Meadows, Techny Fields, and Northbrook—will hold Sunday classes for all divisions, beginning

CITY TO WELCOME ROSS WITH HUGE RECEPTION TODAY

Governor and Mayor to Help Greet Champ.

Chicago will do honor to Barney Ross today.

Every effort has been made to make it a red letter day for Ross, who last Monday whipped Jimmy McLarnin for the welterweight title. It was the first time a lightweight titleholder has won the 147 pound championship.

From the time Barney arrives at Union station this morning until after sun down he will be the honored guest of Chicago.

Ald. Jacob Arvey, reception committee chairman, and his co-workers will take charge of Ross upon his arrival at 9:45 a. m. and escort him to a car on Canal street where a parade will be formed. A 30 piece band will head the procession.

Mayor To Present Key.

The parade will move east on Jackson boulevard to La Salle street and thence to the city hall where Mayor Kelly will give Barney a gold key to the city. From the city hall the delegation will escort Ross to the Terrace Gardens in the Morrison hotel for a luncheon in his honor. At the speakers' table will be men prominent in sports, politics and business. Gov. Horner is expected to attend.

At 6:30 o'clock tonight Ross will speak over W-G-N, THE TRIBUNE radio station. Later the triple champion will be taken to the World's Fair where he will be greeted by President Rufus C. Dawes and Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair.

After an excursion through the grounds Barney will go to the Lagoon theater. Then the celebration will shift to Douglas park, where a stand has been erected on the Refectory stairs for the speakers and entertainers, who will include Morton Downey, and a 50 piece concert orchestra.

In Barney's Neighborhood.

The site of this program is the same as that used to welcome the Polish amateur boxing champions, international Golden Gloves contestants, last month. Ross' home is in the Douglas park neighborhood.

The program at Douglas park will start at 7:30. The reception committee is composed of:

Gov. Henry Horner, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, States Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, P. A. Nash, George Getz, Joseph Triner, Sheldon Clark, Packey McFarland, Leonard Hicks, Ald. John Toman Louis London, Harry Sullivan, Capt. Daniel Gilbert, Harry Joseph, Ald. Henry Sonnenschein, James C. Petrillo, Robert J. Dunham, Louis J. Harrison, Benjamin F. Lindheimer, Al. J. Horan, Frank Walsh, Bernard Hodes, Harry Grabiner, Harry Berkman, Tommy Armour, Michael Igoe, Mitchell C. Robin, Clayton F. Smith, Roy Davis, John J. Duffy, Ald. Jacob Arvey, chairman.

RIOT HALTS PEEL CUP MATCH AS 2 ARE STABBED

Two men were stabbed yesterday during a small riot at the Peel cup soccer game between the Vienna amateur team and the Wieboldt Wonderbolts a. De Paul field, Webster and Sheffield avenues. They are Carl Hammon, 49 years old, 223 Menominee street, and Gunar Johnson, 36, 3216 North Halsted street. Both were stabbed in the back, but their wounds were not serious. They were taken to Alexian Brothers hospital.

Half a dozen other men received cracked heads when a series of fights broke out among the 2,000 spectators as a result of several disputed decisions. The game was called off when six squads of police from the Hudson avenue station cleared the field.

Brother of Willie Goggin Is Killed in Auto Crash

San Francisco, Cal., June 3.—(AP)—Ritchie Goggin, 26, of San Francisco, a brother of Willie Goggin, golfer who now is in Philadelphia for the national open golf tournament, was killed today in the overturning of his automobile.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

BARNEY ROSS still is traveling the Golden Gloves trail. . . . When the world's welterweight, lightweight and junior welterweight champion arrives home today he will be escorted up Jackson boulevard to La Salle street and north in La Salle to the offices of Mayor Edward J. Kelly. . . . This has been the line of march for visiting Golden Gloves teams for several years. . . . Ross was graduated from THE TRIBUNE'S big boxing tournament five years ago.

BARNEY ROSS.

SLIP MADIGAN.

. . . Slip Madigan, St. Mary's football coach, is coming east for the Baer-Carnera fight and to engage a track coach for the coast school. . . . The Cubs and Reds played a nine inning game at Cincinnati in 1913 with one ball. . . . In those days a ball wasn't tossed away because it was slightly soiled. . . . Neither were spectators permitted to keep them. . . . If a ball went foul on the field the game would be held up until it could be returned for play. . . .

Dave Barbee of the Minneapolis club holds some sort of a hard luck record. He was called home by the serious illness of his daughter and after rejoining the team ran into a bleacher wall in his first game. . . . He was out several days and in the first game on his return he was hit on the head by a pitched ball. . . . This put him on the bench for a week, and the day he came back he was hit in the back by a pitched ball. . . . The Chamber of Commerce of Las Vegas, N. M., announces that the Notre Dame football team will stop off there for practice en route to Southern California next December instead of at Tucson, Ariz., as usual. . . . Las Vegas is eight hours' ride from Los Angeles.

It will be 20 years on June 9 that Johnny Coulon, south side promoter, lost his bantamweight title to Kid Williams of Baltimore, who knocked him out in two rounds at Los Angeles. . . . Milwaukee headline writers are happy over the prospects of a Marquette university sophomore back field which will include such short names as Cuff, Lott, Bulvid, and Guepe.

Cowboy Weston, former world pocket billiard champion, who claims to have originated the major league system of denoting balls and strikes by raising the arms, used the motions for only two or three days. . . . He did it first, he says, in 1899 at Youngstown, O., when he was suffering from a sore throat, and again at Hot Springs, Ark., in 1906. . . . Leo M. Kersting, 13508 Brandon avenue, Chicago, says he remembers that the late Charles A. Comiskey used signals for balls and strikes in the late '80s when Commy was manager of the St. Louis Browns. . . . He had a deafmute playing center field named Hoy, and when Hoy was at bat Commy would signal him that the pitch was a ball or a strike. . . . Commy coached at third base. . . .

Lowell Sturgeon, Centralia's all around athlete, who plays football and basketball and holds the state high school high jump and broad jump records, is salutatorian of his graduating class. . . . He will matriculate at Illinois. . . . A. A. Stagg of the College of the Pacific has an improved football team coming up next fall. . . . He has lost some good backs, but his line material is much stronger. . . . Elmer Layden is following his predecessors, Jess Harper and Knute Rockne, in the field of syndicate writing. . . . Gavvy Cravath, former National league home run hitter, now is high commissioner of the Southern California soft ball leagues. . . . The game is played at night and is gaining wide popularity in the west. . . . Cravath settles disputes with the same finality Commissioner Landis does in professional baseball. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Ted Lyons pitched the Sox to a 4 to 3 victory over the Yankees. . . . Boston Red Sox moved into first place by defeating the Browns, 6 to 5. . . . Tommy Gibbons signed to meet Gene Tunney in a 12 round bout in New York. . . . Mickey Walker successfully defended his welterweight title by beating Lew Tendler in ten rounds. . . . Richard Howell, Northwestern swimming star, qualified in the 1,500 meter Olympic swim trials.

JOE McCARTHY IS FINED, SUSPENDED AFTER ARGUMENT

Philadelphia, Pa., June 3.—(AP)—The New York Yankees played today with Joe McCarthy, their manager, sitting in the grand stand because of a three day suspension imposed after an argument with Umpire Kolls. McCarthy also was fined $50 as a result of the trouble, which occurred in yesterday's game.

Kolls put McCarthy out of the game in the second inning, but McCarthy stayed on the bench and made two pitching substitutions, as well as directing his team. He later declared he was not aware that Kolls had ordered him from the field.

President Harridge also fined Coach Art Fletcher $25 for his part in the argument. Fletcher was ordered off the field and complied. Today Fletcher directed the Yankees in their game with the Athletics.

Ken Fowler Wins 25 Mile Race at New Dayton Track

Dayton, O., June 3.—(AP)—Ken Fowler, Paterson, N. J., won the feature 25 mile race at the new Dayton speedway today. Fowler's time was 21:44.8. He finished a third of a lap ahead of Mauri Rose, Dayton, who took second honors in the 500 mile race at Indianapolis.

Fan Attacks Umpire After Giants' Game

New York, June 3.—(AP)—A spirited exchange between an unidentified fan and Umpire Cy Pfirman provided a climax to today's game at the Polo graunds in which the Phillies defeated the Giants, 6 to 2.

As the fans left the stands after the final out, one of them dashed across the diamond, seized the umpire by the sleeve, whirled him around and began to throw punches. Pfirman grabbed his opponent's necktie, hauled him around a bit and retaliated with some wild swings.

Starting near the screen, the combatants worked their way out to the home plate and back again before spectators finally separated them. The special police at the ball park made no effort to stop the scrap.

When the pair was finally pried apart Bill Schaeffer, Giant trainer, led Pfirman under the stand. The fan slipped away in the crowd and his identity and the reason for the attack remained unknown.

U.S. AGAIN DEFERS ENTRY IN BERLIN OLYMPIC GAMES

Brundage to Investigate Nazi Pledges to Jews.

New York, June 3.—(AP)—The American Olympic committee today again deferred action on acceptance of the German invitation to the 1936 international games in Berlin, but empowered President Avery Brundage to accept if he should find, on a proposed visit to Germany, that Nazi pledges of non-discrimination against Jewish athletes were being observed.

These pledges were made by the German Olympic committee at the meeting of the International Olympic committee in Geneva a year ago and reaffirmed at the recently completed sessions in Athens.

The action clears the way for a definite decision on American participation, for which the committee met to make plans.

Will Visit Germany in August.

A resolution adopted at the November organization meeting in Washington promised such participation if alleged discrimination against Jewish athletes in Germany should cease, but provided no method for determining whether the Nazi pledges were being fulfilled.

President Brundage expressed reluctance to accept the responsibility but said he would endeavor to make an unbiased, thorough survey of German conditions and act on what he found there.

He will visit Germany in August en route to a meeting of the International Amateur Athletic federation in Stockholm.

The resolution, presented by Gustavus Town Kirby, treasurer of the committee and author of the Washington resolution, was accepted with only one dissenting voice. Dietrich Wortmann of the German-American Athletic club urged immediate acceptance of the German invitation to the games.

Ornstein Seconds Resolution.

Charles L. Ornstein, a member of the committee and a Jew, seconded the resolution and said he would accept and he was certain American Jews would accept any decision Brundage might make.

Prior to the vote a cablegram from Brig. Gen. Charles H. Sherrill, one of three American members of the International Olympic committee, urging immediate acceptance of the invitation was read.

Both Sherrill and his colleague, Col. William May Garland of Los Angeles, had cabled Brundage they believed the German pledges were being "scrupulously observed."

BAER CONTINUES CLOWN TACTICS IN 8 ROUND DRILL

Asbury Park, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—Max Baer, heavyweight challenger, clowned through eight rounds of boxing before a critical audience of 2,000 today, and once more failed to impress the experts.

Jack Dempsey came down from New York to look over the situation after a week's absence and when Baer wound up his day's work the former champion said: "Baer's too slow to suit me, though I think he is punching harder than he was at a corresponding time before the Schmeling bout. But he isn't punching often enough and loafs and clowns too much. This is serious business. We must make him realize that."

Baer floored Dynamite Jackson twice and Seal Harris once in the course of his workout, but these samples of hitting power did not make up for his slipshod work.

CARNERA SHOWS SPEED.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., June 3.—(AP)—Brig. Gen. John Phelan, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, was among the crowd of 800 who saw Primo Carnera go through his training today in preparation for his heavyweight title defense against Max Baer June 14.

Primo boxed two rounds each with Chester Matam, Yustin Sirutis and Corn Griffin, and once more surprised critics with his speed and skill. The fourth sparring partner in the Carnera entourage, Salvatore Ruggirello, left camp today for a rest.

Sox Drop 7th Sunday Game in Row; Lose to Tigers, 11-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox took their seventh Sabbath licking of the season yesterday as they absorbed another brutal plastering from the skilled Detroit Tigers, this time by a score of 11 to 2. The Tigers thus swept the three game series here, making 26 runs to 3 for the Sox during their stay.

ZEKE BONURA.

The Tigers resorted to the home run technique for the major part of their bonecrushing yesterday. Goose Goslin Mickey Cochrane, and Hank Greenberg knocked circuit smashes off George Earnshaw, the starting pitcher, and Charley Gehringer contributed a homer as his part of a seven hit attack the Tigers made on poor Joe Heving in the ninth.

Old Zeke Comes Through.

The only bright spot in the game from the Chicago viewpoint was Zeke Bonura's No. 13 homer with one on in the first inning. But for this homer of Zeke's and one by Al Simmons in the ninth inning of Friday's opener, the Sox would not have scored in the entire Detroit series.

Perhaps mention should be made of Mule Haas' hitting as an exception to the general helplessness of the Sox before the wide awake Tigers. Mule drew a pass and made three straight hits yesterday, made two of the Sox four hits Saturday, and two of their six hits Friday. Luke Appling didn't make a hit in the series, Manager Dykes made only one, his double in yesterday's game, and Simmons, while he made four hits in the series, repeatedly faded out when a good smack would have meant something.

Poor Old George.

The Tigers lost little time in hopping on Earnshaw. With one out in the first inning Goslin lined his No. 5 homer against the upper balustrade of the right field stands. Cochrane lined a hit to right and got credit for a double when he slid under Appling, who had received Bordagaray's good throw in time for the putout. Gehringer singled to center, scoring Cochrane. Rogell walked and Greenberg fanned, but White singled to left, scoring Gehringer. Owen fanned.

Haas walked with one out in the Sox half, then Bonura socked that No. 13 after a three and one count, scoring behind Haas. Simmons shot a hot single to right, but it came to naught when Appling tapped into a double play.

Bridges popped to Appling and Fox fanned in the Tigers' second inning, but Goslin walked and jogged home on Cochrane's homer into the right field stands.

Three Orderly Innings.

Dykes opened the Sox's second with a line drive to left, but was out, Owen unassisted, on Boken's tap. Madjeski flied to Fox, then Earnshaw singled to center, Boken stopping at second. Bordagaray struck out for the second time.

Business followed an orderly routine from the second inning to the Sox's sixth. Then the Chicago partisans momentarily got all steamed up over what seemed an excellent chance for run production. Haas led off with a single and Bonura walked amid much

Laffoon Cards 71 Round on Merion Course

Philadelphia, Pa., June 3.—(AP)—Golfdom's stars swung through another practice session today over the east course of the Merion Cricket club in preparation for the national open. The best round was Ky Laffoon's one over par, 34—37—71, the Denver player's short swinging, long driving game being at its best.

Playing with Laffoon were Dick Metz, Pennsylvania state open champion from Chicago, and Willie Goggin, Californian, who was runner up to Gene Sarazen for the Professional Golfers' association championship last year. Both Metz and Goggin scored 73s.

Battle Starts Thursday.

The 72 hole battle for the open trophy starts Thursday, continuing through Saturday. None of the 150 contenders can be called the favorite to succeed Johnny Goodman, Omaha, as champion.

Macdonald Smith, 44 year old Scot who tied for the championship with his brother, Alex, and Johnny McDermott, 24 years old, played a practice round, but kept no score.

Mortie and Olin Dutra, the Californians, were among the arrivals today, but they shot only 13 holes. Joe Kirkwood checked in from Chicago and contended himself with hitting practice shots. The famous trick shot, who is the present Canadian open champion, complained he was having trouble with his long irons.

Runyan Plays Exhibition.

Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., pro, who in a test round over the course broke par with 67, did not play at Merion today. He and Bobby Cruickshank went to Richmond, Va., for an exhibition match.

5,000 FANS RIOT AS NEW YORKERS DEFEAT IRISH

New York, June 3.—(AP)—A near riot developed at the Yankee stadium today as an all-New York team defeated Cavan, Ireland's Gaelic football champions, 9 to 7.

Enraged over an umpire's decision late in the game, a crowd of 5,000 swarmed out on the field in protest. Police—62 of them—advanced onto the field to meet the crowd and finally drove the spectators back after 20 minutes' work. Clubs were swung freely as the police broke up private fights which started on the field.

The game was the second between the two teams. They played to a 10 to 10 tie two weeks ago.

HARTNETT PUTS HOME RUN INTO THE NEXT BLOCK

Malone in Trouble, Always Gets Out.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., June 3.—The Cubs made extensive use of their bats this afternoon to batter their way to within a few points of first place in the National league free for all. Fifteen hits, ranging from a homer down to singles, were more than sufficient to lull the Reds into peaceful slumber in the final of the series. The score was 7 to 1.

PAT MALONE.

Another important ingredient in the brewing of the lop-sided victory was the pitching of Pat Malone, who hadn't withstood the rigors of a nine inning game since he whipped the same outfit April 25 in Chicago. The Malone of this afternoon was a fellow who apparently thrived on trouble. He was in a mixup of one kind or another in all except one inning, but he fast balled or curved his way out of each jam so successfully that he wasn't scored on until the Cubs had the decision safely nailed down. For a little side amusement Pat fanned six men, five of them with runners on the bases.

Another Long One for Gabby.

The lone homer supplied in the afternoon of Cub fireworks was Gabby Hartnett's eleventh of the year and the second record breaker hit by him in the series. While Tony Freitas, ex-Mack southpaw, was serving in the sixth in a rescue rôle Gabby whistled a drive on to a one story roof across the street from the left field wall. Gabby hit one to the same spot several years ago, but not many other fellows have accomplished the feat even once. Prior to today's homer Gabby also had furnished a single and double, both of which helped to bring on the rout of Silas Johnson, the Red's starting pitcher.

The Cub outburst, good for their first three runs in the third, came after a double play. Hartnett opened with his single, but Malone bunted into a double play. Billy Herman then singled and took third when Piet lost English's popup in the sun. This gave Woody a double. A pass to Klein filled the bases. Babe Herman immediately responded with a single to center, W. Herman and English scoring. Cuyler singled in the same direction to score Klein. The fun stopped when Camilli rolled to Koenig.

In and Out of Trouble.

Malone had a bit of trouble in the second on a single by Koenig and a pass to O'Farrell, but two were out at the time and Comorosky popped a foul to Camilli. Another slightly annoying situation arose for Malone in the home third. With one out he walked Adams. Piet hoisted to right and Hafey notched a single to center. This brought Bottomley into the picture. Malone sent him on his way with three strikes.

The Cubs picked up two more runs in the fourth, mainly because of a lapse by Pool, the Coast league rookie. After Jurges had popped out, Hartnett hit the score board in left center for two bases. Gabby stayed at second while Malone was being tossed out on a roller to the pitcher. Billy Herman then singled to right, and Pool had the ball in his hands before Hartnett had rounded third. But the rookie outfielder threw to second instead of the plate, and Gabby, who might have been out by yards, scored with ease. Then Billy Herman counted on English's triple to right center. Johnson departed and Freitas got Klein on a dinky roller.

Double Play Stops Reds.

Malone almost pitched himself into a real jam in the Reds' fourth. Pool

CAN CAVALCADE BEAT EQUIPOISE? MAY GET CHANCE

Brookmeade Star Leaves for East Today.

BY FRENCH LANE.

As he sauntered around in the lazy summer weather at the Washington Park race track yesterday Cavalcade showed no signs that he had rolled up his sleeves and performed a $28,000 job in slightly more than two minutes just 24 hours earlier.

There wasn't a scratch or a bruise on him as a result of his victorious battle in the American Derby. Neither was he nervous nor temperamental. And he didn't seem to be a bit concerned about the preparations going on around him for his return trip to New York.

Cavalcade and his roommate, Anarchy, which didn't run so fast in the Derby, are to leave this morning for New York, making the return trip in their special car which will be attached to the Twentieth Century Limited.

Detroit Next for Cavalcade.

They will linger around in New York only until after High Quest, another fellow worker in the Brookmeade stable, runs in the Belmont stakes next Saturday. Then Cavalcade comes west again to run in the $25,000 Detroit Derby on June 16. After that race he returns to Chicago, where the entire Brookmeade stable will race throughout the month of July, at Arlington Park.

Cavalcade's big job at Arlington will be to win the $35,000 Classic. Before leaving for New York yesterday Trainer Bob Smith indicated to a few friends that Cavalcade also may go against older horses at Arlington, possibly in the Stars and Stripes handicap or the Arlington handicap, in which he will find himself up against such stars as Equipoise, Ladysman, Mr. Khayyam and others.

Which Is Better?

Trainer Smith still insisted yesterday that he did not know whether Cavalcade or High Quest is the better colt.

"Whistling Bob" they call this veteran trainer, and he was mixing up B flats and C sharps to the tune of "On the Avenue" when he swung aboard his east bound train.

If there is any one entitled to whistle these days it is Trainer Smith. Talk about cornering the market! He has the 3 year old division—richest of all classes in American racing—sewed up in his hip pocket.

While he says he doesn't know which of his two stars he likes the better, he did pay a bit of a tribute to Cavalcade when he remarked that he "wished this colt was eligible to run in the Belmont."

Best Since Reigh Count.

The army of racegoers in Chicago cannot force themselves to picture High Quest as the master of Cavalcade. The opinion is almost unanimous here that Cavalcade surely is the best 3 year old to come along since 1928, which was Reigh Count's year. They believe he is a better horse than Gallant Fox, Twenty Grand, Mate and Gusto were when they were 3 year olds.

Discovery and Singing Wood, who should by this time be tired of chasing Cavalcade past the winning post, made their getaway from the Derby scene yesterday. They occupied a private express car which was attached to the Broadway Limited of the Pennsylvania lines. They were also en route to Belmont Park. Mata Hari and Patchpocket were on another train headed for Detroit, where they will be pointed for the Derby to be run in the Motor City. They'll need a good fast motor if they expect to catch Cavalcade in the Detroit race.

Earnings at $77,165.

Cavalcade is the new threat to catch Sun Beau and Equipoise in the race for high money winning honors. Already he has $77,165 to his credit. It will be possible for him to pick up another $100,000 in 3 year old races this year. Should he go against older horses in many races and be able to conquer them, he could wind up the year with earnings of close to a quarter of a million dollars. This would put him within shooting distance of Sun Beau's record.

TRACK OFFICIALS SEE MOVIES AND REVISE POSITIONS

New York, June 3.—(AP)—Officials of the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. met today, viewed motion pictures of the championship meet held in Philadelphia eight days ago, and revised the order of the finish in the 200 meter hurdles.

They placed Pierson, Yale, third and Lattimer, Columbia, fourth. The original placings had made Lattimer third and Pierson fourth.

The extra point Yale thus picked up didn't make any difference in the Elis' team ranking. They scored 26½ points, instead of 25½, but still finished a distant second to Stanford, which won the meet with 35½ points.

The one point loss Columbia suffered dropped the Lions from a tie for 12th place with William and Mary at six points, to a tie for 13th with Maine, at five.

RAINBOW BEATS VANITIE, YANKEE, IN 29 MILE RACE

Newport, R. I., June 3.—(AP)—The yacht Rainbow, sailed by Harold S. Vanderbilt, today showed the best speed of its brief career in defeating Vanitie and Yankee in an informal 29 mile race off this port.

Rainbow, newly built candidate to defend the America's cup against a British challenger in September, finished more than three minutes ahead of Vanitie, 20 year old ineligible, which Gerard B. Lambert, Boston, is sailing as a trial horse. Yankee, with Charles Francis Adams, former secretary of the navy, at the helm, was close astern of Vanitie.

Hollyway Wins Feature Pace Before 9,000

Hollyway, from the stable of W. R. Hayes, Duquoin, Ill., won the featured sixth event on the Chicago Trotting club program yesterday, coming from behind to defeat a crack field in the free for all pace. The bay gelding got away to a poor start, lagging four lengths behind. Well handled by Driver Fitzpatrick, it cut down the gap, moved up on even terms, then paced into the lead on the last turn to win in 2:09.

Hollyway won a three-quarter mile race from the same field in the second race, covering the distance in 1:34. Calumet Boyd, owned by the Madison Silo company of Madison, Wis., and driven by Dean, was second in the mile event, and Oxford Boy, driven and owned by H. F. McNutt of Oxford, Wis., was third.

Crowd Cheers Thomas.

However, the attention of the crowd of 9,000, the largest of the four meetings to date, centered on Al Thomas. Thomas, who is 80 years old and the oldest driver in America, handled Calumet Early for John Rohls of Elgin, Ill., and finished second in the three-quarter mile dash for three year old trotters.

Competing against the same field in a mile dash, Thomas, who was the leading driver at the Chicago meeting during the 1893 World's Fair, finished third after a poor start. Both the races in which Thomas competed were won by Neal Houslet's Calumet Eager from Oxford, Wis.

Racing to Continue.

Public interest in harness racing, as evidenced by the two Memorial day crowds and at the Saturday night and Sunday matinée programs led to definite announcement by officials of the Chicago Trotting club last night that racing would be continued on weekends throughout the summer with a Grand Circuit meeting in September. More than 25,000 persons have attended the four sessions to date. Yesterday's results:

FIRST RACE—⅝ mile. 3 year olds, pace: Won by Bud Volo [Hill], owned by W. F. Hill, Elkhorn, Wis.; Abbe [McKay], second, owned by [John Bremmer, Milwaukee, Wis.; Al Kane [Hemphill], third, owned by W. Hemphill, Fairbury, Ill. Time, 1:37.

SECOND RACE—⅝ mile, free for all pace: Won by Hollyway [Fitzpatrick], owned by W. R. Hayes, Duquoin, Ill.; The Great Buy [Adams], second, owned by Woods & Coyner, Lafayette, Ind.; Oxford Boy [McNutt], third, owned by H. F. McNutt, Oxford, Wis. Time, 1:34.

THIRD RACE—Three-quarter mile dash, 3 year old trot: Won by Calumet Eager [Houslet], owned by Neal Houslet, Oxford, Wis., driven by Houslet; Calumet Early [A. Thomas], second, owned by John Rohls, Elgin, Ill.; Cecil Brewer [McNutt], third, owned by H. F. McNutt, Oxford, Wis. Time, 1:40½.

FOURTH RACE—Three-quarter mile dash, special classified pace: Won by Guy Yerkes [G. Hawkins], owned by Glen Hawkins, Earlville, Ill.; Sam Woodford [Gorsline], second, owned by Dr. W. P. Gorsline, Palatine, Ill.; The Pilot [McNutt], third, owned by H. F. McNutt, Oxford, Wis. Time, 1:34½.

STADIUM SIGNS CHICAGOANS FOR WRESTLING CARD

Chicago will be well represented on the heavyweight wrestling card at the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night when Jim Londos wrestles Jagot Singh, the Hindu champion of the British empire. George Mack, the north side heavyweight, the latest the card, will meet Buckets Goldenberg.

The other Chicago man booked for the action is Dr. Karl Sarpolis, who was graduated with a degree in medicine from the University of Chicago. He faces Gino Garibaldi, in the semi-windup.

Another match will bring together Pat McGill and Joe Rogacki. The latter is Singh's American teacher and is known in eastern wrestling circles.

A fourth supporting bout brings Hans Kampfer against Tiny Roebuck, the Carlisle Indian. Tiny at one time thought he would be the world's heavyweight boxing champion, but gave up the idea soon and turned his attentions to the mat.

Both Singh and Londos are in Chicago, and are reported fit for one of those old fashioned long distanced grappling affairs.

WITTLEDER AND PAINE WIN WAY INTO NET FINALS

Fred Wittleder and William Paine yesterday won their semi-final matches in the Park Ridge Tennis club's open tournament, and will meet Sunday afternoon on the club's courts for the championship. Wittleder won from Leslie Bodack, 6-1, 6-3, and Paine defeated Tom Darlington, 8-6, 8-6.

In the men's doubles semi-finals Darlington and Bodack beat Hall and Smith, 6-1, 6-4, and Wittleder teamed with Larson to defeat Zehnder and Combits, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Owners Should Train Dogs Now for Fall Sport

BY BOB BECKER.

This is the time for owners of hunting dogs to train their prospective canine helpers for fall shooting. Intensive training during the late winter and the spring and summer months makes for a smooth working dog by autumn that only needs actual field work with a hunter to complete his education.

Some of the hunting breeds, especially retrievers, mature early, and, if started with their training lessons in time, can be put to work at an early date. Of course much depends on the individual dog, because in no breed will you find all dogs having the same quality of mental alertness which enables them to absorb training.

There are many sportsmen in Chicagoland who have use for well trained and well bred setters and pointers in hunting upland game. The average sportsman in this territory, however, needs more of an all around dog, because most of us get few chances at quail hunting, unless we do considerable traveling.

For finding and pointing quail, as well as prairie chickens [a game bird that hasn't been able to keep pace with civilization], pointers and setters have no superiors. It is only natural that in the south, where quail is the kingpin game bird, we find thousands of pointers and setters. In that section the Chesapeake Bay spaniel or Labrador retriever breeds are comparatively unknown. In fact, we know parts of the south where we believe some of the sportsmen would stampede if they saw a rat tailed Irish water spaniel walk down the street!

This is no discredit to southern quail hunters. The hunting down there is for quail and doves primarily. For this sport setters and pointers are needed, and are owned almost exclusively. The boys down south know these breeds thoroughly, and good looking, well trained bird dogs are everywhere.

Here in the middle west the hunting game is a different story. Most of us figure on little quail hunting, and instead count on the mixed bag—a day or two on pheasants, a trip or two duck hunting, when we need a retriever; possibly rabbit shooting several times, and maybe one or two marsh trips for jacksnipe. If necessary one may have good shooting in these sports with the need for nothing but a retriever, although any breed that can be trained to flush [not point] game and then retrieve it is a tremendous asset.

As a result we have need for the cocker and springer spaniels, Labrador retrievers, Irish water spaniels, and Chesapeake Bay retrievers. For centuries the springer has been used as an all around game finding dog and retriever. Labradors, much more powerful land and water retrievers, also can be worked ahead of the guns to flush game.

Right now a small group of sportsmen in northern Illinois feels that a field trial to demonstrate the ability of all retrievers could do much to spread the word about the work of these breeds. They are greatly needed in these days of short game crops, when every piece of game must be saved.

JONES PRESENTS HIS BRASSIE TO GOLF MUSEUM

Newport News, Va., June 3.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, only man to win the grand slam in golf, has presented to the golf museum of the James River Country club here the brassie which he used from Sunningdale to Meriam. The club was used by Bobby from May, 1926, to the conclusion of the championship matches in 1930.

The brassie figured in the American open in 1926, 1929 and 1930; the American amateur in 1927, 1928 and 1930; the British open in 1927 and 1930 and the British amateur in 1930.

Helen Jacobs, Sarah Palfrey Are Defeated

Whisky Beats Him

PARIS, June 3.—(AP)—Too much whisky in a glass of water led to the defeat of Jack Crawford, French hard court singles champion, in the opinion of tournament officials. After the third set of his match with Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany yesterday the Australian asked for whisky and water, a restorative commonly used. His teammates poured so much liquor into the glass that Crawford stumbled and faltered his way through the last two sets, both of which Von Cramm won.

PARIS, June 3.—(AP)—Helen Jacobs and Sarah Palfrey, America's No. 1 Wightman cup combination, were beaten in the final round of women's doubles by Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian, and Mme. Rene Mathieu of France, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, as the French hard court tennis tournament closed today.

A crowd of 7,000 saw Miss Ryan, who has lived in England for many years, and her French partner retain the title they won a year ago.

The men's doubles championship went to the French veterans, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, who outlasted Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath of Australia, 11-9, 6-3, 2-6, 4-6, and 9-7.

Borotra Double Victor.

Borotra also became co-holder of the mixed doubles crown as he and Colette Rosambert defeated Miss Ryan and Adrian Quist of Australia, 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Palfrey played excellent tennis today but Miss Jacobs was nervous and unsteady after her defeat by Margaret Scriven of England in the singles final yesterday.

It was Miss Palfrey who led the way to the Americans' victory in the first set. Finding her touch for the first time in the tournament, the Boston girl won loud applause as she carried the burden for her team.

Crawford Very Tired.

Borotra and Brugnon scrambled about the court to such good effect in the men's doubles that it appeared as if they would polish off Crawford and McGrath in straight sets. Crawford was visibly fatigued as a result of his losing fight with Baron Gottfried von Cramm in the singles final yesterday and young McGrath was unsteady.

Williams Gives U. S. Chance to Win Davis Cup

Baltimore, Md., June 3.—(AP)—R. Norris Williams II., nonplaying captain of the American Davis Cup tennis team, believes the team has a 50-50 chance to defeat the winner of the European zone play.

"Our men are showing much improvement," he said after watching the concluding matches against Mexico here. "They are playing better tennis than they did against Canada in Wilmington a week ago."

The team that will leave for Europe next Sunday will consist of Frank X. Shields, New York, ranking player of the United States; Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles; Sidney B. Wood, New York, and George Lott, Chicago.

The two singles assignments will go to Shields, Stoefen or Wood, with Shields and Wood favored, but who will be paired with Lott for the doubles since the withdrawal of John Van Ryn remains to be seen.

Williams thinks Australia is the team the United States will have to beat to meet England, which now holds the cup. "They look best," he said, "but France and Japan also are strong and may win." In order of their strength, Williams named Australia, France and Japan.

Stuhley Faces Conti Tonight at Marigold

Hayden [Young] Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., 160 pound boxer, will meet Guido Conti of Italy in the eighth round windup bout tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Stuhley, fresh from an eight round triumph over Solly Dukelsky at Western stadium, will try for his seventh victory in ten starts this year against Conti, who is a more experienced fighter.

Eddie [Red] Chinski, Kankakee, Ill., junior welterweight, will face Sailor Born for five rounds. Substitutions have been made in two four round matches. Davey White will replace Sammy Scoglio against Augie Mandell, and Hank Bueker will battle Indian Johnny Gould in place of Art Donovan. Johnny Simpson will oppose Einar Hedquist at four rounds.

Jimmy Christy, south side featherweight, will fight Freddy Gravelle of Kankakee in one of three contests at five rounds at Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. Christy, former C. Y. O. champion, has lost only one fight in seven since he turned professional. Joey Bozak, whom Christy stopped in a round at Marigold Gardens March 5, was awarded a technical knockout over him May 21, because of an eye injury to Jimmy. Other matches:

Johnny Liston vs. Joe Seriello [5], 160.
Gene Hirzins vs. Jackie McCarten [5], 142.
Nestor Bruggman vs. Bill Steffel [4], 150.
Eddie Smith vs. Al Schiarato [4], 135.
Tony Hajdich vs. Jack Parker [wrestling].

Toots Bernstein, Milwaukee, Wis., welterweight, and Jimmy Brown, Cincinnati, O., have signed to meet for five rounds at Western stadium tomorrow. Johnny Gaudes, Milwaukee bantamweight, may face Lenny Cohen. Other conflicts at five round are those involving Jackie Purvis and Eddie Ran, Dave Barry and Jimmy Eliopoulos, and Paul Lee and Oscar O'Hanion.

Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, Minn., featherweight, will meet a lightweight for the second time in a year when he faces Geno Salvatore, undefeated La Salle, Ill., boxer, at Northwest stadium Wednesday. On Nov. 21 Sharkey whipped Lightweight Harry Booker at Marigold Gardens in eight rounds. Jimmy Cummings, who has won all his pro scraps, and Bobby Millsap have agreed to meet at five rounds. The balance of the program pairs Lou Terry with Carl Scalise [6], Frank Keevil with Pete Verri [4], and Gene Lewis with Art Donovan [4].

Wabash Square Garden officials yesterday completed their first show slated for Bacon's Casino Thursday. The card:

Johnny Phagan and Hayden [Young] Stuhley [8].
Eddie Ward and Puggy Weinert [6].
Harry Booker and Lou Vine [6].
Roosevelt Haines and George Schrosbree [4].
Harold Dunnington and Johnny Romano [4].

Frank Sigilio, Cicero lightweight, will swing back into training tomorrow for his first effort at 10 rounds against Johnny Farr of Cleveland at Sparta stadium next Monday. Sigilio's winning streak was halted at 16 when Tommy Corbett was given a draw against him at Mills stadium Friday. Mickey Misko and Elnar Hedquist are matches for a four round preliminary battle.

George Van Der Heyden, South Bend, Ind., 128 pound fighter, is due Friday for his 10 round battle against Leo Rodak at White City outdoor arena Monday. Van Der Hayden, who was defeated only once during the last year, is coming from Detroit. Rodak has started workouts at C. Y. O. center.

MERRY GARDENS WINS.

The Merry Gardens Ballroom baseball team yesterday defeated the Chicago Italian club, 12 to 3, at Hawthorne playground, School street and Seminary avenue.

RED SERIES IS WON BY PIRIE'S YACHT GEMINI

Skipper Sails Inshore to Thwart Calm.

Ability to read the weather was the deciding factor in the Red series races yesterday by the Sheridan Shore Yacht club at Wilmette. Samuel Carson Pirie Jr., at the helm of his Star boat, Gemini, led the fleet around the 7 nautical mile course. A calm at the start lasted over an hour.

Upon rounding the SE mark, Pirie sensed a better wind a little inshore, and by employing it he lengthened his lead to 5 minutes 40 seconds at the buoy.

Twinkle Ditto and Neo fought a bow-to-bow duel around the course for second place. Max Hayford was able to pilot his Twinkle Ditto ahead of Tom Waage's Neo to win the place by 45 seconds. Gemini's winning time was 1:50. Twinkle Ditto negotiated the distance in 1:58:45.

Silver Spray, owned by Robert S. Kendig, was fourth in 2:03.45, followed by Frank Manegold's Fram 10 seconds later. C. H. Pajeau's Smack finished sixth in 2:06:55, and the Elliott-Goos syndicate Star, Carol, was last in 2 hours 22 minutes.

HOWAARD CHAT WINS 3 CASTING CLUB CONTESTS

Howard Chatt, president of the Illinois Casting club, had a field day yesterday at the club's contests in Washington park. He won three events and was second in another. The scores:

Irvine Jeffries Collects Two Home Runs.

New York, June 3.—(AP)—After two successive failures, Irvine Jeffries finally led the Phillies to a victory over the Giants today, winning the series final, 6 to 2, and breaking Philadelphia's seven game losing streak.

Jeffries hit two more home runs to make it four for the series and four for the season. His first game in the opening inning and drove Watson Clark from the mound after Ethan Allen and Johnny Moore also had hit homers. He contributed his second homer in the eighth.

cheering. The cheering subsided when Simmons bounced into a double play and Appling flied to Fox.

Greenburg, who hadn't got in on much of the profit during the two Tiger visits here this spring, decided to do something about it when he came up in the eighth. He lined a homer into the left field stands. The next three men supplied easy outs.

Uhalt batted for Bordagaray in the eighth and fanned on three pitches without getting his bat off his shoulder. Haas made it three hits in a row with a single to center, but Bonura flied to White. Simmons lined a double to right, Haas stopping at third, but Appling made it a hitless series for himself when he tapped to Owen for the third out.

Heving went in to pitch the ninth, which promptly precipitated a farewell riot. Fox opened up with a single to center and went to third on Goslin's single to the same territory. Swanson backed against the right field wall to pull down Cochrane's drive, Fox scoring. Gehringer drove the fourth Detroit homer of the afternoon into the right field stand to score Goslin.

Boken threw out Rogell as the spectators howled encouragement. Greenberg lined a single to left. White singled to center, putting Greenberg on third. Owen singled to center, scoring Greenberg and sending White to third. Bridges singled to center, scoring White. Wyatt went in to pitch for the Sox. Fox ended the inning with a fly to Haas, and the Sox went out in order in their half.

Yankees Beat Athletics, 5-3; Take 1st Place

Philadelphia, Pa., June 3.—(AP)—Lefty Gomez pitched the New York Yankees to a 5 to 3 victory over the Athletics today. The decision gave the Yanks the three game series, 2 to 1, and was also Gomez's eighth victory of the year against one defeat. The triumph sent New York into the American lead as the Browns beat the Cleveland Indians.

The contest was a battle of home runs. Jimmy Foxx ran up his total for the season to 13 by hitting two for the Athletics and McNair hit one. Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth had homers for the Yanks, Gehrig's being his 13th of the season and Ruth's his ninth. Score:

RED SOX, 7; SENATORS, 2.

Washington, D. C., June 3.—(AP)—Timely and frequent hitting by the Red Sox, coupled with Earl Whitehill's erratic pitching, gave Boston a 7 to 2 victory today over the Senators.

In the fourth inning the Red Sox manufactured three runs. Three bases on balls by Whitehill, one of which forced a run across, an error by Myer and singles by Cissel and Reynolds did the work. Four more Red Sox runs were scored later. Score:

BROWNS, 12; INDIANS, 8.

St. Louis, Mo., June 3.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns today knocked Cleveland off their perch atop the American league standings with a 12 to 8 victory. The Browns took a substantial lead with seven runs in the sixth inning.

While the Browns were beating out their victory, the Yankees, aided by the Cleveland defeat here, moved into first place by defeating Philadelphia.

Going into the ninth inning trailing by six runs, Cleveland staged a belated rally with a home run by Burnett which scored a runner. The side was retired before the threat became serious, however. West got a homer for the Browns. Score:

MRS. HILL SEEKS 4TH TITLE TODAY AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., June 3.—(AP)—A field expected to number 200 or more will set out tomorrow at the Blue Hills club seeking to prevent Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City from winning the trans-Mississippi golf championship for the fourth time. Mrs. Hill, who has won the title three times in four attempts and has gained fame as an international golfer, is the odds on favorite.

However, she will be challenged by the best field ever assembled in the trans-Mississippi, including the western champion, Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, who had a brilliant 74 yesterday; the defending champion, Phyllis Buchanan of Denver; Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., mid-south champion; Mrs. Charles Newbold, Wichita, Kans., 1933 trans-Mississippi champion, and present Kansas state title holder; Aniela Gorczyca, Fort Worth, Texas champion the last two years; Mrs. Jack Garrett Scott of Washington and Denver, trans-Mississippi president and Colorado champion, and 16 year old Patty Berg, Minneapolis school girl.

Cubs Hammer Reds' Pitchers for 7-1 Victory

led off with a single past W. Herman Cuyler couldn't come in fast enough to keep Koenig's short fly from becoming a single. Malone then helped himself considerably by fanning Manager O'Farrell. Comorosky followed with a line drive straight into Billy Herman's hands, and all the latter had to do was to toss to Camilli to double Koenig off first.

Malone escaped damage again in the fifth. Freitas led off with a double but the next three men did nothing.

Hartnett's eleventh homer appeared at the start of the sixth. He collected one strike before cutting loose with the swing that meant business. The ball sailed to left, cleared the wall, went across the street and plunked down far back on the tin roof of a laundry. The ball traveled about 450 feet before landing. After Gabby's heroic smack, W. Herman, English and Babe Herman all singled for another run, making the score 7 to 0.

Malone had another flirtation with trouble in the home sixth, but didn't go through with it. Bottomley singled and was forced by Pool. Koenig also singled. At this point Malone fanned O'Farrell for the second time. Pat let loose a wild pitch that moved the runners to third and second, but shortly thereafter slipped over a third strike on Comorosky.

The Reds finally got around to the matter of scoring a run in the seventh. With two out Malone pitched a slow ball to Piet, who knew it wouldn't hurt, so let it hit him. Umpire Moran permitted him to take his base. Hafey dropped a single in front of Cuyler. Bottomley lined a legitimate single to center and Piet ran home. Pool bounced to Camilli for the third out. Everything was quiet afterwards.

ARKY VAUGHAN HITS WAY INTO BIG 6 STANDING

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Floyd [Arky] Vaughan of Pittsburgh joined the big six yesterday, putting on a hitting spurt just when Joe Medwick of St. Louis struck a slump. Medwick lost nine points from his average when he failed to hit, while Vaughan gained seven by connecting twice in three times at bat. This gave him a .364 mark and last place in the sextet.

The leaders of the two leagues, Sam Leslie and Rollie Hemsley, lost one point each, but Heinie Manush equaled Vaughan's performance and gained four points.

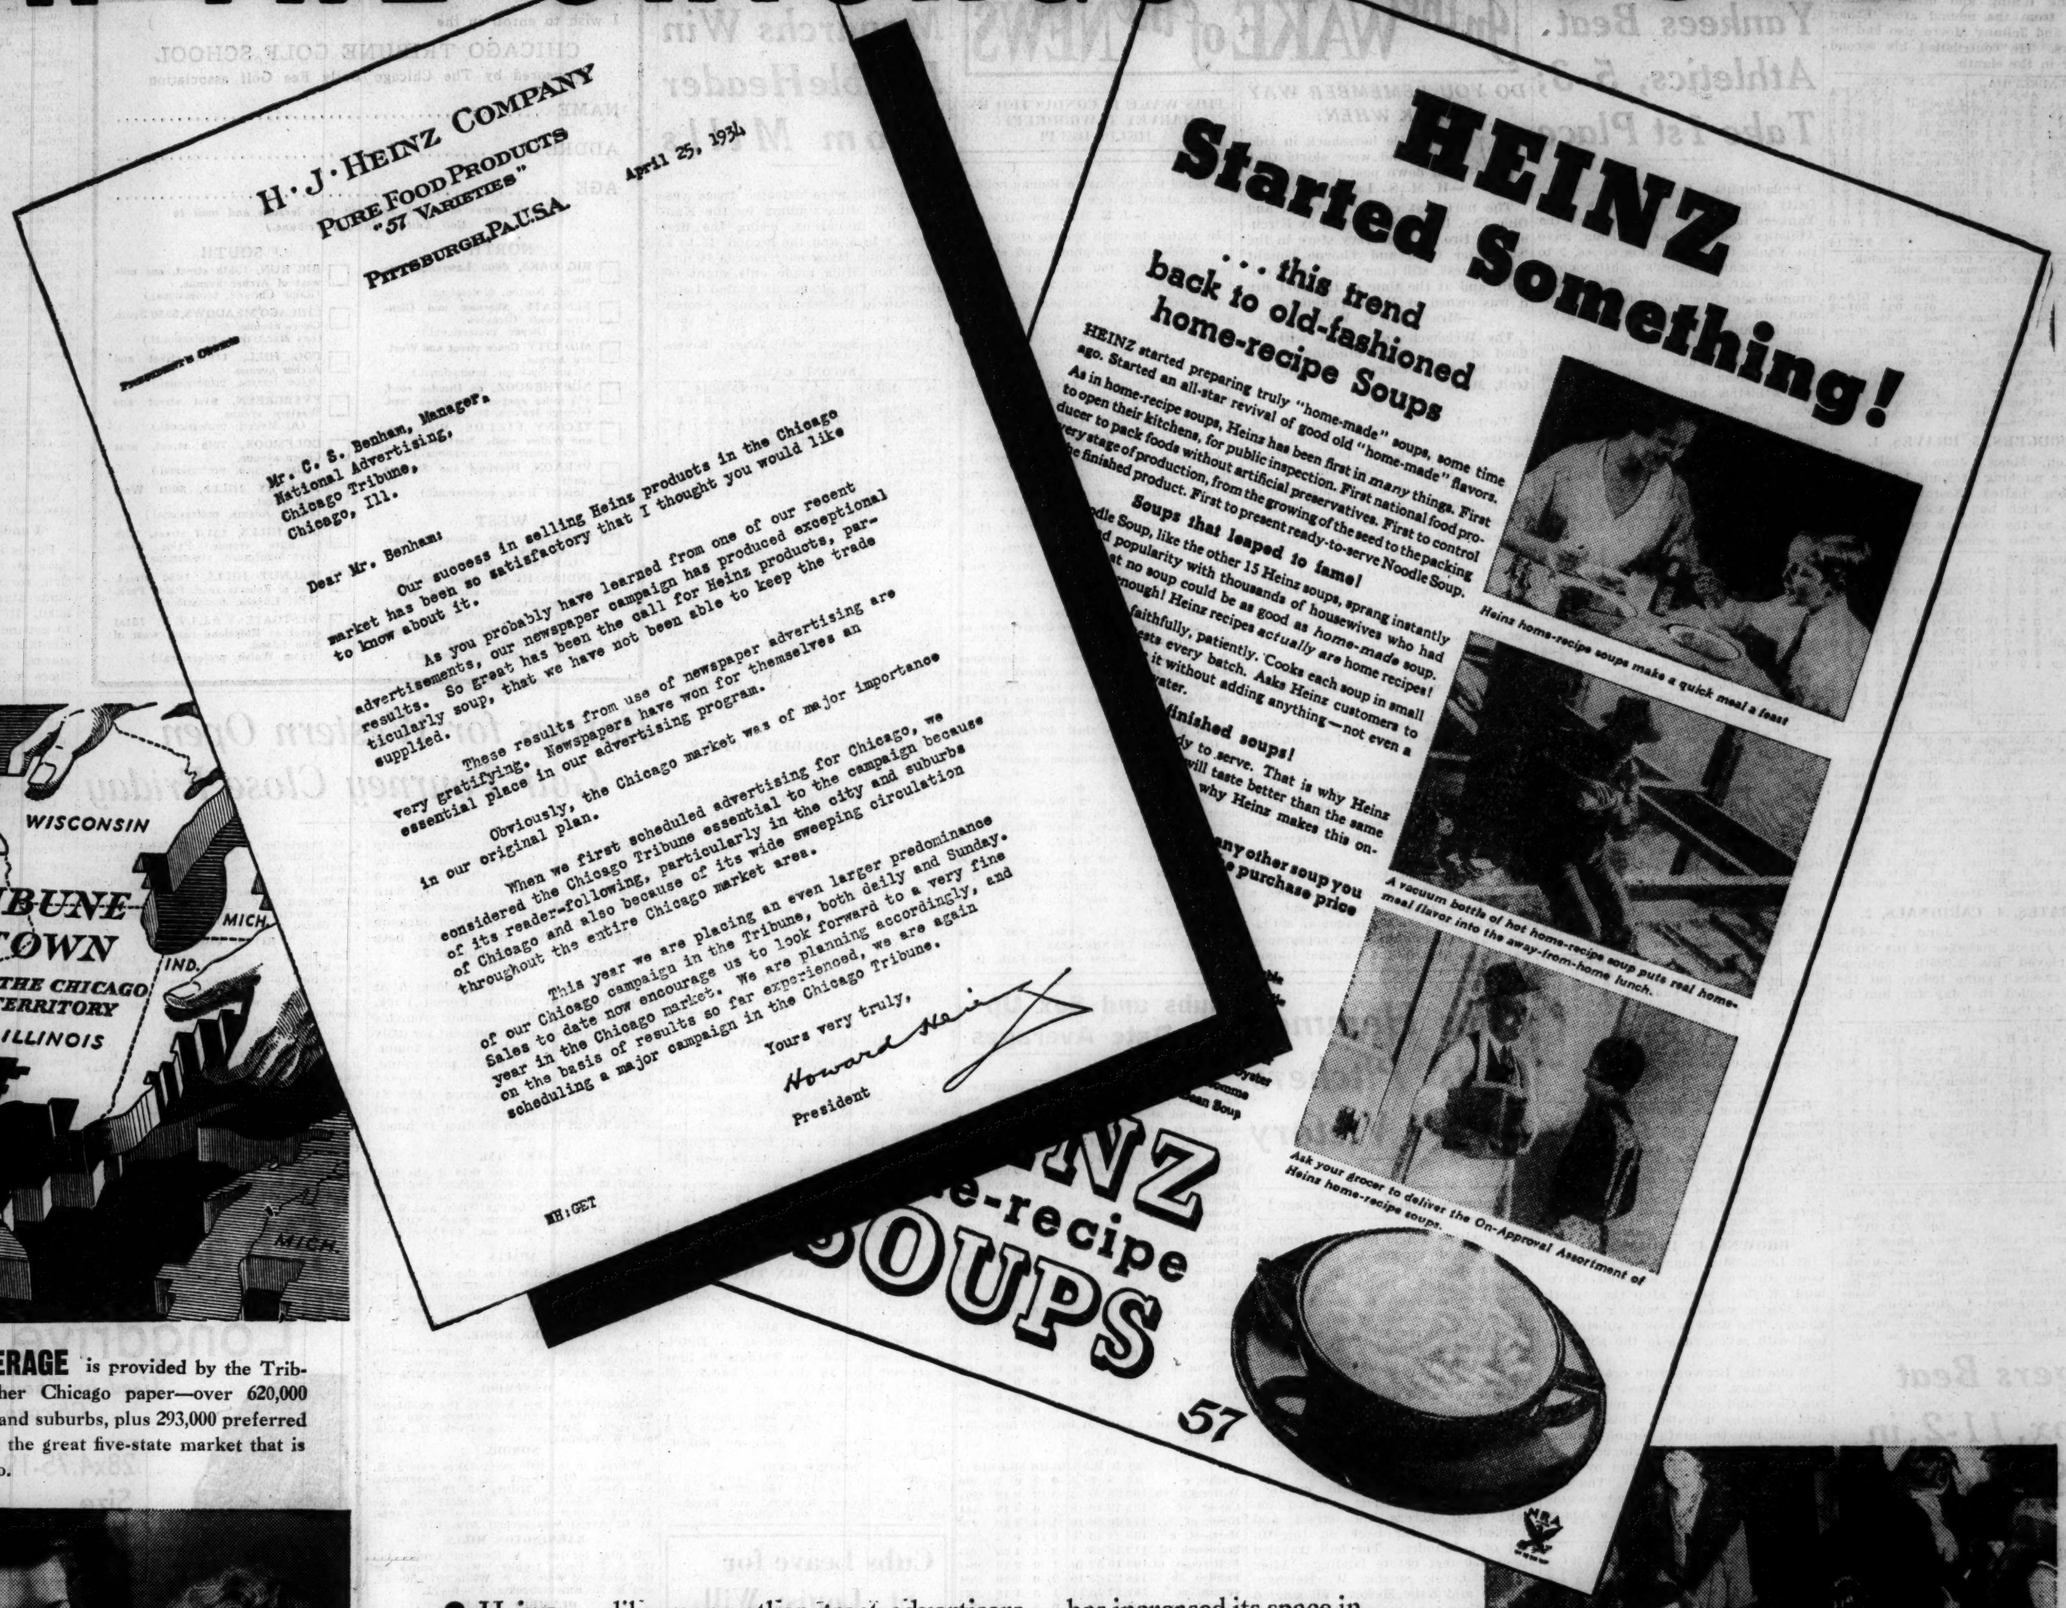
HEINZ OBTAINS EXCEPTIONAL RESULTS BY MAKING ITS MAJOR CHICAGO DRIVE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE



H·J·Heinz Company
Pure Food Products
"57 Varieties"
Pittsburgh, Pa. U.S.A.
April 25, 1934
Mr. C. S. Benham, Manager,
National Advertising,
Chicago Tribune,
Chicago, Ill.
Dear Mr. Benham:
Our success in selling Heinz products in the Chicago market has been so satisfactory that I thought you would like to know about it.
As you probably have learned from one of our recent advertisements, our newspaper campaign has produced exceptional results. So great has been the call for Heinz products, particularly soup, that we have not been able to keep the trade supplied.
These results from use of newspaper advertising are very gratifying. Newspapers have won for themselves an essential place in our advertising program.
Obviously, the Chicago market was of major importance in our original plan.
When we first scheduled advertising for Chicago, we considered the Chicago Tribune essential to the campaign because of its reader-following, particularly in the city and suburbs of Chicago and also because of its wide sweeping circulation throughout the entire Chicago market area.
This year we are placing an even larger predominance of our Chicago campaign in the Tribune, both daily and Sunday. Sales to date now encourage us to look forward to a very fine year in the Chicago market. We are planning accordingly, and on the basis of results so far experienced, we are again scheduling a major campaign in the Chicago Tribune.
Yours very truly,
Howard Heinz
President

HEINZ
Started Something!
. . . this trend back to old-fashioned home-recipe Soups
HEINZ started preparing truly "home-made" soups, some time ago. Started an all-star revival of good old "home-made" flavors. As in home-recipe soups, Heinz has been first in many things. First to open their kitchens, for public inspection. First national food producer to pack foods without artificial preservatives. First to control every stage of production, from the growing of the seed to the packing of the finished product. First to present ready-to-serve Noodle Soup.
Soups that leaped to fame!
Noodle Soup, like the other 15 Heinz soups, sprang instantly to wide popularity with thousands of housewives who had found that no soup could be as good as home-made soup. Good enough! Heinz recipes actually are home recipes! Cooks faithfully, patiently. Cooks each soup in small batches every batch. Asks Heinz customers to taste it without adding anything—not even a little water.
Heinz finished soups!
Ready to serve. That is why Heinz soups will taste better than the same soups. That is why Heinz makes this one guarantee: any other soup you buy, at any purchase price

MARKET COVERAGE is provided by the Tribune as by no other Chicago paper—over 620,000 families in the city and suburbs, plus 293,000 preferred families throughout the great five-state market that is tributary to Chicago.

FIRST CHOICE among Chicago men and women for sustained reader interest, the Chicago Tribune reaches over 620,000 city and suburban families—52% more families than are reached by and other daily newspaper.

CHICAGO RESPONDS to advertising in the Chicago Tribune—for the entire year of 1933, the Tribune led all other Chicago newspapers in amount of advertising in 36 classifications.

● Heinz . . . like many other great advertisers . . . has increased its space in the Chicago Tribune this year because of the splendid results the Tribune produced last year.

In 1933 the Tribune was third on Heinz' schedule. During the first four months of this year the Tribune was first on the schedule, carrying 37.4% of all linage placed in Chicago newspapers. In this period Heinz spent practically as much money in the Tribune as in all other Chicago newspapers combined, and 72% more than in the second newspaper.

The trend to the Tribune is as marked locally as it is nationally. The great Chicago loop department stores during the first four months of this year placed 215,373 more lines in the Tribune than in the next Chicago newspaper.

This summer the World's Fair again will draw many millions of spenders to Chicago and give Tribune advertisers even greater value. Let a Tribune man . . . now . . . show you the full power of this greatest of selling mediums in the middle west.

Chicago Tribune

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

RETAILERS KNOW that the Chicago Tribune is the most potent force in moving goods from counter to customer—23.4% more Chicago retail advertising was placed in the Tribune than in any other Chicago paper during the first four months of this year.

GROCERY ADVERTISERS during the first four months of 1934 spent more money for advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

WHEAT CROP TO FALL BELOW DOMESTIC NEED

Heavy Toll Taken by Drouth.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

One of the greatest drouths in history embraces the heart of the grain producing section of the country. Irreparable damage has already been done by intense heat and dry weather and the condition for late in May, as indicated by the private estimates was the lowest on record for that date.

As the acreage of spring wheat likely to remain for harvest is still unknown, estimates on the crop are practically valueless and all that is actually known is that the probable yield will be small. This also applies to oats and barley. The government report of July 1 may give the first indication of the actual area that will be harvested and it is expected to fall far under figures the trade has been anticipating based on the March 1 intention to plant returns.

Small Grain Crop Below Needs.

Under the most favorable weather conditions between now and harvest the small grain crops of the country are expected to be well below normal domestic requirements. Such a condition does not mean farmers will be recompensed for the short yield by an extremely high level of prices for the grain they secure. They credit this to government interference with the free operation of supply and demand in practically all leading counties. Last past week one Chicago house expressed the belief that were it not for government interference in various manners the world wheat price might be around $1.50 to $2 per bushel based on the prevailing outlook.

As factors other than weather count for little in the market at the present time violent price fluctuations which normally occur under such conditions are likely.

Estimate Due June 8.

The department of agriculture will issue its estimate on the condition of the grain crops, except corn, June 8, having advanced the date from June 11 in recognition of the extreme gravity of the drouth situation. As the private reports were made up from data sent in before the record breaking heat in the last week in May, the coming report will probably show further deterioration. The official May estimate on winter wheat proved 25,000,000 bushels below the private estimates which had been compiled from data gathered a week earlier than the government.

Deferred deliveries of wheat in Chicago last week had a range of 13⅝ to 13¾ cents, selling at new high levels for the season, and since last July when the market soared on inflation talk combined with damage reports.

Closing Prices for Week.

The close, however, showed net gains of only 6⅝ cents for the week, forecasts for showers causing a sharp recession. July finished Saturday at 98 to 98¼ cents, September at 99 to 99⅝ cents and December at $1.00⅝ to $1.01. Range of prices follows:

| | May. | July. | September. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Mon. | .94⅞-.98¼ | .92⅜-.96⅝ | .93⅞-.97⅛ |

| '33-'34 | .43¼-.74⅝ | .43⅜-.75⅞ | .45¼-.77 |

Hope for Corn Crop.

The corn crop is the last hope of farmers in the drouth area. This grain which can be planted until July 1 in the main belt and still produce a satisfactory yield has not fully reflected the destruction which has occurred in small grains and hay, and is not expected to until later in the season.

Lack of subsoil moisture over practically all of the leading corn producing sections stands out as the major influence tending to prevent a large crop being produced this year.

Corn futures gained 2¼ to 2⅜ cents for the week, closing Saturday with May at 56 to 56⅛ cents and September at 57⅞ to 58 cents. Range of prices follows:

| | May. | July. | September. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Mon. | .52⅛-.55⅝ | .54⅛-.57¼ | .56 -.59 |
| Thurs. | .56⅝-.59 | .56⅝-.61 | .58¼-.62⅝ |
| Fri. | ..... ..... | .58⅜-.64½ | .60⅝-.66½ |
| Sat. | ..... ..... | .55⅞-.59⅜ | .57⅞-.62 |
| F. wk. | .52⅛-.59 | .54⅛-.64½ | .56 -.66½ |
| pr. wk. | .48⅝-.52⅛ | .50⅜-.54⅝ | .52⅜-.56⅝ |
| Lt. yr. | .42⅞-.44½ | .44⅛-.46⅜ | .46⅜-.49¼ |
| 2 yrs. ago. | .29 -.29⅝ | .28¾-.31⅝ | .31½-.34⅛ |
| Season | .40 -.82 | .43 -.64½ | .45 -.65⅞ |
| '33-'34 | .23½-.46¼ | .25 -.48⅜ | .26⅝-.50 |

An oats crop at least 300,000,000 bushels below normal domestic disappearance is anticipated by even the most optimistic. Owing to prospects of the smallest barley and hay crops in a number of years, it is believed farm consumption this year will be so large that comparatively little oats and barley will be available for shipment to terminal markets.

Well, Banking Memories May Spoil Appetite

Austerity in architecture which may invite the confidence and cash of the average citizen when applied to banking design, drives away customers when used by the restaurateur. When the old pillared stone front quarters of the Central Trust company of Illinois, at 125 West Monroe street, were converted into a buffet, it was thought that a neon sign would bring in customers.

So many prospective customers, however, balked at the rather grim entrance that the owners decided to make it more inviting. Brightly colored tile, flower boxes and a lavish use of chromium are now being installed to offset the dark stone portals.

"We got our cue from the gay colors and modern design of World's Fair buildings," it was said. "We believe the increase in customers will more than offset the cost of the new entrance."

Invention of the Parson turbine, the Bessemer converter and other revolutionary innovations will now appear small to the average father. Conditions prevailing in the past at Christmastide which have frequently reduced the male parent to silent if not audible fury, are no more. For the General Electric company announces a multiple burning, parallel Christmas tree lamp.

Last year when one light burned out, darkening some 8 or 16 or 24 others, father spent hours attempting to locate the faulty bulb, often undoing in a few minutes hours of work in decorating the tree.

But under the new deal when one lamp burns out that is all. The others stay lighted and no frantic search ensues to discover which one went sour. The new lamps are slightly larger and burn more current, but they have a life of 500 hours, which should last through any Yule season.

A well known stock yards man told of his experience in the recent fire. He stayed at the Stock Yards inn.

"I dashed out with an armful of my belongings and threw them on the curb while I went back in for more," he related. "On my second trip out I saw a thief a half block away with my clothes and had no more than put the second armful down than another grabbed this. I knocked this thief down, and got a blow between the eyes from another one right behind him.

"So I decided to let the rest of the belongings burn and went to my sister's house with what I had saved. To top it all off, as I drove up I overheard my sister say to my two young nephews: 'Here comes your Uncle Frank, drunk as usual. He never comes here unless he is, and with two black eyes, too, tsk! tsk!'

"Well, there is one consolation. The thief who stole my clothes will never be able to wear them. I weigh about 280 pounds."

The fate of a ship recently sailing from Liverpool is a striking example of the value of experience against the ideas of theorists and specialists, Thomas I. Parkinson, president of the Equitable Life Assurance society, told agents at a recent sales meeting here.

The boat, he said, encountered a terrific storm. The captain called all officers to evolve means to save the passengers and valuable cargo. In the midst of their deliberations twelve professors, a part of the passenger list, entered the cabin and announced the only solution was full speed ahead.

"The captain shook his head doubtfully," Parkinson continued, "realizing such a course was contrary to good navigation, but was finally prevailed upon to comply. He issued the necessary orders. The ship soon foundered. Other liners immediately hurried to the spot but found nothing for three days. Then they encountered the twelve professors hanging to a float. The professors insisted their idea was good theoretically and refused to sink under it."

Dry weather is now being blamed for the increased number of small eggs received at Chicago during the last week.

Price of Wolfram Reported as Jumping to $600 a Ton

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 3.—The price of wolfram, or tungsten ore, of which the Cantonese government enjoys a practical monopoly, recently jumped from $350 to $600 a ton, according to a report from Canton today. The report stated that heavy purchases were recently made by 13 foreign countries. The leading purchasers were France, Germany, Italy, and Japan. The metal is said to be used extensively in the munitions industry.

$12,940,056 of Railroad Credit Corp. Loans Repaid

New York, June 3.—Of the $73,691,368 in loans made by the Railroad Credit corporation, $12,990,056 has been repaid by borrowing carriers, either through cash or credits, up to June 1, it was announced today. This leaves $60,751,312 in outstanding loans as of that date.

STEEL OUTPUT RISES DESPITE LAG IN AUTOS

Expected Increase in Prices Is Factor.

Despite the downward trend in steel consumption, due largely to declining automobile production, specifications and shipments increased and mill operations were lifted 3 points to 60 per cent of capacity last week, the magazine Steel reports.

The rise was due to two factors, according to the report: "The first of these factors is the reluctance of consumers to lose their equities in second quarter contracts, with the certainty of higher prices beginning July 1 than they are now paying, and the second is the artificial stimulus supplied by fears of a steel strike."

Steelmakers are taking a hopeful view, with the new steel code going into effect June 11. The revised code grants certain concessions to labor, as the administration is attempting to avert a strike, scheduled for June 16.

File Maximum Prices.

The producers are given ten days within which to file prices that will be the maximum that can be charged during the particular quarter. "Apparently prices will be no higher than named at the outset, but there will always be the possibility of them going lower," the report says. It is believed that due regard to costs and ethical standards will outweigh any unfair competition.

Steelmakers are taking heavy shipments of scrap, but prices have fallen in Chicago, Detroit, and Cleveland, due to the absence of new buying. The magazine Steel's iron and scrap composite has dropped 38 cents to $10.33. However, the downward trend in scrap prices at Pittsburgh has halted for the first time in six weeks, and pig iron shipments are increasing at a fair rate.

Pig Iron Output Rises.

The daily average output of pig iron during May was 14.5 per cent higher than in April and the largest since April, 1931. The total output of 2,054,507 tons was 18.3 per cent above the preceding month. The total production of 7,912,747 tons for the first five months of the year was a gain of 149 per cent over the corresponding period of last year. The stacks active May 31 were 115, a net increase of six in the month.

With adverse holiday influences, the shape awards dropped to 9,006 tons, the survey says. Substantial steel tonnage will be required for the proposed construction of 100 tankships in the next two years, according to a coöperative plan of the navy department and the shipping board.

Eastern Mills Expand.

Railroad equipment requirements have caused eastern mills to expand production. Domestic freight car awards at 21,424 for the first five months of the year were the largest since 1930.

Steel works operations in Chicago last week advanced 3 points to 65 per cent as compared with 2 to 63 for Youngstown, 3 to 53 for Buffalo, 1 to 79 for Cleveland, and a half point to 45½ in Eastern Pennsylvania. Operations were reduced one point to 50 per cent in Pittsburgh.

VOTERS APPROVE $44,670,750 BONDS IN LAST MONTH

New York, June 3.—Voters throughout the country authorized a total of $44,670,750 of state and municipal bonds in May, the largest monthly total since December, 1933, according to figures compiled by the Daily Bond Buyer.

Among the largest issues authorized were $10,000,000 State of Missouri, $16,100,000 City of St. Louis, $4,000,000 City of Cleveland, and $4,572,000 State of Rhode Island.

During the month the voters rejected proposals to issue $44,858,396 of bonds, of which the major issue was $38,000,000 State of Michigan.

HOME LOAN BANK SYSTEM REPORTS 2,501 MEMBERSHIP

Washington, D. C., June 3.—(AP)—Membership in the Home Loan bank system was announced today at 2,501 by the Federal Home Loan bank board. The board said all twelve regional banks had been making a profit for six months and that as a consequence interest rates on advances to members had been cut. The banks were opened in October, 1932.

Home mortgage assets of member institutions, predominantly building and loan associations, were estimated at 3 billion dollars. The board said the members held 197,426 shares of regional bank stock, entitling them to a $231,859,642 line of credit for general requirements and mortgage loans to home owners.

"In view of the voluntary nature of membership in the system," the board said in a statement, "it's growth since the regional banks opened is believed to be without precedent in the history of central banking institutions, here or abroad, and reflects the value of this mortgage credit reserve structure to private home financing agencies throughout the United States."

Building and loan associations comprised 2,292 of the 2,501 members on June 1. Three life insurance companies, nine mutual savings banks, 55 coöperative banks, 126 federal savings and loan associations, and 16 homestead associations are included in the system.

EXPECTS CHINA WILL CONTINUE TO IMPORT FLOUR

Portland, Ore., June 3.—(AP)—The Chinese market for foreign flour may decline, but will not be totally lost despite imposition of an import duty of 20 to 25 per cent, reports from China indicated today.

China undoubtedly will continue to import quantities of wheat to mix with its own wheat for flour manufacture, said a report from Julian Arnold, American commercial attaché in China, to the Portland office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Alarm was expressed by wheat producers, exporters and flour millers when the Chinese government turned down the proposed $4,000,000 flour loan from the United States.

Although efforts are understood to be under way to effect a change of mind on the part of the Chinese in regard to the flour deal, it is felt that the government export subsidy plan will permit exportation of wheat by private interests to China for milling purposes.

Arnold's report points out that China is a large wheat producer, and is also a large producer and consumer of flour. During the last few years China has imported 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 bushels of wheat annually for milling purposes.

DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM IS SEEN AS OUTMODED BY CREDIT DIRECTOR

New York, June 3.—(AP)—Brace Bennett, director of the National Association of Credit Men, stated today that the annual convention of the association in Los Angeles on June 11 would give considerable attention to problems arising from an outmoded distribution system obtaining between wholesalers and retailers.

"If it were not for the extraordinary problems of distribution at this time," he said, "our credit problems would be small. The chaotic state of the merchandising field has produced most of the credit evils and abuses about which our members are concerned.

"For the last 10 years competition in the retail field has been becoming increasingly keen. Only the more efficient and better situated retailers are able to survive. When retailers fail the manufacturers, wholesalers and banks are involved in heavy losses.

"The worst of this situation is that as fast as one ill equipped retailer fails, another takes his place in the same location. The thing which has the credit men worried is that bad debt losses through bankruptcy have mounted from $170,000,000 in 1920 to more than $1,000,000,000 last year.

"Discussion at the convention will approach this problem along two main lines: development of the credit interchange system to make possible great discrimination in extending credit, and development of closer coöperation between wholesalers and retailers by means of creditor coöperation within individual industries."

LATE REACTION CANCELS EARLY GAINS ON CURB

New York, June 3.—(AP)—The curb market registered little change last week. Mild improvement in the first two sessions was canceled by a reaction following the Memorial day holiday. Extreme dullness continued throughout the period, and transfers which averaged around 125,000 shares for each full session, were shared in line with the previous week.

Utilities and metals shared in the early improvement. Alcohols were dull while oils ruled narrow and irregular. Specialties met light offerings.

New National Bank Will Be Opened in Bloomington

Bloomington, Ill., June 3.—[Special.]—The National Bank of Bloomington will open the latter part of this week, giving Bloomington its first national bank since the closing of all banks during the nation-wide moratorium in March, 1933. Grover C. Helm is president of the bank, which, it is said, will have a cash liquidity of 110 per cent.

Trade Holds Steady; Some Lines Expand

New York, June 3.—(AP)—While business leaders expressed some concern over strike threats and curtailment of purchasing power in the drouth areas last week, business statistics continued to register well maintained volumes, with further slight expansion appearing in some lines.

Memorial day holiday requirements boosted retail trade early in the week. Buying of seasonal merchandise was helped all through the period by warm weather. The slight improvement noted in wholesale buying last week was extended, according to Dun & Bradstreet, with buying for autumn needs gaining momentum.

One of the most conspicuous gains of the week was a jump of 3 percentage points in steel ingot production to 60 per cent of capacity, as estimated by "Steel," but in view of the exceptional forces behind it, this showing failed to inspire confidence.

Inventory Buying Aids.

The gain was attributed chiefly to buying for inventory under the old price schedules, in expectation of higher prices after July 1, and to laying in supplies as protection against any interruption of deliveries by labor troubles. With so much steel going into inventories, the industry felt that a sharp recession was likely after July 1.

Weekly statistics of electric power production and the movement of railway freight, however, were more encouraging. Improvements over a year ago is narrowing, because of the sharp upswing in progress at this time in 1933, but both carloadings and power output showed contra-seasonal gains over the preceding week. Moody's seasonally adjusted index for carloadings [based on 1923 as 100] rose 0.6 of a point to 61.5, and for power output, 0.2 of a point to 108.0.

Car Production Lower.

Automobile production last week was substantially lower, reflecting the holiday, but retail sales continue to hold up well for this time of year While sales of cars as a whole are expected to show normal recessions this month, some manufacturers are trying to stimulate the market by introducing lower priced markets, and the industry looks for a fairly good month. Cram estimated production for the holiday week at 54,185 units off 22,096 from the full week preceding.

The textile industry in the main is operating at reduced schedules, with cotton mills facing a strike threat as a result of the plan to cut output 25 per cent during coming weeks to work off excessive stocks. An exception to the slack tendency is the knitting mill division, where capacity operations are reported on bathing suits. The wool goods markets are said to be showing some inclination to revive again. Offerings of fall lines are being delayed somewhat by uncertainty over raw material prices.

OVER 4½ BILLION U. S. SECURITIES MATURE IN YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 3.—Obligations of the United States government which will mature within twelve months amount to $4,640,407,100. They consist of treasury certificates of indebtedness, notes, and non-interest bearing discount bills.

The fourth Liberty 4¼s outstanding have been reduced to approximately $4,300,000,000. Of this amount $1,200,000,000, representing two series, has been called for redemption on Oct. 15, and an offer of exchange is expected soon.

The first Liberty 4¼s are not callable until Dec. 15, and then only if notice is given by Sept. 15. This issue is outstanding in the amount of $335,981,000. The Liberty 3½s, outstanding in the amount of $1,329,226,350, are likewise callable on Dec. 15 if notice is given by Sept. 15.

DECLINE SENDS STOCKS CLOSE TO YEAR'S LOW

Selling Side Favored by News of Day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 3.—Bearishness continues to rule the stock market. Prices sold off every day but one last week, finishing yesterday's abbreviated trading session almost 3 points under their level of the preceding Saturday.

The steady, persistent decline has now borne the averages down perilously close to their so-called 1934 bottoms bumped on May 14 and brokerage house comment betrays considerable anxiety over the market's ability to hold above that important resistance level in the test apparently at hand. Such terms as "critical area," "caution" and "suspension of judgment" are being emphasized more and more in the professional advice of the day.

News Favors Selling Side.

The news of the hour obviously favors the selling side as much as ever, what with its daily reminder of the tremendous crop damage resulting from the widespread drouths out west, fresh threats by labor to tie up industry by strikes and the "tapering off" of business due to seasonal or other causes.

But there is a large body of professional opinion which holds that the market is thoroughly "sold out" and that once congress packs up and goes home, and granting that some way will be found to avert the threatened steel and other strikes, as many believe there will, the way would be cleared for a slow recovery movement to anticipate—in the absence of other visible causes of celebration—a possible fall pickup in business. For something of this reason many brokers are cautioning their clients that the threatened violation of the year's lows would not necessarily mean the establishment of a major trend for the rest of the summer—or even an intermediate one for that matter.

Street Is Confused.

In other words, opinion in the street remains in pretty much the same confused state it has been in for the last two months or so, with many big time traders indulging themselves in an early summer vacation, others idling about and that considerable element popularly known as the rank and file leaving it to the professionals as usual.

The highlight of the week's market news, the 10 cent rise in wheat, had no visible effect whatever on stock speculation. The reason was obvious: The added income to the "lucky" few from dollar wheat will be more than offset from all indications by the loss to the drouth smitten many with none of the previous grain to sell. Another front page item of the period, the arrival of the fleet in New York harbor, was rated as a bullish development in some quarters on the theory that it may be used to stir up the country's patriotism and mobilize it anew for recovery and also for the public support it may bring to a larger navy program which Wall street would favor, it is said.

Passage of the stock exchange regulation had already been too heavily discounted to have much effect on speculation. Brokers feel that the new measure will hurt their business and will bear down on prices, regardless of the fundamentals of the business situation, but they have been selling on that probability for months. Word that the textile controversy was on the verge of settlement was instrumental in tilting price trends somewhat in the final thirty minutes of trading Saturday.

WAGNER LABOR BILL DISTURBS STEEL INDUSTRY

Doesn't Prevent Strikes, Says E. F. Weir.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 3.—The steel industry has been gravely unsettled by the proposed Wagner labor bill, which would intensify industrial strife throughout the country, E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel corporation, declared in an interview. The revised steel code, which was approved by President Roosevelt last Wednesday, is not a factor in this unsettlement, Mr. Weir said. Increases in costs under the revised code and changes in the price provisions are unimportant, he declared.

Contrary to the statements of its supporters, the Wagner bill would not prevent strikes, Mr. Weir said, since the measure states that it does not limit the right of workers to strike. Actually, he said, the bill would tend to turn industry over to the control of outside unions.

Would Offset Victory.

According to steel executives, passage of the Wagner bill would invalidate the victory which Mr. Weir won over the national labor board last Tuesday when the federal District court at Wilmington, Del., refused to grant an injunction to restrain the Weirton Steel company, subsidiary of National Steel, from interfering with an independent election of spokesmen for collective bargaining under the labor board's supervision. Mr. Weir has thus far successfully fought the board's efforts to supervise the election of workers' representatives which are held by the company union at the Weirton plant. He has also fought recognition of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers.

Under the Wagner bill the labor board has sweeping powers to determine the manner in which representatives for collective bargaining shall be chosen. It is the contention of Mr. Weir and other steel leaders that thus to deprive the local company, or "inside" unions of the right to select their representatives on their own volition and in their own manner would produce discord among the employés and between them and their employers, and would set the stage for the intimidation of workers by outside union organizers.

Steel Men Support Fight.

Recognizing the importance of Mr. Weir's fight against interference with the workers' elections, leaders of the steel industry gathered at the American Iron and Steel institute last Tuesday, spontaneously applauded when word was received of the ruling of the court in his favor.

The steel code, as revised, does not contain any new provision which should curtail the earning power of the steel companies in any important way, Mr. Weir said yesterday. Pointing to the fact that wages in the industry have been established under the code at 5 to 6 per cent more than the 1929 level, Mr. Weir said that the code would continue to make an important contribution to improved conditions.

"One of the new labor provisions of the code, establishing the eight hour day unconditionally for the entire industry, has been in effect since last Nov. 1, when it was adopted by the board of administrators of the steel code," Mr. Weir said. "None of the other provisions dealing with wages and rates of pay is of any importance.

Basing Point Change Minor.

"The change in the basing point system of establishing prices under the code is minor and will not curtail the profits of the steel companies. Under the revised code several new basing points were designated from which freight charges to the point of delivery must be computed.

"The employé representation plan provided by the company union is functioning satisfactorily. The Wagner bill would permit the labor board to hold elections of employé representatives at any time and to set up its own procedure for such elections.

"This is the very heart of the issue. Under the employé representation plans now in effect a definite procedure is established by the workers themselves dealing with the place and the time of elections. The Wagner bill would mean the end of the present procedure."

ASSERTS RUSSIA PRODUCES MORE GOLD THAN U. S.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, June 3.—[Special.]—Soviet production of gold, which is one of the answers of the U. S. S. R. to the credit blockade abroad, has now surpassed that of both the United States and Canada and is second to that of Transvaal, according to a statement issued today by A. Serebrovsky, chief of the gold industries. Furthermore, M. Serebrovsky said, "the unequaled richness of the gold deposits of the soviet union and the rapid growth of the gold mining industry justify the claim that in the near future the U. S. S. R. will be able to exceed the Transvaal's production, thus taking first place in the world.

It was reported through the soviet press recently that soviet gold production last year was 100,000,000 gold rubles, twice the annual production before the revolution. This figure, far from being an exaggeration, probably is too low. Certain well informed foreign observers here compute the 1933 production at 114,000,000 rubles, nearly $100,000,000 at the present official rate of exchange.

M. Serebrovsky asserted that while great progress had been made in recent years in modernizing and mechanizing the gold mining methods in the soviet union, much more improvement is possible and production can be greatly accelerated when transportation facilities are improved.

GERMANY SEEKS INTEREST CUT ON POST-WAR LOANS

Debts Under Dawes and Young Plans Included.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, June 3.—Although the German debt conference ended with a compromise solution, the success of this proposal will largely depend on two supplementary negotiations already under way between Germany and some of her creditors.

One negotiation concerns the reich loans, which include the Dawes and Young loans. Hialmar Schacht, president of the reichsbank, has proposed to the Bank for International Settlements a reduction of the interest to half of the contracted rate. In return he offered to raise to the same level the per cent of the cash payment on private long term and medium term debts. Schacht's proposal is understood to have been sent before the German government formally approached the government's guaranteeing the reparation loans.

Britain and France Balk.

So far the response has been disappointing, the British being even more insistent than the French on full payment. The reichsbank president's threat of a complete moratorium after July 1 seems to have merely rallied the forces of the opposition. British, French, and Swedish acceptance of a compromise solution depends on the satisfaction of the governments regarding the service on reich loans.

The second set of negotiations concerns the demand of the Swiss and Dutch for continuation of the 100 per cent cash payment made to British nationals heretofore under the bilateral agreements expiring June 30. The United States and British governments have protested against this discrimination and Washington's protest still stands.

Swiss Demands Submitted.

Nevertheless, the Swiss have formally submitted their demand to the German government and discussions regarding it are in progress. The Dutch are expected to follow shortly.

According to the Deutsche Allegemeine "Germany understands the unwillingness of Switzerland and Holland to furnish through their trade foreign exchange to pay the countries which are bad customers for German goods." These "bad customers" include the United States and the British empire.

If Germany continues her "discrimination" the transfer conference's compromise solution will be in danger of rejection by all the other creditors, including the United States.

Denver and Rio Grande.

Investors' Guide: Did the Denver and Rio Grande pay its Feb. 1, 1934, interest on its 5 per cent bonds, due 1955? What information on it can you give me?—L. V. M.

Answer: Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad company's main line runs from Denver to Salt Lake City, a predominantly mining territory. Naturally, the bulk of its trafic is products of mines. In 1932 such products contributed about 60 per cent of total tonnage, with bituminous coal from the Utah coal areas accounting for more than half of that. Manufactured goods accounted for about 17 per cent of trafic and agricultural products, 20 per cent.

The territory is sparsely settled and trafic at best is not heavy. The road is heavily capitalized.

Earnings have reversed the downward trend which was evidenced from 1929 to May, 1933, but they still fall far short of covering fixed charges.

Gross for the first quarter of 1934 was $4,043,000 and net loss was $765,000. Only 46 per cent of charges was earned. In the corresponding 1933 period loss was $1,249,000. Only 11 per cent of charges was earned.

On March 31, 1934, current assets were $7,073,000, and current liabilities were $12,031,000. The company has had to lean heavily on the Reconstruction Finance corporation for assistance.

In 1933 the road earned 62 per cent of its charges and in 1932 54 per cent. The company fell just short of covering its charges in 1931, while in 1930 they were covered 1.80 times.

The $29,000,000 general mortgage 5s, due 1955, are secured by a mortgage on practically all properties of the company subject to about $70,000,000 prior liens. The interest due Feb. 1, 1934, was not paid. The management has asked the holders of the bonds to withhold presentation of coupons maturing Feb. 1 and Aug. 1, 1934, and Feb. 1, 1935, until Dec. 31, 1935, in order to avoid declaration of default. By May 15, 1934, about 43 per cent of the holders had so agreed.

Weakened current position, unimpressive earnings, and poor lien position of the bonds, in addition to uncertainty of interest payments, make them quite speculative.

MEN

IF THESE INCOMES INTEREST YOU AND IF YOU BELIEVE YOU CAN LEARN TO FOLLOW SUCCESSFUL PROCEDURE APPLY MONDAY MORNING. WE HAVE POSITIONS OF SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY FOR MEN WHO CAN LEARN HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY CONDUCT OUR BUSINESS.

These positions are permanent, immediate, substantial. Men selected will have to take time to learn, and during this time may have to be satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125.00 to $200.00 per month, if necessary. Amazing salability of our newest mechanical invention makes possible the addition of a few more men to our organization and after the right ways of working and thinking are learned and applied makes possible substantial increases in weekly pay checks.

Some idea of how powerfully salable our product is, of how well it meets present day demands, was indicated again at our local meetings last week. For instance, a former Northwestern student, G. M., made $91.84 last week. In the few months he has been with us he has had 7 weeks in which he has made $100 a week and over. J. V. C., who was an upholsterer, went out on Memorial Day and made over $54. He makes money consistently in this business, and has many weeks of $100 or better. P. T., new in this work, made better than $14 in a day, and earned $65 in his first week with us. These comm. checks can be counted on, as this is a powerful, dependable company that encourages you to increase your income.

At no time during the entire period our company has been in business has it been so successful as at present. This is true of our local branches, of our national business from coast to coast, and likewise of our world business. But such progress has been the history of our business since the invention of this wonderful electric unit.

The first model of this product was introduced in Europe and captured one market after another as fast as organizations could be employed and manufacturing extended. Today we have five great European factories and our sales there are greater than the combined sales of all other companies attempting to compete in those markets. Less than three years ago the present model of this product was introduced in the United States and the results to date are of most astonishing success with a large factory in this country now and will be our fifth consecutive record sales year!

No previous sales experience required. We teach you how to sell this product in this tremendous market. Even though you have never sold anything before, have had no idea that you have sales ability, this may mean your opportunity. We advise you to come in and take a look at this wonderful proposition and we will talk with you as to the possibilities of your learning the business. No charge is made for instruction and there is no expense of any kind in learning up the work. We want West Side and West Suburban men.

Other examples of what men make in this work may be exemplified by R. S., who drove a milk route for years, and in the week months he has been with us has many, many weeks of $100 and over. Last Tuesday he made over $40. M. P. J., who had never known any business outside of teaching in management, made $43.50 the same day and has numerous $100 weeks. G. B., a man three years in this business, made $414 for May. G. B., who had worked for years as a printer, laboring nights for $22 a week, got $101 as his check last week.

We are interested in getting good men who are honest, ambitious, industrious and who really want a genuine opportunity to make something of themselves and to make real money regularly and honestly for their families. To such men this opportunity will mean great happiness and success.
